Marriage Scales

By Mildred Barbour.

"MY WIFE'S IN LOVE WITH YOU."

It was an excessively warm night in the theatre. Back-stage, every available door and window was flung wide to admit whatever stray breath of air stirred in the sultry city. Actors awaiting their cues in the wings, pillars, and leaf fans diligently and endeavoring, with gingerly mopping, to keep make-up undamaged.

Out in front, it was just as uncom- fortable in spite of electric fans care- fully muted until they gave forth no more distracting sound than a mur- murous rustle miles away on a sandy beach.

At a guest at Mrs. Amos Hunter Deering's box party, was the coolest- looking person in the audience. His coloring, her airy, faintly green chif- fon frock made her the very essence of cool, serene, daintiness.

Just behind her Dick Jervis wel- lered and moved and was uncomfort- ably conscious that his collar was wilt- ing. Doris was rather unobtrusively pleased with his obvious discomfort. She thought it amusing that he was watching her through three sweating hours, to watch his rival on the stage as she, through his remarkable perfor- mance, looking incredibly handsome and (unconsciously) uniform.

Much as he detested his present sit- uation, Jervis had been unable to re- sist the potent combination of an invitation from the great social leader and the tempting promise of Doris as his dinner and theatre partner.

So he was forced to listen to Cray- culann's marvellous voice and to be fur- ther aware that the girl beside him had eyes and ears for no one, nothing else. He realized that for all he him- self meant to Doris, she meant to him. He had been an unclaimed sav- age in Zululand.

When Cullann went back to his dressing room after the big love scene he slipped on the skirt of his uniform, drawing himself wearily into a chair. He was very warm and tired and his com- fort was not improved by the knowl- edge that his rival he feared most was sitting close beside the girl he loved in the darkened house beyond the footlights.

A rap on the door brought him to his feet with momentary hope. Could it be that Doris had slipped backstage for a few minutes' chat between acts? It was only the call-boy with a slip of paper, however, which informed him through the box office that Mr. Page had phoned that he would like to meet Mr. Cullann after the performance, if it was convenient.

Cullann gave the boy a coin and the Page's number and told him to make the requested appointment. As he re- dressed for the last act, he reflected bitterly. He hoped it didn't mean a supper party. He was in no mood for it.

Before the beginning of the act, an- other note was brought to him. It was from Mrs. Amos Hunter Deering and invited—indeed, pleaded—that he join her party for supper.

Except for his engagement with Crayculann, he would have been sorely tempted to forego his usual route for the opportunity to see Doris again for a moment. While he scrawled, a knock came. He opened the door and found himself with the thought that it would be galling to have to sit by and watch the insufferable Jervis receive his de- votion for Cullann's own divinity.

Mrs. Amos Hunter Deering's star- tled, with much polite chattering, st- ed itself away in waiting limousines, a car of familiar stage door entrance. Doris's eyes followed it momentarily. "That looks like Charles' car," she remarked to Dick Jervis.

"Plenty of that type of special-made motor in town," he shrugged. "Chat at the club got her yesterday."

The Deering car rolled away toward supper at a fashionable restaurant. Crayculann came out.

"Still full of grease paint behind the ears, but didn't like to keep you wait- ing too long," he laughed. "I'll ex- tend my ablutions at the hotel. Glad to see you, old man. Anything up?"

"Plenty," Charles gave a lusty sigh, "and your advice. Shall we drive or have a bite to eat somewhere?"

"Make it an ice-cream and a sand- wich in my rooms," suggested Cray- culann, with the consistency of an in- flexible gelatine in this heat and he'd rather like to shed a few conventional garments."

"Fine!" Charles turned the car and drove rapidly in the direction of the hotel, without further words. Cul- lann, lounging comfortably at his side, drew a long, grateful breath, as he noted the heat and humidity. "I've lifted his thick black hair with my invisible fingers."

When they were comfortably seated in the car, Cullann sat in the front seat, and Charles opened the subject without preamble.

"Cullann, my wife's in love with you!"

Crop Report

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports re- ceived at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branch- es. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in- close touch with Crop conditions in the sections of the districts men- tioned.

GENERAL

The crops in most districts in Canada are making satisfactory progress. In Saskatchewan, Man- itoba and Ontario the season is still a few weeks late but as good growth is now being made prospects are favourable for an average crop. In British Columbia rain is badly needed. Details follow:—

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

EDMONTON DISTRICT—Cold, dry weather during the last two weeks has retarded growth. There has been slight damage from frost in some localities. CALGARY DIS- TRICT—Heavy rains have improv- ed conditions generally but growth slow in some sections which had suffered from lack of moisture.

LETHBRIDGE DISTRICT—Crops in the Western portion good, in the eastern area they are spotty and show lack of moisture. SASKA- TOON DISTRICT—Owing to cool weather crops are one or two weeks later than usual. The hay crop will be light. REGINA DIS- TRICT—The season is two weeks later than usual but crops are making healthy progress. Pros- pects generally satisfactory. Aver- age hay crop expected. WINNIPEG DISTRICT—Crops two weeks late but present reasonable weather. Wheat in shot blade in some dis- tricts and plants healthy through- out.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Recent rains and warmer weath- er greatly improve the crop. Soil- moisture but more moisture is still needed in some sections. Grain, al- though backward, is doing well. Hay is a little short on the higher ground but an average yield is ex- pected. Roots are promising. Past- ures generally satisfactory.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

While the season is still about two weeks late satisfactory rains have recently fallen and good growth has taken place rendering prospects favourable for an aver- age crop. Fall wheat is now head- ed out and very promising. Spring grain, which is less than aver- age in acreage, are making good progress, hay on old meadows is light and on new meadows good. Clover and alfalfa are excellent, grass pasture good, corn is late but growing well. Peach crop pros- pects are below average, other fruits good. Strawberries a heavy yield and now being marketed.

MARITIME PROVINCES

In New Brunswick crops have suffered somewhat from dry weath- er, especially in the St. John River Valley during past fortnight, but recent rains have been beneficial. Hay and grass pasture in good condition. The outlook for the po- tato crop is favourable. In Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island recent warm rains have been beneficial and all crop conditions are good.

PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

The weather has been hot and dry and crops are again in need of rain. Haying has commenced with prospects of a light yield, except in the dry belt where a good crop has already been cut. Grain pros- pects a good overage yield except in Vancouver Island. Roots are showing well, hops very good. Apples and pears are seizing up well. Cherries are moving freely but the crop is light. Plums and prunes should average a fair crop. Pasturage is very poor on Van- couver Island and in the Okanagan Valley and is drying up elsewhere.

THAT CAR OF YOURS

BY HARRY E. PORTER

This is a series of articles relat- ing to maintenance and repair of your Automobile. We will be glad to answer through this column, questions regarding your car or its mechanism.

Send your inquiries to "Automobiles," The Guardian Pub- lishing Co. Ltd., Charlottetown.

Besides a safety device, do you realize how much the tires on your car depend upon proper brake ad- justment?

It is quite safe to assume that 80% of the cars in operation today have defective brakes.

If one wheel brakes more than the other, the result is a badly turned tire after a very short pe- riod.

A good method to employ in test- ing brakes quickly, is to get on a soft sandy road and drive your car at 15 miles an hour, and apply your brake rapidly suddenly. Get out ascertain which side brake took the load first, then according to the pedal clearance adjust both brakes until equal braking is obtained.

You will then see what a differ- ence there will be in your tire mil- age.

Ques.—I am having trouble with my lights burning out on my new car. It used to burn the fuse for a piece of wire. What would be the trouble?

J. T. Charlottetown.

Ans.—The reason your lamps blow out is because you have the piece of wire in the fuse block and the reason the fuses blow out pre- siently was because you had either a ground or a short in the wiring system.

The right thing to do now is to check your wire for shorts or grounds. A good test set is val- uable in a case of this kind. After short is located and remedied, in- stall proper amperage fuse and you will have no further trouble.

Ques.—I have broken a number of rear axle axles on my car. Can this be remedied?

Alfred J., Summerside.

Ans.—The only remedy for the persistent axle breakage in this car is to have the hub on the wheel reamed with a special reamer sup- plied by the Company so that the taper on the axle conforms with the newly reamed taper on the hub. This should be done immediately as delay only aggravates the trouble.

It would be advisable to write to the firm dealing in these cars to obtain the reamer.

ARE YOUR FOOD HABITS CHANGING FOR BETTER OR WORSE?

called adequate diet—the amount of food of the right kind to promote growth and health—is usually a colorless and flavorless one, when only the minimum amount of money is expended. With more money we are very likely to buy foods which will brighten up our meals in both looks and taste.

This is an excellent change in some ways. Fruits and vegetables are full of flavor and it is wise to include these nutritious articles in our menus. On the other hand, as taste becomes more critical, some- times healthful foods are given up. Whole cereals and dark breads dis- appear from the table when there is all the more reason for them to be eaten because, usually, with a better income, comes more leisure. Leisure, unfortunately, often leads to less exercise rather than more—and this tends to cause constipa- tion.

The gradual changing of food habits is not a modern one by any means. In the middle ages, the monasteries were the only places of protected quiet in turbulent times. In consequence, peaceful arts were cultivated, such as agriculture, horticulture; and stock raising. Men of refinement took refuge behind those walls and eventually the coarse fare was superseded by "softer" living.

In the sixteenth century in Europe the merchant class began to rise to a position of social im- portance. Is food became more re- fined, and many good foods were abandoned as too common!

Today, our diet is altogether too lacking in coarse foods. We eat bread made from bolted flour; we eat vegetables, so young and tender that they have not developed enough cellulose to furnish rough- age. We strain our soups and eat foods which require little, or no, chewing.

What is the result? We are be- coming more addicted to medicine—rather than trouble to use our teeth for chewing. It is not only that we need coarse food for re- gulating the body processes, but the very act of chewing brings the blood to the teeth and keeps them in a healthy condition.

The science of nutrition is teach- ing us the value of some of those scorned foods. For the sake of their teeth, give children whole grain cereals which require chewing. Serve vegetables such as celery, spinach, and cabbage. Use bran as a cereal and in recipes. The old-fashioned bran which was superse- ded by an appetizing product which has been cooked, crumbed, and toasted. This is an excellent pro- tective food. It furnishes roughage, and is rich in the minerals which our menus are prone to neglect.

"Tiz" Eases Aching Swollen, Sore Feet

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pierced, bun- ion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and al- most talk and then they'll take an- other dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—al! tired out—just try "Tiz". It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz". It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

A few cents buy a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel.

IMPERIAL FOX BISCUI TS
CONTAINING PURE COD LIVER OIL

Manufactured By
The Imperial Biscuit Company
Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Imperial Biscuit Co., Ltd., Charlottetown, P. E. I. You have asked for opinion of your fox biscuit, which I have been using in my ranch for several years. I am pleased to say that I have found it an excellent food, and would hardly know how to get along without it. We feed a quantity of it to old foxes in winter and believe it is much better than feeding too much meat. We do not do any baking or boiling of foods, as we find our cod liver oil Imperial Fox Biscuit and milk is our principal food all summer for puppies. There is considerable danger in feeding meat to old foxes as they carry it to the puppies. As the biscuits contain ground meat, I think the pup- pies do very well on it alone with milk. They eat it slowly and chew it fine, which is an aid to digestion. Our puppies are usually well developed and in good condition, which speaks well for your biscuit. Wishing you continued success in this P. E. Island industry.

Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) H. MacMillan,
North River, P. E. I.

Mr. MacMillan's name stands for integrity and honor in P. E. Island. His success in raising silver foxes is well known here. He is probably one of the most careful and successful fox ranchers on P. E. Island.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my children and I think it is my medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

If you are suffering from the tor- tures of a displacement, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervous- ness, or a pain in the side, you should lose no time in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text- Book upon "Afflictions Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write for it to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A. This book contains valuable information that every woman should know.
