Shall Women Join in Love Chase? Warns That Men Will Run Away

"The Right to Vote and the Right to Earn Her Own Living Are Poor Things to a Woman Compared With the Right to Pick Out the Man With Whom She Has to Spend Thirty or Forty Years"

The problem that seems to obsess the flapper mind most is whether a girl should tell her love or, like Mr. Shakespeare's heroine, let concealment prey upon her damask cheek.

Personally, I am firmly convinced that the greatest handicap under which women suffer today is the convention that forces them to assume a diffident role in love-making.

For the right to vote and the right to earn her own living are poor things to a woman compared with the right to pick out the man with whom she has to spend thirty or forty years.

This being the case, it is nothing but sheer idiocy to deny women the privilege of the love chase.

Tosh, Tommyrot. Women's hearts aren't constructed on that convenient push-the-button plan.

All would be well and we should have better and happier marriages and more of them if, under such conditions, the girl could go out as the boy does and sell herself.

Many a man arouses the interest of an indifferent woman by the ardor of his pursuit of her.

But a woman adopts these tactics in courtship at her peril because men are, for the most part, still believers in all the old hokum about a woman being a shy violet that hides away from the world.

Perhaps it is some survival of the old spirit of the chase that still makes men want to be the hunters instead of the hunted.

Common observation teaches that when a woman starts to run after a man he almost invariably outprints her.

The thing that rouses the fancy of most men is for a girl to be desirable yet difficult. It piques their curiosity to find out why she hasn't fallen for them at sight.

Therefore, in most cases a girl commits sentimental harikiri when she lets a man know that she is dead in love with him.

One is when a man is shy and timid, then the girl has to do the love-making if it is ever done at all.

So the only advice that I can give the flappers is to tell them that if they want to get their man they must study him and adapt their technique to his personality.

BEAUTY QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Developing the Calves Dear Miss Leeds—(1)—I would like a few exercises for developing the leg muscles below the knee.

Answer—Swimming, dancing and hiking are fine exercises for developing well-formed legs.

MISS ALICE D. Dear Miss Leeds—(1)—I would like to know how to develop my chest and bust.

Answer—Yes, indeed, I agree with you and I think that you are very sensible to want to bring your weight up to normal.

Pointers on How to Gain Weight Dear Miss Leeds—I would like to gain a few pounds.

Answer—Yes, indeed, I agree with you and I think that you are very sensible to want to bring your weight up to normal.

MISS DOROTHY R. Answer—Yes, indeed, I agree with you and I think that you are very sensible to want to bring your weight up to normal.

There are several points to be considered in any weight gaining or reducing for that matter.

For Cramps, Chills, Colds A New Brunswick Lady Has Made a Discovery

Rothsay, N. B., Dec. 4.—For the benefit of many mothers who don't know just what to do when sudden illness overtakes the children, Mrs. H. L. Carpenter gives good advice.

Mr. E. W.—Your weight is exactly right for your age and height. I would suggest seeing your physician regarding the bones and the knee joint.

Etiquette By Roberta Lee

Q. What is the birth stone for December?

A. Turquoise, or lapis lazuli. Q. Is it considered good form for employers to give Christmas presents to their employees?

A. No. Q. What are a few suggestions for refreshments at a tea?

A. Small sandwiches and dry cakes that are easily placed on the tea saucer are nice; and one should see that the water is really hot and not just warm.

AND THAT'S SMALL! A three-hundred-pound man stood gazing longingly at the enticing display in a haberdasher's window.

"Coah, no!" replied the fat man wistfully. "The only thing that fits me ready-made is a handkerchief."

CHINESE RUGS SHOWN IN TORONTO TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2.—(By The Canadian Press)—The dragon of China chasing the gleaming pearl (the sun) through the sky, as exemplified in a rug at the Ontario Museum, was the theme of an address on Chinese Textiles, given by Miss Ruth Home.

The intrinsic beauty of the work was the all-important ideal, the speaker explained, since the principle in the cut of the costumes was to conceal as much as possible of the human form, and unduly to display the bare arm or neck was as immodest among Chinese women as it would be to appear on Yonge Street in a bathing suit.

After the birth of my second child, I was always feeling tired, nervous and weak and had headaches, backaches and terrible pains every month. I suffered two years before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got four bottles at first and it did me a world of good. I would not be without it in the house now, and have another six bottles on hand. I recommend it to every woman I know."—Mrs. T. Barris, Box 114, Asbestos Mines, Quebec.

More cups to the pound KING Cole Orange Pekoe Tea costs more by the pound, but less by the cup.

It is blended entirely from "small leaves." These are the tender young shoots and bud leaves of the tea plant. They are cured with slow care with the result that they have the most sap and yield the richest "liquor" in the tea pot.

This rich liquor means less tea to the cup—more cups to the pound—less money for the more delicious flavor of a truly superior tea.

FEAR FATHER FORSTER WAS VICTIM OF AUTO

MONTREAL, Dec. 2.—The possibility that Father Francis Forster, missing superior-general of the Basilian Fathers, was struck down by a hit-and-run driver, who threw the body into his car and later disposed of it secretly is considered today by police and Father Forster's friends to be a far more likely theory of his weird disappearance than the foul play suggestion.

Father Murphy of St. Michael's college, Toronto, has now been joined here by Father V. L. Kennedy, president of Assumption college, Sandwich, where Father Forster spent many years of his clerical career and is best known outside the order. Other friends, both lay and clerical, who have come to Montreal to lend their assistance in the search were also present at the morning conference in Instructor T. Kavanagh's office today.

The sheer, baffling character of the mystery, yet unrelieved by a single clue that might provide a starting point towards a solution, was acknowledged by everyone present at the meeting.

In Memoriam MR. HENRY M. MONAGHAN.

The remains of the late Henry M. Monaghan who died in the Royal Alexander Hospital Edmonton, Alta., arrived at North Wiltshire 23rd instant, accompanied by Mr. P. J. Monaghan of that city. Henry, as he was familiarly known, left for the West last June and was employed as spare operator on the Saskatchewan Division of the C. N. R., doing relief work at Lloydminster, unity, and other stations. In the early part of October he underwent an operation for appendicitis, which terminated fatally. During his illness he was visited frequently by the Rev. Mons. McGuigan and Father Campbell, former Islanders, and died fortified by the last rites of Mother Church.

Deceased was a young man of a genial, kindly unassuming disposition and was deservedly respected by all who knew him for his sterling honesty, truthfulness, sobriety and industry. The general esteem in which he was held was evidenced by the great number of Mass cards and by the throngs of friends, who visited the remains and attended the funeral. Many of these came from great distances. His funeral took place Sunday afternoon at St. Joseph's Church, Kelly's Cross, where the services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Monaghan, Miscouche. The presence in the Sanctuary of Rev. Frank McDonald, Free-town, Rev. Leo Merrell, Lot 65, Rev. M. J. Smith, Kinkora, Rev. T. Curran and Rev. G. P. Monaghan, St. Dunstan's University, was a source of deep consolation to the friends. The pallbearers were Willie Coady, James McMahon, Gerald Nantes, Pius Smith, Matthias Monaghan and Louis McGuigan. May his soul rest in peace.

At all times the clinic doctors stress the importance of a general health examination, and of keeping in touch with the family doctor, and this is already bearing fruit. Local doctors are finding it to their advantage to co-operate with the clinic.

The first day of the clinic is given over to examination, doctors and dentists looking for such ills as diseased tonsils, adenoids, infected teeth, heart and chest trouble, and malnutrition. On the second day operations are in order. Families bring their beds with them, and the room is transferred into a hospital ward. The clinic staff has converted another room into an operating room. Everything is scrupulously clean and the work is carried on with celerity which would do credit to a city hospital. Two minutes is the average time required for a tonsillectomy. Afterward the patient rests under supervision until the doctor deems him fit to be taken home. Since the clinic was organized, not one fatality has followed an operation.

This year 41 clinics were held. Dr. R. T. Washburn, superintendent of the University hospital and head of the clinic, made 4413 examinations, performed 1408 tonsil and adenoid operations, 147 minor operations, and 93 circumcisions. He was assisted by Dr. Margaret Owen. The dental staff, Dr. Haycock, government dentist, and Dr. H. A. Gilchrist of the University of Alberta, made 4273 dental examinations, put 1180 fillings and extracted 2775 teeth. There were 1689 anaesthetics given including 163 for teeth alone. Doctors and dentists had valiant support from four nurses, Miss Olive Wetherston, Miss Agnes MacLeod, Miss E. M. Davidson, and Miss Anna Young.
