look forward to every afternoon when even the unexpected opening of the cell door was a real pleasure.

"In this prison the daily breakfast was a piece of dry black bread and ersatz coffee. Lunch consisted of brown, noodle or barley soup or a sour brew of dehydrated carrots. Dinner was again dry black bread and ersatz coffee, with a piece of cheese added as a special treat on Saturdays only. Occasionally jam or marmalade was spread on the bread.

"Sessions with the secret police became less and less frequent during the last few weeks in Aexanderplatz. They never mistreated me. But shortly before I was transferred to another prison I was told flatly: 'You will sit until you confess. You will soften up. You'll be soft as butter. We've got plenty of time.'

"The United Press man wrote that on May 3 he was moved to the Moabit prison where 'prison routine was much more strict. There was no possibility of clandestine exchanges with other prisoners. We were not allowed to smoke. But the food was better.'

Describing the two visits he had from consular officials, Hottel said 'the first during my first week in Moabit—took place in the presence of German officials and we were allowed to talk nothing but German and were forbidden to discuss my case.'

"The only other outsider I saw during my four months in prison was an attorney retained by the United Press and the American embassy who called twice."

Carleton Women's Institute attended

The following members of Carleton Women's Institute attended the W. I. Convention held last week in Tryon. Mrs. Frank Quigley, Mrs. Edna Howatt, Mrs. Stewart MacLacken, Mrs. Nathan Bell, Mrs. Boyd Lowther, Mrs. Joseph Wadman, Misses Thelma Quigley and Hattie Ross, Mrs. Frank Muttart and Mrs. Kenneth Muttart, Misses Thelma Quigley and Hattie Ross put on a comic dialogue in costume entitled "A Trip to New York."

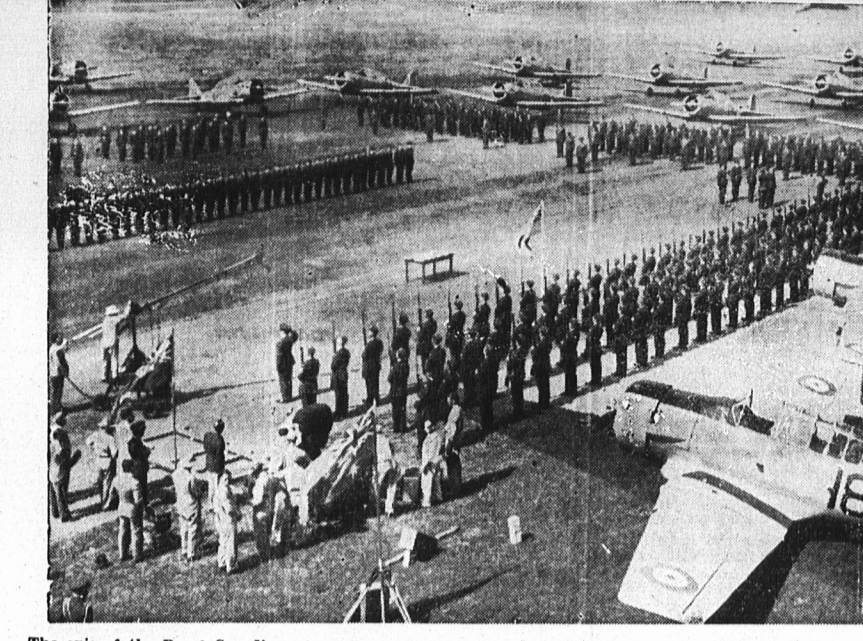

Rev. L. P. Archibald of Lockport, N. S., a former pastor on the Bedouque charge, preached very acceptably to a large congregation at the United Church, Cape Traverse on Sunday afternoon, July 27th. He took as his subject, "Following the Sunrise Trail," basing his remarks on Numbers 21:11 and they journeyed toward the sunrise. An enjoyable feature of the service was a solo, "My Heavenly Father Watches Over Me," by Mary Muttart.

The United Church at Cape Traverse was struck by lightning during the severe electrical storm last Friday afternoon. The ball on top of the spire was split, and the lightning, travelling downward, broke the windows and smashed through the tower in several places, setting it on fire. The incense thanks of the congregation is due to the residents of Cape Traverse of all denominations, who gathered quickly to fight the fire, climbing up into the tower to hack away the burning timbers. Had the church been struck at night it would undoubtedly have burned to the ground before help could arrive.

its greater in size than any battle of the first great war. Military yardsticks of even recent war experience are all but useless to measure its ebb and flow.

Yet out of those tragic six weeks one lesson of grim significance for Hitler has come. It is that Russian morale at the fighting front or behind the lines remains unshaken. The vital resources in Russia at which Hitler grasped seem even farther from his reach than they were six weeks ago. His hopes of seizing by force from Russia the oil and the food stocks he desperately needs to consolidate his continental victories are waning, not brightening. The spectre of winter warfare in Russia is dogging his generals.

Every Berlin war report and Hitler's own cryptic official progress bulletins reflect increasing fanatical Russian resistance, both by the army and civilians. Well authenticated neutral eye-witness reports tell of blasted grain fields in the Ukraine breadbasket surrendered only grudgingly and still teeming with guerrilla groups far in the rear of Nazi front lines.

Russian oil wells, probably the objective above all else sought by Hitler when he turned Transylvania question again has risen to embitter Rumanian-German relations.

This source said the Rumanians were promised not only Bessarabia but also a readjustment of Transylvanian territory for joining in the attack on Russia.

Having regained Bessarabia, the Rumanians were said now to wish to stop hard fighting. To goad them on, the Germans were reported to be threatening that if the Rumanians quit they may lose more of Transylvania to Hungary, which received a big slice last year.

Arrivals from Greece said Germans there are openly contemptuous of the Italian allies who have succeeded them as occupation forces, but that the Germans in turn seem to be hated by all other axis associates.

Germany's difficulties in Russia were highlighted by a Reuters news agency story from Ankara today quoting military observers as saying that "complete chaos" reigns behind the German advance lines.

Contrary to German reports of "encirclement" of Russian forces by these deep thrusts, these observers said the Germans are con-

British Official Tells U. S. of Canada's effort

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Malcolm Macdonald, British High Commissioner to Canada, said today that Canada is devoting more than 40 per cent of her national income to active prosecution of the war and that about 16 per cent of this amount is being used to pay for supplies sent to Great Britain.

At a press conference, which he said was designed to clear up some "misconceptions" of the Canadian war effort prevalent in the United States, the high commissioner also declared that:—

1. One hundred thousand Canadian troops now are in Britain at strategic points of possible invasion.
2. All young men between the ages of 21 and 24 are being conscripted for home defence for the duration of the war. After four months of intensive military training they are sent to military posts to relieve regular army forces for overseas duty.
3. Canada is getting all the men she requires for overseas service through voluntary recruiting. The last call netted 1-2 times the number requested.
4. Thousands of youthful pilots, Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders, Britons and Americans—are in dozens of air training schools throughout the Dominion. Twice as many pilots, observers and air gunners are being sent overseas as was contemplated a year ago.
5. In addition to 200,000 men in the home defence service, Canada has 300,000 on active duty with the army, navy and air force. Based on comparative population, he said, this latter figure is equivalent to an armed force of 3,000,000 in the United States.
6. French Canadian sentiment toward the war is much better from the standpoint of the British Commonwealth than during the first great war.

Four killed, Five wounded

SEATTLE, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and five others wounded early today in the attempted hold-up of a downtown club.

Among those shot to death were Monte Brown, vice-president of the Seattle Daily Journal of Commerce, and patrolman L. L. Brown. First reports said two or three men participated in the attempted hold-up.

A number of customers were lined up at the club bar. One of them slipped away and notified police. Patrolmen Brown and Edgar Barr answered the call, shooting it out with the holdup men at the door of the club. Barr was critically injured.

The dead also included the bartender of the club and a man identified only as Linder.

Others injured were Carl Johnson, Forrest Smith, James Green, who may die, and John Nordstrom. All were shot.

a German submarine was sunk in the Baltic Sea on the north.

These reports followed a Soviet week-end claim that four German divisions had been destroyed. One was said to be the fifth infantry division and another the 137th, the latter being wiped out at Smolensk.

The Soviet command said the Germans, fighting on a schedule that allows but two hours' sleep a day, are half-crushed from fatigue, and are running short of ammunition, but nevertheless have forced the battle to the areas of Korosten, 80 miles northwest of Kiev, and Bel Tserkov, 50 miles or less south of the Ukraine capital.

The Germans thus thrust past to get a more intimate picture of the needs of the moment in their two departments.

ability of his flying to London for a conference with Prime Minister Churchill seems less likely than a few weeks ago.

Announcement is expected soon of the appointment of the Saskatchewan appeal court as minister to the Argentine or as Canadian high commissioner to Australia, a post made vacant by appointment of C. J. Burchell, K. C., to open a new high commissioner's office in Newfoundland.

Parliament will resume Nov. 3, the date to which it was adjourned last June 14, but no announcement has been made yet as to whether there will be a session at that time or a further adjournment.

Whether or not the Prime Minister goes to England within the next few weeks, it is believed, Navy Minister Macdonald and war services minister Thorson may make a quick trip to the empire's capital in order to get a more intimate picture of the needs of the moment in their two departments.
