SWEDEN SURVEYS ITS NEW GENIUS

STOCKHOLM, July 24 —(CP) — Present conditions with many of the most important trade routes cut off, has caused the Swedish Government to institute recently another state organization, "The Board of Inventions." The aim will be to exploit to an increasing extent one of the Swedes' to bring out valuable contributions for the solution of many current crisis problems.

The chairman of the Institution, Helge Ericson of the Swedish Telegraph Office, explained some of its functions. The Board is established to promote and utilize inventions and technical ideas which in so far as they can be realized with necessary despatch and at reasonable cost are of value for the national economy and the defence of the country.

In the first place the Board has to give consideration to the utilization of Swedish raw materials in any of the plans submitted, and in that way bring out substitutes for commodities which are difficult to obtain from abroad.

The Board is composed of three members, appointed by the government, but will have the power to call on outside collaborators and advisers for assistance in judging specific cases. All documents relating to inventions will be kept secret and matters will be dealt with in the simplest and most expeditious manner.

CALGARY, July 26.—(CP) —Wm. Pentlowe Taylor, 61, well-known lawyer, who has practised here for 35 years, died today. He was born in Fredericton, N.B., at the home of his three sisters Annie, Fan and Nell, and his brother, C. A. Taylor. He was formerly a law partner of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Prime Minister of Canada.

Regina Editor To Study News Release System

OTTAWA, July 26.—(CP) —David B. Rogers, editor of the Regina Leader-Post has been assigned the task of making an immediate survey of the present system of releasing information to the public, War Services Minister Gardiner announced tonight.

The survey will be in preparation for the co-ordination of existing public information services dealing with war matters under the new department headed by Mr. Gardiner.

The minister said it was thought such a survey could best be conducted by a working newspaperman, familiar with the problems involved from the standpoint of the newspapers as well as the public.

Mr. Rogers, a brother of the late Hon. Norman Rogers, former Minister of National Defence, has had a wide experience in newspaper and public relations work. Before taking his present post he was assistant managing editor of the Winnipeg Free Press for three years and prior to that he was for six years managing editor of the Telegraph-Journal and Evening Times-Globe, of Saint John N.B. He also worked on the Toronto Daily Star, and engaged in public relations work in New York while attending the school of journalism of Columbia University.

Mr. Rogers is now in Ottawa and at work. He expected to complete the survey by the end of next week.

"The utmost measure of public understanding is essential," said Mr. Rogers tonight, in discussing information matters, "in order to obtain the maximum co-operation which is required in the present period of national emergency.

"Press, radio, screen, pulpit and platform mediums are already rendering a fine service in the field of public intelligence. If the government can assist them to increase the effectiveness of their work by improvement of information facilities, then it is our duty to do so. That is why the present survey is being undertaken."

RED SCHOOLHOUSE IS MAKING EXIT

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., July 24 —(CP) —The little country schoolhouse is fast becoming a thing of the past in British Columbia's Fraser Valley and other rural areas, and next term many a farmer's son and daughter will troop to a school as modern as any attended by their city cousins.

The small one-room "little red schoolhouse," where many men now prominent in public life got their first taste of three "R's", are quickly being replaced by modern new halls of learning fed from far and wide by the school bus. The new structures embody home economics and gymnasiums, formerly frowned on by the rural folk.

For years the farmer vote in the Fraser Valley turned down school bylaws embodying modern "frills." Farmers claimed their boys could exercise "pitching hay." Their wives believed in teaching the daughters culinary art in the home kitchen instead of at school.

But this year, these ideas seem to have been swept aside, and the Fraser Valley is now launched on a modern school program. New junior -senior high schools are being erected in Burnaby, Surrey and Maple Ridge Municipalities at a total cost close to $400,000, part of which is being contributed by the provincial government. They will provide all modern education facilities for more than 1,500 students.

BOSTON, July 21 —(AP) —The coast guard cutter Kickapoo located the disabled Gloucester lobster fisherman Satellite 62 miles northeast of Thatcher's Island Saturday and took her in tow toward Cape Ann. The Satellite sought aid after her crankshaft broke while she was en route from home from Nova Scotia.

WARTIME BOOSTS MAKING OF FLAGS

VANCOUVER, July 24 —(CP) — Flagmaking, like munitions manufacture, is a booming industry in wartime.

It is estimated that Vancouverites bought four times as many flags last month than in any other single month before the war. Flag manufacturers predict that more than 40,000 flags may be manufactured here before the end of the year, mostly Union Jacks and Canadian ensigns.

The orders come from all sources. Patriotic citizens who never thought of flags before, buy them in wartime and all boat owners seek to have a flag on their vessels. The biggest orders however come from ensigns and signalling flags for the Royal Canadian Navy.

I. S. Jones, Jr., official of one Vancouver flag-manufacturing firm said that many orders are received for foreign flags. No one has ordered an enemy flag since the start of the war, and Mr. Jones adds, that such an order would not be filled anyway.

All infantry battalions of the C.A.S.F. serving outside Canada have been authorized to recruit another battalion for home or overseas defense, a defense department source said.

Northam Race Entries For Wednesday, July 31st, Races Commencing At Two O'clock Standard Time

Northam track has always drawn a good entry list, but we doubt if it ever had 35 entries for four classes. It is a list that any horse lover can see will furnish the very best possible competition.

In the FREE-FOR-ALL PACE are Aaron L., Barney Hanover, and Jane Azoff, who finished 1-2-3 at Kensington, and in addition there is Vester Bars, 2.05¼, Sully 2.10, San Ton 2.10, and Direct L., 2.09½. This is bound to be a whale of a race, no matter who wins it.

The FREE-FOR-ALL TROT has six sure starters and it will be one of the best races on the card. Millie Kalmuck worked a mile in 2.11½ on Thursday, and should be ready to turn the tables on Dude Potempkin, Squire Hanover and June Evans, that headed her two weeks ago. Heatherbell, 2.08¼, worked a mile in 2.13 handily, and is almost as good as ever. Then there is June Evans, 2.13, Squire Hanover, 2.14, Calumet Bee 2.11, and Harvest Melody, 2.10¼.

The 2.20 TROT AND PACE has nine entries very evenly matched, so evenly that no one can pick a winner. There will be the former battlers of two weeks ago: Bebe McElwyn, Major Bowes, Alestra, Uscita Britton and Miss Victoria, and in addition Leta Kalmuck, 2.14, Brian Yorke 2.13¼, Jean Henley, 2.15, and possibly Harvest Melody, 2.10¼.

The 2.27 TROT AND PACE has an even dozen entries with the best of the starters at Kensington and new arrivals such as Grace Abbey, from the Merrytime Stables, Halifax, Silent Joe 2.17 from Truro, Buzz L. making his first start, and Sampson Royal, Lt.-Commander Buntain's good four-year-old. All in all, it is a list of horses that any track secretary would be proud to publish, and every one can be sure of one of the most exciting afternoon's racing in years at Northam next Wednesday.

TIMELY NOTES ON TOPICS CONNECTED WITH Silver Fox Farming

timely and important matter with fox ranchers, the procuring of healthful food. He cautioned against the use of cold storage foods that had not been kept in proper condition from the time they are taken out of storage. The causes of bloating, diarrhoea and convulsions are, he said, largely attributable to the feeding of food that is not fit for vulpecular consumption. Speaking of dried herring which is here a common article of the foxes' diet, he remarked that this was a good food if fed in suitable quantities and in seasonal requirements. Be careful, he cautioned that you get fish that have been properly washed and cleaned shortly after being taken from the water, that they have been well dried, and further that you keep them in a dry, well-ventilated place. If hung up in coarse open bags so the dry air may pass through them they will keep for a considerable length of time. If perchance they become mouldy from improper exposure place them in boiling water for a few moments and this mould will then cease to bear any injurious potency.

Mr. Chester McLure congratulated the management upon the very fine field day they had presented and expressed himself as well pleased with the proceedings. The heat of this July 8th afternoon was nicely relieved when we made our next stop at the Dominion Experimental Fox Ranch where cool and delicious refreshments awaited us. This was a treat from the Committee of the P.E.I. Fox Breeders' & Exh. Ass'n.

Mr. Hancock here called upon Dr. Smith, Superintendent of the Station to favor us with some remarks on his recent experiments, etc., Mr. Smith was not unprepared as display sheets were hung in readiness for the occasion. Using the charts in front of the audience Dr. Smith went on to explain the different rations which he had assigned to certain numbers of foxes and advised us of the results he had gotten. These charts we presume are procurable on application to Dom. Exp. Fox Ranch, Summerside, P. E. I.

All seemed pleased with the results of this Fox Field Day, which was generally regarded as the best we have had on P.E.I."
