NEW MODEL IN CANTEENS

TORONTO.—Sergt. F. J. Milton, at the Military Orthopedic Hospital at North Toronto, has evolved something new in canteens which promises to become "the M.H.C. model." Inpatients receive refreshments free on the profits gained from selling to outpatients and visitors at the usual rates.

Sergt. Milton declares that his system is not "robbing Peter to pay Paul," but just straight business with the legitimate profits which he usual merchant would pocket circulating in the form of smokes, or soft drinks, among the boys confined to their beds or chairs.

Pensions Minister Recommends Workshop for Convalescents.

LONDON, Eng.—Mr. G. M. Barnes, Pensions Minister, in opening the hospital here, provided for men who have been disabled in the war by the Eccentric Club, declared that England was just beginning to find out that the problem of the disabled soldier was psychological as well as medical.

"We must cease," he said, "dosing men with stuff, which sometimes did them no good, and leaving them in hospitals where they may be irritated by the sight of and all that discipline meant, and let them go into the workshop where they can apply their hands and their skill, and lose the feeling that they are a burden to everybody." ### THE RED LETTER BIBLE A VOLUME OF UNIQUE VALUE

During our really wonderful distribution of the Big Print Letter Bible we have come in personal contact with thousands of our readers. This is one feature that has been especially pleasant to us, since we have come to know that they are among the most refined and intelligent classes of this community. That we have also been able to render them a genuine service, and enable them to secure what is probably the best edition of the Bible for family use, is likewise a matter of congratulation to ourselves. We have only one regret—that we shall probably be unable to renew our contract for an additional quantity. Unless we are much mistaken the number on hand will barely satisfy the coupons yet to be presented. The crowds that daily demand the volume seem to be increasing, and we desire to honor all coupons—but there may be some disappointed holders who have not heeded our repeated warnings. 6069-8-30ME11.

CASH SYSTEM.

With a view to reducing prices by saving expense in many ways including interest, postage, stationary, and bad debts, the Boot and Shoe Merchants of this City established the NO CREDIT SYSTEM over six months ago and have proved by experience that they can give a better service to their customers and sell goods at smaller profits under the new system.

The Cash System has proved very successful and the Merchants find they can serve more customers in less time than formerly and the prices are lower than under the old system. Travellers coming to our town state that they can purchase footwear more reasonably in Charlottetown than in other Canadian Cities.

It is an unpleasant task for a Merchant to have to refuse to send goods out until they have been paid for, and some people take offense when informed of the rules, however you must remember that the rule is positive and you should not ask to have it broken but help to maintain a system which saves you money—the CASH SYSTEM.

Convalescent Soldiers Show Fancy Work at Toronto Exhibition

TORONTO, ONT.—In competition with the nuns in the convent and the village needle artists the exhibition visitors in Toronto this year will find the tidies, pillow tops and centrepieces made by the convalescent soldiers in the Military Hospitals.

The boys whose clumsy war-worn fingers learned the way of a woman with a needle in the long days of recuperation, have entered the lists and secured permission to exhibit their work under a special class in the big fair.

They have sewed assiduously at "All the world loves a lover," "Daisies won't tell" and other popular bits of pillow top poetry, and every effusion is wreathed in flowers.

The varieties of hand work which the convalescent men have engaged in are legion, and the display promises to be as large as it is interesting.

Boys who never sewed on a button before the war have proved themselves past masters in embroidery, and in colors so uncommonly clever that only Luther Burbank could tell their roses from the real thing at two paces. (15)

OLD MOTORS FOR STUDY

Many military motors which have served their time of usefulness as conveyances, are rendering further service as models for the soldier students in motor mechanics in the different vocational centres of the Military Hospitals Commission.

Several firms who had old cars with chronic ailments have also turned them over to the schools for soldiers for practice work.

The care and operation of automobiles is one of the most popular courses with the returned men, and one which holds great possibilities it is believed, judging from the tendencies of modern business.

The motor driven truck is fast supplanting the horse in hauling and delivery, as the limousine and touring car took the place of the horse and carriage and the demand for chauffeurs and motor mechanics is increasing daily. The work pays well, is pleasant, and offers the variety which the over-stimulated returned man craves. This, it is thought, accounts for its popularity with the boys who come back.

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other Liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely cured me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it. ## WHAT BISMARCK SAID OF THE KAISER

Can it be possible, asks the Rochester Union and Express, that Great Britain has in her hands a weapon more powerful than sword, rifle, grenade or cannon, which she refuses to use against the enemy who would chain all mankind as slaves to the Kaiser's military machine? There is reason to believe that this question can be truthfully answered in the affirmative, and the fact opens certain very interesting pages of history bearing on the present war. The weapon consists of the manuscript of the third volume of the memoirs of Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor, to whom more than to any other man who ever lived is due the unification of Germany and the growth of her power until she thought it strong enough to master the whole world.

Written But Not Published

Everyone knows that after Bismarck had for life devoted his great talents to the services of Germany and the Kaiser's family, the latter turned him out of office in his old age, with every circumstance of ignominy, and even made threats of shameful punishment in case the Chancellor should publish facts in his possession that would set his case in the true light before the world. Bismarck was a master of the pen, had a store of wit and humor, was familiar with several languages, possessed a marvellous memory, and had an unsurpassed knowledge of public affairs in the world during that important era in which he was the most masterful statesman in Europe. He published memoirs, the record of his sayings and actions during the Franco-German War, by Busch, to say nothing of what general history tells of his achievements, suggest what an act of lunacy it was for the Kaiser to provoke the enmity of such a man. His dismissal by the Kaiser exasperated the veteran statesman to the utmost, and he determined to take vengeance by completing his autobiography in which his relations with Kaiser Wilhelm II. are fully set forth. The book was written, but never published, yet enough is known of its contents to awaken the keenest desire all over the world to read its every page.

Intrigues Against Austria

It is said to detail the treatment of his parents by the Kaiser with a frankness that shows the son in a most odious light. But more important than this unflinching conduct toward both his parents are the revelations of his intrigues against Austria and the house of Hapsburg, which are said to be of such a character that if they were made public the Kaiser would never dare visit Vienna again. It was Bismarck's intention to publish the volume in his lifetime. But knowledge of its contents reached the Kaiser, and he threatened the author with such dire penalties in case of its publication during his life that Bismarck, fearing his seizure by the Emperor, secretly sent the manuscript to London, and it is now in the Bank of England.

Verboten by Kaiser

When Bismarck died the Kaiser warned his sons, Herbert and William, not to publish the book, and they were prudent enough to obey the order. He also tried to get possession of the manuscript, but failed in the attempt, and there is little doubt that the work will some day come to light, a consummation, it may be said, devoutly to be wished by everyone interested in the affairs of this moving world. The bearing of the case on the present war consists in the fact that, as the Kaiser is the head and front of the German offensive against the rest of mankind and as the Bismarck book would, beyond doubt, do him irreparable damage all over the world, including his own country and Austria, there are many who urge that the English Government should seize the manuscript as enemy property and publish it as a war measure. The only reason why it has not been seized and published is said to be that such action would injure the reputation for security now enjoyed by the Bank of England.

World Has a Right to Know

When one reflects on how little concern an agreement on a "scrap of paper," given under the most solemn circumstances, has for the Kaiser and his hordes, it tries one's patience to have Great Britain balancing the cause of the world's democracy. The Kaiser would sacrifice an army corps if he could thereby get the Bismarck manuscript. Perhaps the persistent attacks on London by Zeppelins and aeroplanes are aimed at the Bank of England in hope of destroying the hated copy of the Iron Chancellor. Why take any risk with an enemy in whom no faith can be placed? The world has a right to know all that can be known about the greatest enemy the human race has produced in recent years. Publish Bismarck's book and discuss the propriety of the act at The Hague.

They will return to have charge of a society to aid deaf American soldiers who may be injured at the front. Their method will aid them to preserve their normal speech; it will teach lip reading and it will demonstrate to employers how serviceable lip reading may be; it will develop what little hearing may be left, in the
