To Close Eddy Plant In Hull

HULL, QUE. March 11—(CP)—The E. B. Eddy Company's new print mill in Hull, one of the smallest producers in Eastern Canada, is being shut down by the Government, probably for the duration of the war, effective one month from today due to shortage of pulpwood caused by a labor shortage in woodlands operations, the company announced in a statement today.

Company officials declined to say how many men will be out of work, but said an attempt will be made to absorb them in other branches of the plant.

The order to shut down newsprint operations came from Newsprint Administrator of the Prices Board.

scholastic career having completed his ten grades in school in about five years and the distinction of being one of the youngest students ever to receive his teacher's license from Prince of Wales College. His primary education was received in Souris West School and he took his matriculation examinations from Saint Dunstan's University in 1911. The following year he received his license and certificate from Prince of Wales and later went to his home school to teach for a couple of years. After returning to the unit he attended Saint Dunstan's University and was graduated from this institution in 1922 with the Degree of Bachelor of Arts. During his last year there he was attached to the teaching staff of the Prince of Wales College and was there 17 years when he enlisted at the outbreak of the present war.

He was a well known athlete in his younger days and was one of the best football players. Saint Dunstan's ever had. Rugby was his strong point and kicking his specialty but he was also good in baseball and hockey. He was coach of various P. W. C. teams during his time at the college.
