Do Women Like Sales? Ask Congoleum Dealers

What is the Canadian woman's attitude toward the annual and semi-annual "sale week" which some manufacturers have been making a regular part of their distributing program for the last few years? How does she respond to the opportunity they offer in the way of better displayed goods, wider selection and lower prices? The results of a recent canvass among floor-covering dealers in this connection are both interesting and illuminating. They say that Congoleum Week attracts customers from all classes of homes—that the wives of high salaried business and professional men are as anxious to take advantage of the reduced prices as the wives of men with very limited means.

Many instances have been cited when the increased demand for GOLD-SEAL Congoleum, Art-Rugs and Congoleum By-the-Yard has had to demolish the window-displays to fill orders pending the arrival of rush order consignments from the factory. And it is not at all unusual, according to this same reliable source, for a Congoleum dealer to see as many GOLD-SEAL Congoleum Art-Rugs during Congoleum Week as he would normally sell in two months. Yet the sale of Congoleum continues steady and increasingly heavy the whole year through!

One of the oldest and most experienced of these dealers answered the question thus: "There are sales and sales! As to women's attitude toward these functions in general, all I can say is, it depends on the sale. But as to Congoleum sales—that's different!

"During Congoleum Week they know they'll find only clean, new goods; that there'll be a complete stock of all the latest and most popular patterns, specially displayed and with prices so far below the ordinary as to form a real, worthwhile saving, even on a small purchase. They know, too, that the Gold-Seal Guarantee of Satisfaction or your money back goes with every purchase."

Better Health to Millions All in One Year!

JUST one year ago Post's Bran Flakes with Other Parts of Wheat was introduced as a delicious laxative food. Today millions of people are enjoying better health, are doing better work, enjoying more their play as a direct result of its daily use.

Millions! And all in one year! Because Post's Bran Flakes has all the laxative effect of bran and most of the food value of wheat; because it is wonderfully delicious—the flakes are thin, crisp, toasted—to these reasons can such tremendous national popularity be attributed.

You, yourself, if you are one of those who have never tried it, will be amazed that a food of such wonderful flavor and welcome effectiveness could be produced. Try it! Use it regularly for a week or so. You can get it from your grocer. Be sure you see the name "Post's Bran Flakes" on the package. It is the mark of a product made by the maker's of the world's finest cereal foods.
