S. D. U. WINS

Mr. MacGuigan, leader of the S.D.U. team began by defining nationalization. He based his argument upon the assumption that freight rates were too high and proved that such was not the case. He proved that the C.P.R. had a good record except during the depression and showed that the system had a good history.

The second speaker on the U.N.B. team, Mr. O'Brien, stated that cheap transportation was necessary in the Maritimes, and obtainable only by nationalization. He discussed the C.P.R.'s surplus and their application for increased freight rates pointing out that the surplus should be used. He cited the Toronto Transportation Committee as a sample of efficient nationalization and said that in view of this C.P.R. could be more efficient if nationalized. He based his case partially on the P.E.I. brief to the Transportation Commission.

Mr. Keefe, second speaker on the S.D.U. team stated that if C.P.R. were nationalized it would be statism and socialism. He showed that our one nationalized railway had had a record of inefficiency, political influence and deficits and that if nationalization of C.P.R. were so treated it would be neglecting a lesson of history. He advanced the de-nationalization of the C.N.R. as the solution of the railway problem.

In the rebuttals the S.D.U. speakers attacked the arguments of the visiting speakers terming them to be socialistic. Each U.N.-B. debator singled out the argument of one S.D.U. man for attack in their rebuttals.

Last night's debate marked the eighth win in ten starts for S.D.-U. debating teams. Their two remaining debates this year are against Dalhousie and St. Thomas Universities.

PRIME MINISTER

seven years as "accessories after the fact."

Mr. Drew said the sympathy of most members for Mr. Garson "cannot be quite the same after his statement when he seeks to convey the impression that this was the result merely of practical difficulties and seeks to convey the impression that a criticism of this course was an attempt to destroy his reputation." The delay had been caused by opposition of Trade Minister Howe to the report and by general disagreement within the Government over it.

Regardless of personal feelings, the "failure of the Minister to observe the law . . . disentitles him to continue in office . . . and confidence in this and other acts canot be restored while he is Minister of Justice."

The Prime Minister and Mr. Garson united in an interpretation of the combines law.

They argued that once the statutory deadline for making public an official combines report is passed the law is no longer operative. It then becomes a matter of propriety, not of law.

Their statements put into new perspective a recent one by Mr. St. Laurent that a commission studying revision of Federal Laws has been asked to consider inserting in departmental acts a general provision that if deadlines for tabling reports cannot be met they should be tabled as soon as possible after they are available from the printers.

J. M. Macdonell (PC-Toronto Greenwood) said "that was an extraordinary thing" for the two Cabinet Ministers to say—"in effect that once you get to the 16th day it really did not matter what happened after that." The St. Laurent speech was "far worse . . . the worst thing that has occurred in this debate."

His "most extraordinary statement" was that about the law. This interpretation meant that "once you got to the 16th day it did not matter what happened in the intervening months, during the time Parliament was sitting or during the time of an election campaign."

Launch Campaign To Aid Blind In Province

"The blind people need assistance more than anything else so that they may be able to re-establish themselves and not become a liability to the community in later years," stated Col. K. S. Rogers last night as he launched a campaign in Charlottetown to collect funds for the Institute for the Blind. Col. Rogers, campaign chairman was addressing a group of canvassers in the Charlottetown Hotel.

The Institute is conducting an Island-wide campaign with an objective of $6,000.00. The canvassers begin in Charlottetown Monday and finish Wednesday evening. Returns will be handed in to the Bank of Montreal or the Institute office.

Col. Rogers in his remarks expressed his astonishment at the fact that there were so many blind people in the Province and that they had received so little aid. He stated that any aid the blind had been receiving had depended upon financial assistance from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

What Blind Need

Mr. Gordon Foster, chairman of the Advisory Committee to the Blind outlined the work being done by the committee and spoke about the requests which the blind people had made to this board. These requests included employment, home teaching, library service, concessions, free radio licences, theatre passes, discounts, assistance in needy cases, eye service and friendly and confidential counsel.

He spoke about the work of the blind teacher, Miss Mackinnon who is instructing some and checking to see if others made use of her teachings. He urged all to help the blind and concluded by thanking all for their support.

The Island secretary of the Institute, Mr. George Wood, himself a blind person, stated that there were a total of 158 blind people on the Island. He illustrated the various ways in which the blind could be helped and gave several examples of Island cases.

Among them were a young Charlottetown lady now working in Halifax, an Iona man, who is expected to go to work in Toronto, and a French River man who will operate a canteen in the Charlottetown Hospital.

He pointed out what a great advantage free passes to theatre would be to the blind as they are able to get the full picture from the sound traction.

Mr. R. J. Hill, assistant superintendent of the Maritime Division of the Institute of the Blind stressed the work of the Island Advisory Board and the Charlottetown Women's Auxiliary. Mr. Hill, blind since he was 16, expressed his appreciation at the fine gathering. He told of establishments for the blind in the Maritimes and said that three new ones were being set up. One will be in New Brunswick and the other two in Nova Scotia.

Rule Antiques In Second-hand Class

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Dec. 9 — (CP) — Antique shop proprietors are second-hand dealers within the meaning of an old statute governing licensing in Saint John, according to a decision in police court today. Max Kashetsky, a shop proprietor, was fined $10 for not having a licence under the statute.

Counsel for Kashetsky submitted that the original intent of the law was not to include antique and art dealers. A similar Toronto by-law excluded such dealers.

Magistrate E. J. Henneberry suggested that mutually satisfactory amendments might be worked out between the city and dealers.

Eldest Resident of North River Passes

North River's oldest resident, Mr. Frank Sanderson, died Dec. 8th in the P. E. I. Hospital just three days short of attaining his 93rd birthday. He was born at North River in 1856, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanderson. He married Eliza Watts of Hampshire, in Nov. 1895. The wedding was performed at Cornwall by the Rev. Mr. Baker, Methodist minister of that parish. To this union were born six sons, John, Franklin, Fulton, Miller and Robert who died in infancy. The funeral will be held this afternoon.
