STICKS TO OLD CUSTOMS.

Supreme Court of United States Is Wedded to Its Traditions.

The supreme court of the United States does business on an antiquated plan. While it is undoubtedly the most dignified body of men in this country, if not in the world, it has its peculiarities, and they are striking ones. One of the traditions of the court prevents newspaper correspondents from attending the session of the court in their professional capacity. Provision is made for a representative of each of the great press associations, but the correspondents have to push and crowd in behind the rear railing with the hundreds of other spectators. Usually they have to stand up, and if they are seen taking notes an attendant escorts them to the door. The result is that the 200 or more correspondents have to depend on their memory for their reports of proceedings in the supreme court room.

There is another court custom which prevents correspondents from seeing the opinions handed down until they have secured authority from the judges who severally deliver them from the bench. This authority is not always given, the judge exercising his own discretion about it. Not infrequently the correspondent has to go to the home of the judge to get the written authority, and perhaps by the time he gets back to the capitol the office of the clerk of the court is closed.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Georgetown's Unique Fence.

Georgetown has nothing which better proves her age than the curious old fence rails in front of three houses on the north side of P street, between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth streets. They are rarely pointed out to the visitor, but there is a certain amount of interest attached to them.

When the English troops looted the city in 1812 they burned, in addition to the capitol, a great quantity of arms and ammunition at the navy yard. The stocks of the rifles were destroyed by the fire, but the thrifty citizens of Georgetown made use of the barrels. They were sunk into cement, joined together, and a small spike was placed in each muzzle. An ornamental fence was the result.

Indentations on the barrels showing where the sights were removed and where the stocks were fastened may be seen today. The old rifles are defending the property from the footsteps of marauding children, even as they belched flame at the advancing British nine decades ago.—Washington Times.

Giant Mica Crystals.

The peninsula of India is famous for the excellence of its mica deposits. On account of its delicacy mica quickly suffers from the crushing effects of earth movements, and the superiority of the Indian deposits is ascribed to the geologically long and perfect quiescence that the great peninsula has enjoyed. In the Nellore district crystals, or "books," of muscovite mica have been obtained measuring ten feet across the basal planes. Usually they are much smaller, and even in India the stability of the earth has not been sufficiently continuous to prevent the destruction of large quantities of this delicate and valuable mineral.

Bryn Mawr's New Librarian.

Announcement is made of the appointment to the librarianship of Bryn Mawr college of Miss Isadore Gilbert Mudge of Brooklyn. Miss Mudge took the degree of Ph. B. at Cornell university in 1897 and that of B. L. S. from the New York State Library school in 1900. She has since been reference librarian and assistant professor of library economy at the University of Illinois. Miss Mudge succeeds Miss Isabel Ely Lord, for six years librarian of the college, who resigns the post to enter public library work.

"Bismarck's Right Hand."

Robert von Keudell, who recently died, aged nearly eighty, used to be called "Bismarck's right hand," and he was wont to say that he and Bucher were the busiest men in the department of the exterior. He was noted for his musical talent and often played for Bismarck. His memory was so good that he could play the piano for hours without notes. While he was ambassador at Rome his house was the rendezvous of the artistic world.

Goats.

The United States is almost a goatless country compared with others, and the importations of goatskins, young and old, aggregate $35,000,000 a year, which represents the slaughter of 17,000,000 goats and kids. Germany has 3,000,000 head, Spain 5,000,000, Austria 2,000,000 and France, Bulgaria and Italy about 1,500,000 each. In Turkey there are six goats for each person, the goat being the most important source of income.

Iron In Shipbuilding.

It is stated that iron is gradually displacing steel for shipbuilding purposes in England. The prices of iron plates are quoted as $1.22 a ton dearer than steel. Experience has shown that iron is less subject to corrosion from the action of salt water and the atmosphere than steel, and consequently the life of an iron ship is longer than that of a steel ship. Manufacturers are trying to produce lighter iron of greater tensile strength.

Millionaires of New York.

It is estimated that there are in New York city today 1,320 millionaires as against 294 in 1880 and 25 in 1853. There were no millionaires in New York 100 years ago. The first person to reach that distinction was John Jacob Astor, who became a millionaire about 1820. Six years before that the richest man in the city was Isaac Clason, who swore that he was worth $750,000.
