Income Tax Division Staffs' "Seeds For Britain" Success

(Ottawa Evening Citizen) From Vancouver to Charlottetown, staffs of the Income Tax Division of the Department of National Revenue have participated in the 1943 "Seeds for Britain" campaign and made it a tremendous success.

Last year, the first Seeds to Britain drive was carried out in the Income Tax Division branch offices from coast to coast, and it was successful, but on a much smaller scale.

This year the seeds sent to Britain total in value $544, of which $154 was donated by the 19 district offices and $390 by the head office in Ottawa.

In addition, a 15-pound carton was donated by the Belleville, Ont. Horticultural Society, and the firm of Dupuy and Perry, Ltd., of Montreal, from which all the seeds were purchased, added 10 per cent to each purchase and included it in the shipments.

G. B. Monk, chief treasury officer of the Income Tax Division who is in charge of the campaign, organized the drive, and promoted the campaign in England, the seeds were received by the British and under British names.

A letter from Lady Tweedsmuir to Mr. Monk, dated March 30, 1943 shows the success of the drive.

I have to thank you for your air- graph letters giving me the names of the various income tax staffs who have contributed so magnificently to the success of the "Seeds for Britain" campaign.

I have also received copies of nineteen letters received by me from the inspectors of income tax.

I cannot help feeling that the income tax staffs of the Income Tax Division throughout Canada is a most generous and patriotic group.

When I visit, they are hailed with delight and gratitude. I shall have the greatest pleasure in seeing that all the seeds that have been sent to me are distributed widely.

I have just received information from the authorities that the British have received this country and I am now applying for a licence to import them.

Again may I send you my most grateful thanks for this magnificent gift.

CHAPTER XXVI

Gary faced Jim Constance with a look of defiance. "I fall like any other animal trapped between two snarling dogs."

"Why, hello, Gary. What's all the rumpus about? Who fired who?" His handsome face in the early morning light was heavy with lines of disapproval.

He took the cigar out of his mouth. "It wouldn't take me two minutes to tell you that."

A 10-day campaign to obtain 645 recruits to bring Reserve Army units in Prince Edward Island up to strength will be launched here tomorrow.

For some months past the ranks of Reserve Army units in Charlottetown and other parts of the island have gradually been depleted by members leaving to go on Active Service.

The forthcoming drive for recruits will enlist the co-operation of newspapers, radio stations, service clubs and patriotic organizations of all kinds throughout the island.

Headquarters for the Reserve Army recruiting drive have been set up in premises formerly occupied by Frost & Wood Co. Ltd., between the Morell Hotel and Jenkins Pharmacy on Kent Street.

Marking the opening of the recruiting drive, a big parade will be held through the streets of Charlottetown tomorrow evening at 7.45 o'clock.

Those who are eligible to join the ranks of the Reserve Army and to whom the appeal is being directed are: Men between 17 and 19 years of age; single men from 41 to 50 years of age.

IT COULD HAPPEN NOW

ENEMY BOMBERS and landing parties could bring death and destruction here—unless we are prepared and ready to prevent it.

And that is a matter of having men efficiently trained for any emergency—soldiers!

And, that is why you are needed in the Reserve Army now—so that you will know what to do and how to do it.

Many of the Reserve Army personnel are going active. Others are needed immediately to keep this home defence force at full strength.

You need not leave your civilian occupation to serve with the RESERVE ARMY.

Radio Addresses Will Stress Need Of Reserve Army

In conjunction with the Reserve Recruiting Drive which is being launched tomorrow, a series of radio addresses will be given starting tonight, and continuing for a week.

Tomorrow night Captain L. A. MacDonald will speak over the radio station at 6:15 p. m. Other speakers will be announced at a later date.

Every possible medium is being used to let the people of Charlottetown and the rest of the island know the urgency of the situation.

All Prince Edward Island units are considerably under strength and recruits must be found as soon as possible to fill the ranks.

Choose your unit and Serve with the RESERVE ARMY

IN MEMORIAM

RUGH A. MACDONALD

Of the many vacancies occasioned in eastern King's County by visits of the Grim Reaper throughout the past year, few elicited more sympathy or more genuine regret on the part of intimate friends than that arising from the death of Hugh A. MacDonald, of Charlottetown, who passed away at the City Hospital, Charlottetown, on November 18, 1942.

The late Mr. MacDonald was well and favorably known to an unusually large circle in the particular community not only for his many admirable personal qualities as an upright character and industrious citizen, but also through his many years of service as rural mail carrier from the time that system was first inaugurated in this Province until, after about two decades of unremitting devotion to duty, he voluntarily retired and spent the remainder of his years in undivided attention to agricultural pursuits on his extensive holdings at Montserrat and Nutport.

A son of the late Ronald H. and Mrs. Christina (McIntosh) MacDonald, the deceased, while still a very young man, left, as did so many others of that day and generation, to seek his fortune in the United States. In that respect he succeeded unusually well, becoming in time a mill foreman for the great New Hampshire lumber corporation, John H. Henry & Sons, which position he held for many years.

During the remaining lifetime of his parents he spent his annual holiday with them every summer, often accompanied by others of the family, brothers and sisters, who also had found lucrative employment in the New England States. This home thus becoming a centre of generous hospitality remembered gratefully by all who had ever experienced the genuine kindness and neighborly friendship so thoroughly but unostentatiously exemplified there.

In the course of time he returned to make his permanent home on the old homestead, bringing there as his wife, Frances Smith, Saint John, N. B. To this union were born three daughters and one son, who now survive to mourn the passing of their father, and also of their mother who died in January, 1942.

During the infancy of their children he had them cared for at St. Vincent's Orphanage, Charlottetown, where they had the triple advantage of comfortable quarters, sound education and religious environment which left its impress through subsequent years. But soon as they were able to assume household duties, but even then at a tender age, their domestic circle was re-united, and continued happily so for the remainder of his life-time. Here the years of gentleness and devotion were spent, and he was a most devoted father, a most loving husband, and a most helpful neighbor.

He was a most devoted father, a most loving husband, and a most helpful neighbor. He was a most devoted father, a most loving husband, and a most helpful neighbor.
