announcing to the whole world that they were real honest and godless Bolsheviki, seven hundred jobless men headed by a leader who was a veritable firebrand at least in speech, descended upon the local government unemployment bureau, in one of London's northwest suburbs, Harlesden, and seized the plant. A riot called a strong force of police from the nearest station, whereupon the Bolsheviki marched away to "Bolsheviki headquarters" as they are calling the residence nearby of an extremist who was recently jailed for circulating seditious propaganda among the troops. They jeered and hooted and dared the police to their hearts content, begging to be arrested. The only response from the authorities was a huge laugh and the refusal by the police to dignify the movement by arresting any of the leaders.

Americans To Settle Irish Problem

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Oswald Garrison Villard announced last night that one hundred representative Americans had accepted the invitation of his magazine, the Nation, to constitute a non-partisan commission to sift the charges of atrocities in Ireland, made against one another by the British government and Sinn Fein. The announcement says that the Committee of One Hundred on Ireland, as it will be known, feels some neutral action is necessary in order to preserve Anglo-Saxon friendship and prevent the spread of ill will, with a possibility of driving the United States and Great Britain into war. Referring to Anglo-American relations the invitation says, one grave result of the present situation is the rapid growth of anti-British feeling which seriously threatens the unspeakable calamity of war between the United States and Great Britain, endangering the peace of the world.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION SPREADS DEATH AND DESTRUCTION ON WALL STREET, NEW YORK

Terrific Explosion at Noon on Crowded Wall Street. Kills Unknown Number of Persons and Injures Many Others. Front Blown out of J. P. Morgan Building. Broken Bodies Litter the Streets. Injured Taken to Hospitals. Explosion Supposed to Have Been Caused by Collision with T. N. T. Autotruck.

(Special to The Guardian.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—At least twenty five persons were killed and upwards of one hundred injured in a terrific explosion that shook the entire financial district of Wall Street at noon today. The explosion occurred in front of the offices of J. P. Morgan Co., the big financial concern and the entire front was blown out of the Morgan building and many employees of the Morgan concern were killed or injured.

The stock exchange closed business for the day, a few minutes after the explosion. At one o'clock more than eighty persons had been taken to hospitals and others were arriving in ambulances while scores were being given medical attention in nearby offices. The greatest confusion prevailed in the financial district and enormous crowds gathered. Fragments of flesh and clothes and blood clung to window sills of buildings high above the scene of the explosion. Bodies were horribly mutilated; legs and arms were found in nearby streets; fragments of automobiles and horses and wagons were among the debris. Nothing definite about the cause of the explosion is known but the police theory is that a wagon load of T. N. T. or other high explosive collided with an automobile and caused the explosion. An eye witness says flames from the explosion mounted to more than a hundred feet. Stenographers in offices more than 100 feet away from the explosion were burned about the face and hands. Every policeman available, soldiers, sailors and firemen were hurried to the scene. Ambulances clanged their way through dense noon-day throngs of thousands who jammed the downtown streets. Emergency hospitals were established and the injured were hurried away. J. P. Morgan is in Europe, other members of the firm were in their offices but none were injured. Junius Spencer Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan was cut on the hand by flying glass. Three men and one woman employees of the firm were reported to have been killed.

Several of the delegates protested against the presence of the flag, equal in size was in sight and when the flag was not immediately taken down they marched from the room and remained away until the hotel management obtained a new United States flag and draped it above the platform. IMPORTANT EVIDENCE BEFORE TARIFF COMMISSION

Mr. Pringle, Counsel for Textile Industries Referring to Farmer Party's Policy of Free Trade in Five Years Declares Sudden Death to Industries Would be Preferable.

(Special to The Guardian.)

WINNipeg, Sept. 16.—If we are to die far better would it be to have a sudden death rather than prolonged agony, said R.A. Pringle, K.C., Counsel for the Textile interests of the Dominion in continuing his argument before the Tariff Commission prior to its adjournment at noon, in referring to the platform of the Farmer's Party which predicts free trade in five years, if that party is successful at next Dominion general election. In conclusion Mr. Pringle said there were great problems being settled in Canada and a great war debt to be paid. Industries must be encouraged if that debt was to be met. A tax policy of encouraging importation was an enemy to home industries. We want the greatest revenue from importation. We want to develop resources of the country, with people of country and we want the people to enjoy the benefits of these resources. We are only on the threshold of a great advance. We have in this country great resources. We have great water power, splendid harbours and tremendous acreage awaiting the coming plow, and I think we can feel every confidence in this country, providing we proceed on safe and sound lines.
