Thanksgiving Service At Belfast

The annual thanksgiving service held on Thursday evening in the Belfast Church, and as usual planned by the W. M. S. Society of the congregation, was an event which was very interesting as well as a source of spiritual blessing. A few hundred people gathered, and the offering for missionary purposes was a creditable one.

The pastor, Rev. D. L. Griffiths, opened the service with the usual devotions of readings of scripture and prayer, the choir, nearly at its full strength, leading in the songs of praise. Three or four members of the W.M.S. led in prayer. It is worthy of note that all the five or six branches of the local W.M.S. were strongly represented, the president this year being Mrs. Wilfred MacLean, the secretary Mrs. John Riley, and it has been a season of much activity along missionary lines.

The program included brief addresses by Miss Katie McEachern and Mrs. Mabel McEachern, Flora Gillis, Mrs. Lena McEachern and Mrs. Captain Anderson. An exercise by six little girls was also much appreciated. Gospel solos were rendered by Mrs. Eva Murchison, Mrs. J. Gillis, Miss Grace Nicholson and Mr. David E. Griffiths. A missionary exercise was also given by the Misses Flora and Catherine MacLeod.

Miss Annie MacLeod was at the organ.

It was evident that all who took part succeeded well in their desire to lead the large congregation into the spirit of thanksgiving and of missionary endeavour.

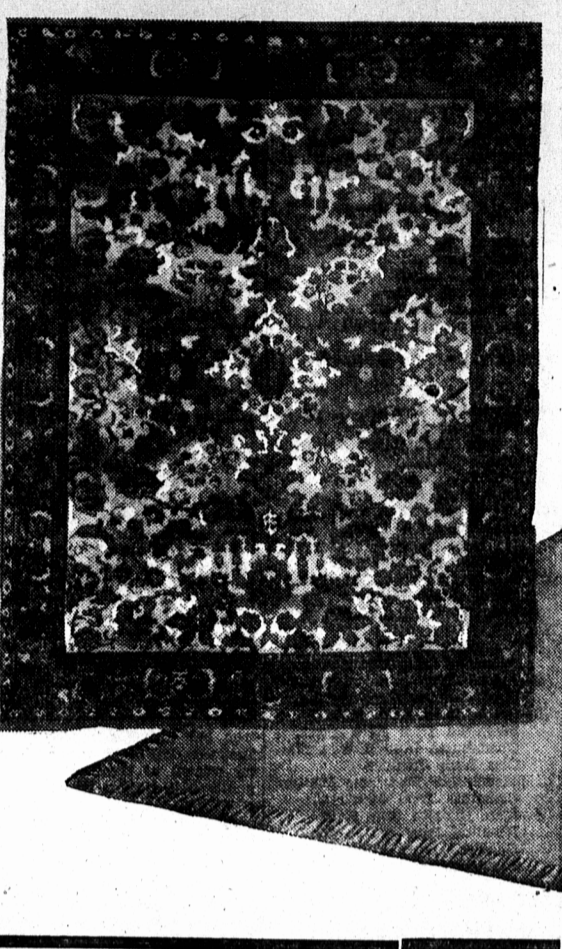

A most interesting ceremony was the presentation of a life membership certificate of the Presbyterian Church W.M.S. Society to Miss Matilda MacDonald. This was done as a memorial to her two sisters who had passed away during the year and both had been of faithful and loyal service to the local society for many years. They were Margaret MacDonald and Mrs. C. A. McPhee. The presentation certificate on behalf of the Society was made by Miss Katie McEachern who in a brief and appropriate address referred to the loss sustained in the removals by death during the year, but also sounded a note of gratitude regarding the faithfulness of present officers and members of all the branches which include Garfield, Melville North and South, Eldon, Flat River, Newtown and Orwell Cove. Miss MacDonald expressed feelingly her gratitude in a few suitable words for the honor conferred upon her and this was supplemented by her niece, Mrs. Mont MacLeod.

The pastor, Rev. Griffiths, interspersed with helpful remarks here and there between the various items. The meeting will be long remembered as it was one of practical thanksgiving for spiritual as well as temporal blessings.

MRS. CHARLES MACKINNON

In the removal by death of Mrs. Charles Mackinnon, the Churchhill district lost a much esteemed resident of the community. The deceased, whose maiden name was Bessie Rogerson, was a native of the district, in which she spent her entire career of seventy-two years. She passed into rest during the slumber of the night, while her spirit returned unto God who gave it. Mrs. Mackinnon was a truly devoted Christian woman, and a member of the Church of Scotland, being brought to Christ and the Church during the fruitful ministries of Rev. Daniel MacLean. Besides her husband she left to sorrow for her demise, four sons, John Allan,

WOMEN DEFEATED BUT ENCOURAGED

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—In Toronto High Park, Dr. Minerva Reid, Reconstruction candidate, polled 4,400 votes, coming third to Conservative and Liberal candidates. She said in an interview she was encouraged by the support that had been given her.

"I'd do it over again," she said. "I believe I have great reason to be encouraged, for we had only one month to attempt organization, no newspaper support, and no money. I couldn't be happy and fall to work for that which I think is right.

"As long as women hold to their party affiliations, as long as they vote with their husbands, and as long as they hold party above issues, I am afraid women candidates will have a hard struggle. But that is no reason why, when we feel called upon to take up cudgels in an issue, we shouldn't run. We must try to lead the way towards the day when issues will be above party."

It is Dr. Minerva Reid's second venture in politics. Her first was in 1929 when she supported the Ontario Temperance Act which, at that election, was defeated.

Dr. Rose Henderson, only other Toronto woman candidate polled 3,243 votes in Parkdale, where she ran as a Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate. She followed closely on the heels of the Reconstruction candidate, but was beaten by both Liberal and Conservative candidates. Olive J. Whyte, C. C. F. candidate in Essex West, polled 5,319 votes, which was the highest number polled by any Ontario woman. She was third in her riding.

Milk Control Working Well For Manitoba

(By The Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29.—Manitoba has won a recipe for the regulation of its milk industry. Recognizing the importance of maintaining an adequate supply, the provincial legislature, through an amendment to the Manitoba Public Utilities Act, granted the municipal and public utility board power to regulate the supply and fix prices in cases of emergency.

Legislation, framed to be effective under emergency conditions only, was placed in effect in the greater Winnipeg area three years ago after threat of a producers strike followed failure of distributors to agree on equalization of returns. Since that time the price of the commodity has increased from five to ten cents a quart and sales advanced proportionately.

Placement of the industry under control of the public utility commission in October, 1932, by an amendment to the Public Utilities Act, was strongly supported by dairy farmers and leaders of agricultural bodies. Prices were fixed all along the line—to producers for the necessary supply of fluid milk and surplus supply, to consumers for milk delivered and sold at stores.

Inspectors were detailed to visit stores where milk was sold to check on the quality and quantity of the product delivered. At the same time they ascertained whether any milk was being sold at cut prices. They reported little difficulty with milk peddlers as a result of this system.

The real task of the board is to see that total investment in the industry is not unduly great, that accounts are properly kept, plant and equipment properly maintained to render service without impairment in quality or quantity and that the managerial functions are properly performed.

First order of the newly-created governing body fixed the prices of milk sold in bulk or by wholesale, and one of cream sold in bottles—on a butter-fat basis to take care of the upward trend. Winnipeg shippers received supplies from producers on a monthly quota based on the average shipments of the producer during the preceding months.

The general policy of the board, at first, was to go slow. Parties were acquainted of the new method Confidence was established and in the final analysis the board was given the utmost support. The board's authority was limited to one year but has been continued each succeeding year. The emergency legislation may be placed in operation at any time where producers in other parts of the province fail to agree on a fair price with shippers and distributors.

Poor Need Dogs More Than Rich

(By The Canadian Press)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 29.—Charles Rowland Johns of London, England who is an official watching closely, from a humane point of view, conditions in the animal world said in an interview:

"Styles in dogs change, just as in other things. In England, at the present time, the most popular breeds are the cairn terrier, the cocker spaniel and the Scottish terrier. The old smooth-haired fox terrier and the wire-haired fox are favorites with many, and of course the air-dale. The Pekinese, in this country, is preferred by those men who like a small dog. The German shepherd—we call them Alsatians over there—are nearly all

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The famous 800 acre estate of Gravey Manor, East Grinstead, Sussex, which the late William Robinson, the "Grand Old Man" of English gardening, left to the nation for state forestry, is involved in certain stipulations.

The house, orchards, woods and gardens are not to be used for lectures, research, or technical instruction, "but the trees, woods and landscape shall be the only teachers." No buildings are to be set up except those necessary for the work, so that the woods shall be a sanctuary for birds, foxes, badgers and the like.

"We have successfully resisted thus far all attempts to raise the cost of dog licences in Grea. It is about $1.50. A while ago the government tried to raise the tax, but there are too many 'doggy' people in England to stand for that. We like to keep the rates moderate, because by so doing we are not depriving poor people of owning a dog, and we hold that the person who most needs a dog is the poor man or woman, who has none too many sources of comfort and pleasure anyway."

Discussing bringing up dogs among the dangers of the city. Mr. Johns said: "The thing to do is to train the dog to keep off the streets. You wouldn't dream of allowing a young child to run the streets. One of the first things nowadays you inculcate into the child's mind is the command to stick to the sidewalk. The same thing can be done with a dog, even an old dog, which, they say, you can't teach new tricks. Of course, the older the dog the harder it is, but it can be done—being done every day. The teaching can be made so thorough that the dog can be trusted to run along on his own, just as you can a well-trained child."
