She leaves to mourn a sorrowing husband and one daughter also her father Mr. Finlay Matherson of Darlington and a half sister Mrs. P. J. Noy, Hunter River, Mrs. MacNeill has many friends in this province who will regret to learn of her sad death. She was a true Christian and faithful Church worker.

GEORGE WARREN STEEVES

The death occurred at Bridgetown about nine o'clock Friday evening of Mr. G. Warren Steeves, one of the best known residents of the Parish of Coverdale, and well known in the City of Moncton and throughout the County of Albert. The late Mr. Steeves was born in Bridgetown and has resided there all his life. He was a son of the late Ezra Steeves and was highly esteemed in the community in which he lived.

Deceased is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Margaret Scott and three daughters, Mrs. W. R. Williams and Mrs. W. H. Edgett of Vancouver and Mrs. T. C. Edgett, of Charlottetown.

MR. EDWARD KICKHAM

There passed away suddenly at Souris West, on February 26th one of the most respected citizens of that place in the person of Edward Kickham, eldest son of the late Edward Kickham. The deceased was only ill a few days and his sudden death was a shock to his many friends. A sad circumstance of his death was his sisters being confined to their beds through sickness at his funeral. He was in his 72nd year. The last Sacraments of the Catholic Church were administered by Rev. Father McLean, V. G. His funeral took place on Wednesday, the 28th at St. Alexis Church and was largely attended. Services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Reginald McDonald.

THE LATE JOHN WHITE

On Feb. 13, the Angel of Death visited the home and removed the dearly beloved husband and father from our midst. He was born in St. Mary's, Newfoundland on June 8th 1852 and came to Charlottetown in the year 1870. He was twice married, his first wife being the late Mrs. Mary White, who died in 1903, leaving a family of four daughters and three sons, namely: Mrs. Kate Lablanc of West Arichat, N. S.; Mrs. Maria Gillis of Charlottetown; Margaret of Charlottetown and Mrs. James I. Oregon of Roxbury, Mass. The sons are: Thomas of Charlottetown; Pumping Station; Edward of Sims Packing Co., and John of Charlottetown. He is also survived by his second wife, Mary Jane Scott, of Charlottetown, and a sister Mrs. William Ryan and brother Joseph St. John's, Newfoundland. The funeral which took place from his late residence, 94 Richmond St., to the Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery, was largely attended. The pall bearers were: Thomas McMahon, Michael Power; James Rush; Lodge Diamond; Joseph Gaudet and Patrick Dennis.

EMOTIONS CAUSE POISONS

Anger and fear cause poisonous secretions which are injurious to the human body and sometimes fatal to human life, said Prof. F. S. Hammett, of the Wistar Institute of Anatomy, Philadelphia, when lecturing before the Royal Canadian Institute Saturday night. A life of excitement and worry also entails penalties: per contra, a life of equanimity produces good health," he said.

The basis of these conditions are certain glands of internal secretion, products from some of which neutralized or counteracted the poisonous secretions from others. These facts, said the professor, have been demonstrated by experiments on rats.

JOHN J. MCPHEE

There died at his home in Souris on the 24th Inst. John J. McPhee, formerly of Big Pond, Lot 45. His illness of pneumonia was of short duration, being only a few days ill. He lived all alone in the house, or rooms which he had rented and depended on his good and kind neighbors for care and attendance which was cheerfully given. Mr. McPhee was up to a few years ago, 1917, a prominent farmer at Big Pond, when he was born. His wife dying and having no issue, he decided to sell off whence he moved, with an adopted daughter to Charlottetown. There he remained some two years when the daughter who had been training in the meantime at the Business College for a diploma secured an excellent position in Boston and Mr. McPhee then moved to Souris where he remained ever since. His friends and old neighbors at Big Pond, upon hearing of his death decided to take his remains and bury him in his native parish of St. Margarets. Messrs. Leo S. McCormack, Peter P. McPhee, Joseph A. McPhee and John McPhee of Big Pond went to Souris Sunday and took his remains across and had him waked at the residence of his old friend and neighbor Angus J. McPhee. Monday morning the remains were conveyed to St. Margarets Church where a Mass of Requiem was offered by the Pastor for the repose of his soul. The funeral, though not large, was a fairly representative one. Mass all that was mortal was laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery.

children. No very near relatives on the island with the exception of one niece, Mrs. Donald McInnis, Milton Mills. Mr. McPhee was a strong, big husky man in his day, but of late years was the victim of poor health. He was about 74 years of age. May his soul rest in peace.

MRS. WILLIAM MCINTYRE

At her home, Hillcrest Farm, Montague, on the 6th of December 1922, there went to her eternal rest, Mrs. William McIntyre at the age of sixty-five years. She was a daughter of the late Josiah Lane and Susan Doty; her mother or predecessor her just five days having passed away on the first of December last. She was born at Hermitage and was married at the early age of nineteen years. Besides her husband she is survived by a family of eight children, namely: Mrs. James Rourke, and Mrs. Charles Robertson, Montague, North; Mrs. Emerson Sheldon, Minniewick; Mrs. John Erickson, North Dakota; Fred near Montague; Sidney near the old home; and Edison and Otilie, all here. Also four brothers and one sister George and Amos in Hermitage; Jabez and Celeb in the U. S. A. and Mrs. Mitchell, Village Green, all eighteen grandchildren. Rest on dear mother, thy work is o'er. Thy willing hands shall toll no more. Thou wert so good so true so kind Not many can say like you we find

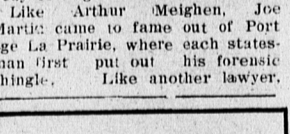

The late Mrs. McIntyre was a woman of kind hearted, lovable disposition, devoted to home and family, always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need; it can be said that she spent her life serving others. Deceased had been in failing health for some time, but her condition was not considered serious until a few weeks before her death, when she was found to be suffering from a disease which proved fatal, regardless of the best medical attendance. Her funeral took place on the 8th of December and was largely attended. Service at the house and the grave were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Brown pastor of the Methodist Church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. Mr. Neilson assisted in prayer. The hymns sung were "Stars in the Great Beyond" and "Abide With Me," also a beautiful solo "Good-Night" sung by Mrs. Brown. The pall bearers were Russell McLaren, Oswald Collins, Amos Robertson, Cyrus Moore, George Mellish and William Doherty. She was laid to rest in the pretty little cemetery at Union Road.

THE LATE JOE MARTIN

Not many men have sat in four British legislatures—none whom we know of, and perhaps only one who sat in three. He was Chas. J. Devlin, first a member at Ottawa, then at Westminster and finally in the cabinet of Quebec. Joe Martin—nobody ever spoke of him as Mr. Martin—was the attorney-general of Manitoba immediately before young Clifford, Sifton of Brandon full led the promise of office which all who heard him in his more Methodist days could hear whenever he publicly opened his mouth. That was in 1891; and Fighting Joe had been in Premier Greenway's cabinet three years and eight years in the legislature. Which means to say that he was an M. P. P. at twenty-nine. The marvel was, not that he left the attorney-generalship after three years, but that he stuck to a portfolio for so long. Free speech has always meant so much to Joe. When he was in the government his utterances were just as interesting as when he could be a blizzard without anybody feeling much the worse. Like Arthur Meighen, Joe Martin came to fame out of Portage La Prairie, where each statesman first put out his forensic shingle. Like another lawyer,
