CONSOLATION PRIZES.

There will be six consolation prizes of exceptional value, in fact aggregating hundreds of dollars. Even the floors are covered and covered with rugs. It is delightfully modern throughout and its cafe is most inviting. There is a long distance telephone in every room. It is located on Beacon Hill opposite the State House, in an exceedingly quiet part of the city. Owing to its high altitude, the air surrounding it is perfect, and the entire party can thus arise each morning as thoroughly rested after days of sight-seeing and "business" as if they were in their own quiet homes.

Nominations will be received at any time for the Guardian's big free trip. Either coupon in this issue can be used, the candidate nominating herself or a friend nominating her. The coupons are merely inserted as a matter of convenience, and neither one is necessary, for any lady of sixteen years of age or upwards and unmarried can write "Tour Editor," Guardian, Charlottetown, stating that she will be a candidate for the big free trip to Boston, New York, etc., and all nominations should be forwarded without delay, so that when the list is published some days later the friends of each candidate will be thus advised and in a position to give their votes and support.

No nomination fee required, not even a newspaper subscription, only the agent's of the contestant being necessary. All members of the several staffs of this paper are forbidden to take any part in the contest, and they as well as their families are ineligible for election. Charlottetown and Royalty will form a district, and the two young lady residents therein who receive the largest number of votes will enjoy the trip.

MISS CHARLESWORTH ADMITS IDENTITY

EDINBURGH, Jan. 28.—Miss Violet Gordon Charlesworth, who after having mysteriously disappeared, was found last Sunday at Oban, Scotland, has admitted her identity, although recently she had persistently denied it. Miss Charlesworth had been involved in extensive stock deals, and it was reported two weeks ago that she had been killed while automobiling with her sister and a chauffeur. According to the story told by the sister Miss Charlesworth had been hurled over the sea wall and her body probably washed out to sea. In admitting her identity Miss Charlesworth said that she was in the car at the time of the alleged accident, but in her terror at finding the automobile on the edge of a precipice she fled bareheaded to a village, where she took a train, without even stopping to buy a ticket and proceeded to Tobermory, from which place she went to Oban.

Queen's County, not including Charlottetown and Royalty will form a district, and the two young lady residents therein who obtain the largest number of votes will enjoy the trip.

Kensington, Summerside and Alberton will form a district and the young lady resident of either town who obtains the largest number of votes will enjoy the trip.

King's County, not including Montague, Georgetown or Souris will form a district, and the young lady resident therein who obtains the largest number of votes will enjoy the trip.

Any candidate for any district can receive help and votes from anywhere. For instance a candidate in Prince County or any other district can receive help and votes from Prince County or any other part of the province, or even any part of the world.

There will be several consolation prizes of incalculable value, and these will be announced later. The route will be as follows: Charlottetown to Picton by the popular S. S. Northumberland. Picton to Halifax by the Intercolonial Railway.

Halifax to Yarmouth by the far famed Dominion Atlantic Railway. Yarmouth to Boston by one of those popular D. A. R. steamships. Boston to New York where, some considerable time will be spent. New York to Boston where the party will remain for several days. Boston to St. John by the bustling Eastern Steamship Company. St. John to Pt. Du Chene by the Intercolonial Railway. Pt. Du Chene to Summerside by the up-to-date S. S. Empress. Summerside to Charlottetown by the Prince Edward Island Railway.

Further particulars as to the length of time which will be spent in each city will appear later.

In 1893 The Guardian sent 4 teachers—J. D. Seaman, J. K. Ross, T. A. McLean, Jr., and the late W. D. McIntyre to the Great World's Fair at Chicago, this paper thus being the first in the Province to attempt so formidable an undertaking. And now, at the urgent request of a number of its readers and encouraged by the unprecedented success which has attended its Bicycle Road Race, an annual event which is looked forward to and witnessed by thousands of its readers, The Charlottetown Guardian will present to the eight most popular unmarried lady residents of the Province, a trip from Charlottetown through Eastern Canada and the Eastern States, the return journey being varied as much as possible. The trip will eclipse in magnitude and grandeur anything previously attempted by any Provincial newspaper.

Scenic routes will be chosen, and small hotels patronized in every city and town visited. Only ladies who report themselves as sixteen years of age or upwards will be eligible.

CAN MAKE DIAMONDS, IS CHEMIST'S CLAIM

PARIS, Jan. 28.—At one of the approaching sances of the Academy of Sciences a communication will be read from a French chemist, referred to as M. H., containing a formula or the manufacture of artificial diamonds. The secret of making these stones has been committed to writing and is now held in a sealed envelope which has been confided to the secretary of the academy. It appears that the chemist's interesting discovery was accidental. The diamonds manufactured by him were submitted to minute examination by Professor Lacroix and M. Leon Mauguere, a member of the French Institute, and were declared to be in every respect identical with veritable diamonds. M. Mauguere hurried twenty-one of H.'s diamonds in order to ascertain whether they were composed of pure carbon and Professor Lacroix had a half a dozen more placed at his disposal. The diamonds were diminutive, but the smallest was larger than any obtained by the late M. Henri Moissan in his electric furnace. M. Mauguere is of opinion that the method employed by the new diamond maker, which is entirely different from that of M. Moissan, is a costly one, and doubts whether it could be made to pay. The chemist, however, has been furnished by a group of financiers with sufficient capital to continue his experiments.

PERSIANS REJECT SHAH'S PROPOSALS

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—The Shah has agreed to grant a caricatured form of constitutional government to his people, according to a telegram from the Teheran correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung. He first demands that all fugitives from his displeasure should immediately leave the Turkish legation, which they fled a fortnight ago, and then lays down the following constitutional restrictions: Parliament is to continue to exist but half the deputies shall be nominated by the crown and the other half by popular suffrage. Guarantees of personal and religious liberty granted by the former constitution are cancelled, and all political associations are prohibited.

Further, newspapers are to be subjected to censorship, the sittings of Parliament are to be secret, and the army is to be placed under the absolute control of the Shah. The constitutional party has rejected these proposals and decided to continue the rebellion which is now extending throughout the country.

The Teheran correspondent reports that there was fighting through out Sunday at Isfahan and that Bakhtiari captured the arsenal. The Bakhtiari chief proclaimed himself governor. The archbishops are well disposed towards Europeans.

posed towards Europeans. Isfahan, which was formerly the capital of Persia, is in the heart of the empire, about two hundred and twenty miles south of Teheran. It has a population of eighty thousand and is the second largest trading emporium in the country. Tabriz, which is the most important trade centre, is also in a state of anarchy. Revolt has indeed spread throughout Persia.

NOTES.

Daniel Sullivan, for many years one of the most brilliant hockeyists of this City, was enthusiastic over the quality of last night's game. He has seen the professional teams of Ontario play this season in Toronto and also the recent game in New Glasgow between the team of the later town and the Halifax Crescents. The two leading teams in the Nova Scotia League, and thinks the hockey played last night was to say the least no way inferior to that played on the mainland. This is certainly encouraging to local teams.

Leslie Wright, Summerside pronounced last night's game the best he has seen in years. Mr. Wright is an old follower of the sport and is certainly a judge. A number of the hockey excursionists from Summerside missed the train last night and were obliged to stop in the City over night.

James Lightizer of the Abbies' Hockey Club, and formerly one of their star players, was asked to be referee by the Crystals team. This is a high compliment to Mr. Lightizer and proves he holds the confidence of the athletes from the West to a marked degree.

Critics of last night's game claim Smith of the Abbies, put up perhaps the finest centre game ever played for years in this city.

Last night, after the games the Abegweit teams were entertained at supper by the club executive at Lomergan's Dining Rooms. The adoption of new methods of team work in practice by the Abegweits evidenced its benefits by marked improvement in last night's contest.

AFTER MEETING. At a meeting of the Prince Edward Island Hockey League held last night, which representatives from the Crystals, Abegweits and Victorias were present, the Secretary of the League was instructed to wire President Lethgow, of the M. P. A. A. At this morning, asking for the immediate disqualification of all Island hockeyists at present touring the Maritime Provinces under the name of "Creams."

SUPREME COURT OF YESTERDAY

Mr. McQuarrie K. C., when the Supreme Court opened yesterday, moved for leave to appeal from the conviction of the King vs. Cassidy, a prisoner in Dorchester penitentiary, who was tried and convicted by a jury in Kings County at the last sitting of the Court in that County. The Court took time to consider. In the case of Bennett McEachern vs. James J. Hughes, an action for penalties under the Independence of Parliament Act, which a demurrer to the cause of action was put in by the defendant, Mr. Johnston K. C. argued in support of the demurrer, claiming that the court had no jurisdiction to try the case. The action was brought for sitting and voting in the House of Commons at Ottawa while under an alleged disqualification, the contention being that under the practice of this Court following that of the English court, there was no jurisdiction to try a case arising out of a local action, which could only be committed in one place and that place outside the jurisdiction of the Court and such being the practice of the Court which never had jurisdiction to try an action of that nature, the section of the Dominion statute which empowered a Court of competent civil jurisdiction to try the action did not confer jurisdiction upon the Supreme Court of this Province and could not interfere with the established practice of the Court. Mr. Mathieson K. C. argued contra and claimed that the English practice was not applicable to this province and that the Supreme Court had jurisdiction to hear the case. Mr. Stewart K. C., this morning will continue the argument against the demurrer being allowed.

JUDGE HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

CHATHAM, Ont., Jan. 28.—Judge Houson had a narrow escape from being electrocuted in his home Wednesday evening. He attempted to turn on an electric light which was attached to a lamp and completed the circuit by grasping the stove at the same time. Many volts of electricity passed through his body and it was some time before he could free himself. He was thoroughly dazed and his hand was badly burned.

BRIDGE TO CONNECT INDIA WITH CEYLON

CALCUTTA, Jan. 28.—The Times of India in a despatch from Tuticora, reveals a gigantic project of connecting the main land of India with the island of Ceylon, or, in other words, of bridging the series of islands 80 miles southwest of Palk Strait. Those interested in the scheme are now in Tuticora looking over the ground. They are Sir Arthur Lawley, governor of Madras, and Col. Sir Henry McCallum, with representatives of the Indian railway board and of the Ceylon railway administration, engineers, merchants and financiers. The engineers' part of the business is, although interesting, comparatively simple. On the north side, the Paumotu channel, between the mainland of India and the island of Romeswaram, is at one point extremely narrow, and can be easily bridged.

There are, indeed, proposals for substituting a ship canal for the existing channel, so as to facilitate the coasting trade between the Malabar ports, on the western side of India, and the Coromandel ports, which doubtless will be discussed at the conference between the Indian and Ceylon authorities. But there is no serious engineering difficulty connected with the bridging of the Paumotu channel, nor is there any at the south end of the line, for the island of Mannar is already practically attached to Ceylon.

But between the southern end of the island of Romeswaram and the northern end of the island of Mannar there is a distance of about 38 miles, marked by an almost continuous coral reef, either covered with shallow water or rising above the level of the sea in numerous coral islets—the "stepping stones" of Adam's bridge, famed alike in Hindu, in Buddhist, in Christian and in Mohammedan legends.

The idea of a bridge 38 miles long is somewhat staggering, but it must be remembered that even if the whole distance were bridge that would be produced, and, as a matter of fact, it has been estimated that the whole could be constructed at a cost of 25,000,000 rupees, or not more than $8,300,000.

The immediate objects to be obtained by thus linking Ceylon with the mainland are (1) for Ceylon, her direct admission to the immense advantages of the labor market of South India, for it can hardly be doubted that where one cooile will consent to cross the sea to work in the Ceylon tea gardens, 100 will gladly go by train; and (2) for India, the opening of the rich unpeopled lands of the north and south central Ceylon to the congested populations of central and southern India.

SENATOR SCOTT SPRINGS SENSATION

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—Senator Scott read a sensation when he gave notice of a motion for the reorganization of the Senate. Mr. Scott explained the motion which he said, would not disturb existing senators, or the proportion of existing representation from the various provinces. It would bring the Senate into closer touch with the people, and ensure to the Government a reasonable proportion of representation in the Senate.

His scheme is to divide Ontario and Quebec into sixteen electoral districts each for representation in the Upper House; Nova Scotia and New Brunswick seven each; P. E. Island two. For the present, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, three each, and British Columbia, two.

For the election of candidates for the Senate members of the existing Senate shall be allotted to each district, and the vacancies arising in the representation of these districts, filled by electors entitled to vote for members of the Commons. The system of compulsory voting shall apply. The remaining Senators not allotted to any constituency, shall be classed as Senators for particular provinces at large, and the vacancies arising in that class shall be filled by appointment as at present. The term for which a Senator may be elected or appointed, is limited to eight years. To equalize the standing of the political parties in the Senate on the occasion of a change of Government, the incoming administration may appoint an additional number of senators, not exceeding nine—not more than one from each province and no more appointments shall be made for that province until a second vacancy has arisen, thus reverting to the original number allotted.

The Commons is asked to concur in the proposed change, and there will be a joint address of the Senate and Commons adopted, praying that the British North America Act be amended. Senator Scott added that his resolution meant that two thirds of the Senate would be elected. He looked upon it as necessary to continue the existence of the Upper House.

FUNERAL OF A PROMINENT ISLANDER

DENVER, Jan. 28.—The funeral of Alexander John Macdonald, floor manager of the Denver Dry Goods company, who died of pneumonia at St. Joseph's Hospital, Friday night, Jan. 15th took place Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in St. Leo's church. Interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery and the body was on view in Horan's undertaking rooms, 1527 Cleveland place after 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

Macdonald was one of the best-known men in Denver. He was born on Prince Edward Island sixty years ago, and thirty-five years ago left Charlottetown, his home, for Boston. For ten years he was with Jordan, Marsh & Co., but having lung trouble came to Denver. For ten years he was with Daniels & Fisher, and then resigned to be with the Denver Dry Goods company. He was considered one of the best dry goods men in the country.

Of an unusually genial disposition, with his smooth-shaven and ruddy face and hair as white as snow, Macdonald was one of Denver's most popular men. He was personally known to thousands of shoppers. No man in Denver was so well known among the Capitol hill residents.

Macdonald was of the great Macdonald clan that has given many famous men and women to Scottish history, including Flora Macdonald, whose love for "Bonnie Prince Charlie" is one of the stirring romances of the House of Stuart. The direct ancestor of Macdonald fled from Scotland to France and thence to New Brunswick, during the Napoleonic wars, and from New Brunswick crossed over to Prince Edward Island, where the family has since been prominent. It is one of the best-known families in that section of Canada.

A. J. Macdonald never returned to Prince Edward Island. Brothers and sisters in the intervening thirty-five years have married and are now grandparents. Macdonald was the owner of a ranch on the outskirts of Denver, and only two weeks ago had begun negotiations for its sale with the intention of closing up his property interests and spending the summer with his relatives in and around Charlottetown.

The death of the well-known dry goods man was remarkably peaceful. It was known, of course, that he could not live, but it was supposed he would survive the night. Friends who had been spending Friday evening with him left at 10 o'clock. Shortly after they had left the nurse asked him now he was. "Just so-so, child," replied Macdonald with a smile. There was a one deep-drawn breath, and he was dead. He took sick only the Sunday before and up till then was in the best of health. The funeral was magnificent and very largely attended by his very many friends. The employees of the store marched in a body. The floral tributes were many and beautiful and this alone testified to the high esteem in which he was held and his worth as a citizen. The chief mourners were J. C. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Blackham, Mrs. Norman McDonald and her son Norman McDonald, all Islanders, except Mr. Blackham, living in this City. Mr. McDonald has two brothers, James McDonald of Summerside and Charles McDonald of Charlottetown.
