AERONAUTS INSPECT BIG SECRET AIRSHIP

Policy Of Secretiveness Reversed By Authorities of English War Office Visitors However Pledged Not To Divulge Details Of Construction.

construction and preparing the compressed hydrogen for the rapid filling of the field balloons. The chief incident of the visit, however was the inspection of the secret airship, which is lying in a great shed behind two iron doors which form the entire end of the building. When these are entirely open the airship, which is lying in a great shed behind two iron doors which form the entire end of the building. When these are entirely open the airship, which is lying in a great shed behind two iron doors which form the entire end of the building.

A party of eighty-two guests, representing the chief aerial clubs of the world, who are now in London for the International Aeronautics Congress were invited, as a special favor, by the War Office.

At present the new airship has not been completely put together, for certain patterns and improvements which it is hoped will make the airship the best of its kind in the world have not yet been fixed.

All the aeronauts, however, were pledged to secrecy concerning the construction of the airship; for it was the first time a party of strangers had been permitted to enter the great shed in which it has been built.

Sentries are on guard day and night outside the airship shed, and no one is connected with the secret work of construction has hitherto been permitted to approach within speaking distance.

The War Office guests left Waterloo in a special train for Farnborough, where they arrived about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Ambulance wagons were waiting to drive the aeronauts to the balloon factory, as the War Office had no other carriages available.

READY IN SIX MINUTES. Distinguished balloonists crowded gleefully into Red Cross carts with their British confederates.

Colonel Temperley, the late chief of the balloon staff, with Colonel Capper, the commanding officer of the guests and conducted them over the closely guarded enclosure and factories.

The party was first shown the latest army field balloon which was inflated with hydrogen and made ready for an ascent in the record time of six minutes.

The first balloon is constructed of goldbeaters' skin, which, although most expensive retains the hydrogen and allows the balloon to remain aloft if necessary for days.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—President Roosevelt and party left for Oyster Bay today for the summer vacation. The presidential train, consisting of a private car, a parlor car and a baggage car, pulled out of the Union Station at 9.15 a. m.

The train proceeded over the Pennsylvania Railroad to Jersey City, thence the president and party will go by boat to Long Island City and expect to reach Oyster Bay at 5.15 this afternoon.

THE SECRET AIRSHIP. After leaving the shed the guests were taken over the balloon factories and shown the method of balloon construction.

PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONAUGHT. LONDON, June 23.—The difficulties in the way of the marriage of Prince Arthur of Conaught and Lady Marjorie Manner, daughter of the Duke of Rutland, have been overcome. The difficulties probably did not arise from the fact that Arthur is a British Prince but owing to the fact that he is a Duke of Saxony, his father and himself being direct heirs to the throne of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. If the reigning Duke dies without an heir there would be much opposition in the various branches of the house before such a marriage would be regarded otherwise than monogamous from the German standpoint.
