chance of a wife winning out against any other rival than a mother. There are men who remain Mother's little darlings as long as they live. They run to Mother for advice and sympathy. They go to her with all of their troubles. They always think that their wives should let Mother run their houses and rear their children, no matter how incompetent she may be or how behind the times. They are forever throwing Mother in their wives' teeth and there is nothing that gets more on a woman's nerves than to have to be forever listening to what "Mother says."

So I think you would be very sensible if you would let your young man stay married to his mother, while you look about for some real man without a mother complex who will be willing to be all-in-all to you as you are to him.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to a widower and I would be very happy except that my husband's family are continually talking about his first wife. They are very good to me, but this harping on Wife No. 1 gets me down. What is your advice? HELEN B.

ANSWER: It is natural that the family should talk about the first wife, and it just shows that they accept you as one of themselves and have no animosity toward you. If you will just take this view of the subject, you will find that you can literally laugh it off and not wreck your life by making a mountain out of a molehill.

DOBOTY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

What rule of dress applies to a man who escorts a girl to any place of entertainment?

A. He should always adapt his costume to whatever the girl is going to wear. If she is in evening dress, he might feel embarrassed if he wore a business suit.

Q. What would be appropriate gifts for a young man on his graduation day?

A. A watch, ring, fountain pen, cigarette case, lighter, travelling bag.

Q. If one cannot accept an invitation, is it permissible merely to write "Regrets" on one's card and send it?

A. No; this would be rude. One should always write a brief note of regrets.
