You have done your duty to your country; you have given the lives of your noble sons to your country's cause; you have lent your country $10,000,000. What have you given for the cause of Christian Education? Think of the work this institution has accomplished in this province for the past 65 years. Think of the men and clergy it has provided you with. Think of the Spiritual Guidance they have given you. Think of what they are doing and think of all there is yet to be done in the cause of Education. Do you realize the sacrifice the staff of this institution is making for the cause of Education? Give them at least sufficient accommodations to "carry on." Remember that he who gives to the cause of Christian Education is lending to the Lord Investments in the hands of Divine Providence bear eternal interests. Do you consider it worth your while?

NAVY LEAGUE REPRESENTATIVES IN SESSION IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Dec. 1.—A deputation composed of representatives of the Navy League of Canada from every province in the Dominion who have been holding a two day meeting in the capital called on the Prime Minister and Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, on Saturday and assured the government of the whole hearted support of the Navy League in carrying out Canada's future naval and mercantile marine policy.

Commodore Amillius Jarvis, Toronto stated that the Navy League of Canada could be styled the government's unofficial arm in naval and marine matters.

Sir Robert Borden called attention to the fact that his stand on the naval question had been made public some years ago and that inter-developments had not caused him to revise the opinion he had expressed at the time. The question to solve was one of Finance. Sir Robert spoke of Canada's tremendous commitments and the heavy drafts on the country's revenue to meet the interest on war costs and obligations arising out of the war.

The deputation afterwards met Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine and laid before him a resume of complaints regarding the treatment of men of the R. N. C. V. R., especially

LORD JELICOE IS NAVY LEAGUE'S GUEST

Premier Drury's Salary Reduced to the Extent of $3,000.

(Special to The Guardian.) TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 1.—Admiral Lord Jellicoe and Lady Jellicoe who will arrive in Toronto on Saturday December 6th, will be the guests of the Navy League at the King Edward Hotel on Monday.

Premier Ernest Drury's stipend is no longer $12,000 that enjoyed by his predecessor in office, Sir William Hearst. By a voluntary act on the part of the United Farmers of Ontario the Prime Minister's annual income as Prime Minister has sustained a considerable reduction. A rumor has been current in official circles for some time that Mr. Drury has reduced his salary as Premier by $3,000 making the figure, $9,000 which was the salary during the time of Sir Jas. Whitney, instead of $12,000, which was the figure established a couple of years ago. While no official announcement has been made the Star states that the report is true and that the reduction has been in actual effect since the moment Mr. Drury assumed office.

the overseas division to which the attention of the Navy League officials has been drawn during the year. Mr. F. K. Warren, of Halifax, asked that the Dominion Government should facilitate the training of naval boys by turning over for their use a large ship such as the Shearwater, which is at present out of commission in the docks at Halifax.

FAREWELL ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On Wednesday evening November 26, the residents of Springfield and vicinity assembled at the home of Mr. Samuel Abbot and family and presented them with the following address, accompanied by a valuable parlor chair.

Springfield, Nov. 26, 1919
To Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Abbot and family

Dear Friends:—It is a little more than four years since we bid you welcome to Springfield.

We had hoped at that time that you intended to remain with us permanently, but since you have decided otherwise we cannot allow you to depart, without endeavoring to express our regret at your decision.

As citizens you have been practical and progressive, while your attitude towards any movement for the general good was always encouraging and helpful. Our school especially will feel the loss of your pupils who are among the brightest in the district.

As neighbors we have ever found you agreeable and obliging while the many warm friendships you have formed time nor space cannot sever.

You are returning to the place of your birth, where you will renew old friendships and where the scenes and happenings of your childhood days will be brought back to your minds but we ask you not to forget the years spent among the people of Springfield and as a souvenir of those years we ask you to kindly accept this chair, together with best wishes and a fervent prayer for your future happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of those present
LEONARD McDONALD
MORRIS SINGLAI

Mr. Abbot, although taken completely by surprise, replied feelingly expressing regret at the fact that they were to remove so distance from many warm friends but also expressed the hope that the friendships would continue in spite of "a little distance". Speeches were made by Messrs. William Seaman, Frederick Haslam, R. MacDonald, Hon. John E. Sinclair and others. Mr. Archibald Ferguson presided. After this part of the programme was completed lunch was served by the ladies when a couple of hours were pleasantly spent in music and singing. Mr. Abbot leaves next week for Cornwall where he purchased the Scott property.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On the evening of November 28th a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. James Carr of Millvale to bid farewell to her and her daughter Mabel as they intend making their home in Charlottetown. The meeting was called to order and Mr. James Turner was appointed chairman.

The address was then read by Mr. John Hagen.

Dear Mrs. Carr and Miss Mabel:—We the friends of Millvale and Glynde River have assembled tonight with mixed feelings of pleasure and regret as we recall the record of past years the associations have been such as have endeared you to us not only through your infinite acts of kindness but by the true spirit of neighborliness which your life has expressed. With such thoughts as those filling our minds we have genuine pleasure in again tonight being able to come to your home and share your hospitality. The fact of such pleasant memories crowding our minds make it hard to realize that we must lose your friendship and it is with sincere regret that we tonight have come to the parting of the ways. On behalf of your friends we ask you to accept those tokens of our good will. We regret your departure but wish you both to feel that your friends do sincerely pray for a long and peaceful life for you.

Signed on behalf of the community.
Mrs. Carr was presented with a beautiful travelling bag and Miss Mabel with a jewelry case. Speeches, music and social intercourse made the evening pass all too quickly. Dainty refreshments were served and after singing Auld Lang Syne all departed wishing Mrs. Carr and Mabel health and happiness in their new home.

PERSEVERANCE AND FALL

The house built on the rock fell not,
But that on the sand great fall got.

A house upon a rock was built,
Against which storms and flood did beat,
But trials all it firmly stood,
And even shake it nothing could.

So all those who on Christ rely,
Can all their enemies defy,
They who in Jesus Christ believe,
Will persevering grace receive.

And none of them will e'er be lost,
For Jesus Christ has paid their cost
And now they are of Heaven sure,
And in Christ's keeping all secure.

When Jesus is our fall in all
Away from Him we cannot fall,
For we are kept by His own grace,
And strengthened in the Christian race.

Christ is Himself our chief dearest,
Which day by day is rising higher;
And who from Him could e'er depart,
Who the chief joy is of our heart.

He is Himself the church's foundation
From which there's no separation;
With Christ we are in perfect union,
Everlasting our Communion.

The word of God is our delight,
And we are not therefore of the night,
Instruction in the world we find,
By which enlightened is our mind.

He is wise who nothing leaves to doubt,
Himself examines strict throughout
Makes sure he's building on the rock
From which no power can e'er him knock.

Let us make sure of the new heart,
Renewed and clean in every part,
A copy, Jesus, then, of Thine,
All full of grace and love Divine.

Another house built on the sand,
Against floods and winds COULD not stand,
But in the storm it fell away,
And on the ground in ruins lay.

Of false professors such's the end,
However high they may pretend,
Their strength will fall in time of need
And fears and terrors will succeed.

Some men are proud and very bold,
With hearts that are too hard and cold,
Who trust in their own righteousness
Whose whole desire is but success.

They love to get from men much praise,
And then for honors have a craze,
The Lord Jehovah do not fear,
Nor can they e'er to Him draw near.

'Tis hypocrites that fall away,
Unstable are and will not stay,
The word of God is not their rule

And Godly men they ridicule.

But he who is not born again,
Can ne'er to Godliness attain,
Though long and wordy in his prayer,
Relief is when he takes his chair.

On feet or knees he oft is first,
Although he nothing cares for Christ;
No right experience has he had,
His efforts all are but a fad.

He greatly multiplied his words,
But they were all like blunted swords,
No good impressions were produced,
The meeting's interest was reduced.

False men no union had with Christ,
The world with them is always first;
When all things are not to their taste
Offence they take, away they haste.

All those who false profession make,
And places high perchance will take
Connected with the church for show,
At last will to perdition go.

The just man's prayer, of words but few,
Distilling down like Heavenly dew,
The longing souls it sure revives,
Brings tears of joy into their eyes.

The Godly man's not self-seeking,
Other men's prayers he's glad to hear,
And oft himself keeps in the rear.

When all the storms of life are o'er,
The just shall troubles have no more,
But shall forever joyful be,
And will the Lord in glory see.

WINTER HOUSING

(By Professor M. C. Herner, Manitoba Agricultural College)

If the poultry are to pay this winter they must be housed properly. The winter egg yield depends very largely on the conditions under which the hens are kept and the care they get.

The house should have been properly cleaned and whitewashed long before this. Doors, windows, and curtains must be repaired. Do not try to make the house warm, but try to have it so that it will be dry, free from draught and have plenty of light. A house that is dry, even though it may be cold, will give better results than a house built with the intention of having it warm, but where the walls are frosted, damp and wet, hens can not do well under those conditions.

Then to get good results, the pullets must be pretty well matured before the winter comes on. A soft mash once a day from now on will do wonders in bringing along the later hatched pullets and get them into shape for laying. Equal parts of oat chop and bran or shorts with milk mixed to make a crumble mash feed once a day will certainly make them grow and develop. Giving milk of any kind to drink will also help to mature them. Feed plenty of good hard grain, but don't throw down so much today that they waste it and then give nothing tomorrow. Use judgment in the amount given and follow out regular feeding as well. A flock of pullets looked after properly this fall and winter will more than pay for the trouble. Do not keep any small sickly and poorly fleshed pullets. Fatten them and sell at the same time as the cockerels are sold.

SWEET ALICE, BEN BOLT.

This long ago popular song is one of the prettiest bits of verse in the language. It is worthy of a place in your scrap-book.

Don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt
Sweet Alice whose hair was so brown,
Who wept with delight when you gave her a smile,
And trembled with fear at your frown!

In the old churchyard in the valley,
Ben Bolt,
In a corner obscure and alone,
They have fitted a slab of the granite so gray,
And Alice lies under the stone.

Under the hickory tree Ben Bolt,
Which stood at the foot of the hill,
Together we've lain in the noon-day shade,
And listened to Appletton's mill,
The mill-wheel has fallen to pieces,
Ben Bolt,
The rafters have tumbled in,
And a quiet that crawls round the walls as you gaze
Has followed the olden din.

Do you mind the cabin of logs, Ben Bolt,
At the edge of the pathless wood,
And the button-ball trees with its motley limbs,
Which nigh by the doorstep stood?

A GOOD EXTRACTOR

Willie had swallowed a penny, and his mother was in a state of alarm. "Helen," she called to her sister, in the next room, "send for a doctor; Willie has swallowed a penny!" The terrified and frightened body looked up imploringly.

"No mamma," he interposed, "send for the minister."

"The minister?" asked his mother, incredulously. "Why the minister?" "Because papa says he can get me out of anybody."

The cabin to ruin has gone, Ben Bolt
The tree you would seek in vain;
And where once the lords of the forest waved,
Grows grass and the golden grain.

And don't you remember the school, Ben Bolt,
With the master so cruel and grim,
And the shaded nook by the running brook,
Where the children went to swim?
Grass grows on the master's grave
Ben Bolt,
The spring of the brook is dry,
And of all the boys who were school mates then,
There are only you and I.

There's a change in the things I love,
Ben Bolt,
They have changed from the old to the new;
But I feel in the depths of my spirit
The truth,
There was never change in you.
Twelve months twenty have passed,
Ben Bolt,
Since first we were friends—yet I hall
They presence a blessing, they friendship a troth
Ben Bolt, of the salt sea-gale!

WHY BEES DISTINGUISH DIFFERENT COLOR

Interesting experiments have shown that bees distinguish different colors but different colors acquire significance for bees when the insects have learned that certain colors are associated with certain nutritive advantages. The bees are not "reflex-machines"—they are not compelled by any organic chromatism to prefer certain colors to others. They accumulate experience, and remember that certain colors are associated with certain nutritive benefits. They learn to save time by following certain color hints, but is not inconsistent with this that they are eager visitors of flowers without any color at all, but rich in nectar none the less.—Family Herald.
