The Central Guardian

IT PAYS to buy in this province.

GARDENING TODAY.— The Prince Street School girls who have plots at Victoria Park are requested to meet Prof. McLarty on the grounds this morning at 8.30 sharp.

POTATO PRICES SLUMP.— The bottom has dropped completely out of the potato market in New Brunswick and the United States says a Sydney exchange. Big shippers in Carleton County, N. B., found themselves with a surplus amount of "spuds" after seeding and flooded the market with the excess. The final result was that potatoes which were $6 and $7 a barrel on the Fredericton market about ten days ago have now slumped to $1 a barrel, in fact, farmers find it hard to get that price now.

SMOKES FOR THE FRONT.— Mr. G. D. Montgomery of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Summerside, has kindly forwarded to the Secretary of the 105th Comfort Circle the sum of $20 the proceeds of a Patriotic Dance and Pie Social held by the young people of St. Eleanors which amount they wish to be used for smokes and a gift to the 105th boys. This is an example that might be followed by other young people as the demand for smokes is great and the boys are duly appreciative.

BIBLE SOCIETY.— Principal J. D. Seaman, the energetic secretary of the Prince Edward Island main branch of the Bible Society is making a special visit in the Eastern parts of this province at present. He held services at North Lake, South Lake, and Kingsboro yesterday, Sunday, On Monday the 16th he will address a meeting at Bay Fortune. Tuesday 17th Marie, Wednesday the 18th at Martinvale, Thursday 19th, Cardigan, on Friday 20th, Dundas. The work of the British and Foreign Bible Society throughout the world and especially during war times to the soldiers, deserves, the sympathy and support of all right thinking people.

OF LOCAL INTEREST.—Blood is thicker than water, and the call of the clan is louder than the cannon's roar. The pibroch is sounding and the Macleans are gathering, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The clan is an old and valiant one. It fought at Culloden in 1746 when the star of Bonnie Prince Charlie went down and brought but four unhurt men out of the five hundred who charged the enemy. It is a great fighting clan and the plaid of the Maclean is dear to all Scotland. Now the Macleans, or certain of them, are endeavoring to form an entire battalion of Macleans, to be called the Maclean Highlanders of North America, and all America is being combed to produce them. So far ten States have furnished Maclean recruits, and it is believed every State in the Union will add to the quota before the books are closed. There is something particularly fine in this call of the clan. The deathless loyalty of the descendants of the Highland tribe holds them true to the community traditions and the community faith. The shrilling of the pines echoes across the land and every Maclean, be he old or young, will feel a responsive thrill.

COMFORTS FOR THE 105TH.— It is always pleasant news to those at home to hear of the safe arrival of comforts for the brave lads overseas. A letter dated June 16th just received by the Secretary of the 105th Comfort Circle from an officer of the 25th Battalion says in part: "We beg to acknowledge with sincere thanks receipt of your "Parcel No. 12." The contents of this have been distributed amongst Prince Edward Island men in the Battalion." Parcel No. 12 referred to, contained "smokes" for each 105th boy in t he 25th Battalion, and it is pleasing to note that although there is now no Island officer with these boys, others are gladly cooperating with the 105th Comfort Circle's work. A letter of the Secretary, also dated June 16th from Shoreham Camp, England, has arrived from Lieut. E. H. Strong, O. C., 105th Overseas Battalion Draft asking that the thanks of all members of the Draft be conveyed to all who generously contributed towards the 105th Comfort Circle gifts and states the kind wishes of the Circle will not soon be forgotten. In regard to the supply of oranges sent to the train for the boys the morning they left, message says: "The oranges were found all O.K., and formed a welcome treat for all." Just a few days previous word came that "Case No. 37" sent to Col Ings for 105th boys in the 104th had arrived safely, was most welcome, and had been distributed. Among other articles in the case were socks kindly donated by the ladies of North River Women's Institute.

POOL TABLE FOR DALTON SANATORIUM.— Sir Charles Dalton raised subscriptions among his friends for the provision of a pool table for the Dalton Sanatorium and it is now being greatly appreciated by the inmates and particular thanks are due to Mr. J. A. Macdonald, Cardigan, and Mr. James Tuplin, Lot 11, who contributed the sum of $50 each and enabled the table to be placed free of debt.

AUTO TRIP FROM BOSTON.—Mr. Douglas E. Foster and William J. Hall, wife and child made a delightful trip from Boston to Salisbury, N. B., where they left their auto and proceeded to suffolk, P.E.I. by train and boat. They were not acquainted with the fact that autos were allowed to run on P. E. I. till they were aboard the Northumberland. The part of the trip from Boston, to Bangor, Me., about 250 miles was made in thirteen hours. Messrs. Foster and Hall spoke of the great preparations in Boston to carry on the war; of the royal reception given to Col. Guthrie of the 236th Battalion in his recruiting campaign in Boston; also of the contrast in Canada in regard to the displaying of flags. In Boston the National emblem is displayed everywhere. The party will visit Mr. Jos. Dover of Suffolk where they will remain for two weeks.

THE WAY TO STOP THE WAR

NEW YORK.—" The way to stop the war is simply to drive the Germans from the skies," says Orville Wright, in an interview with The Standard.

When the Germans have been driven out of the air the Allies will be supreme and the war will end."

"At present the difference between five years or more of war and an early victory for the Allies is 10,000 airplanes."

"We have the industrial plants, which could soon be adapted for the turning out of airplane motors. * * * There seems no reason to doubt that in a year hence we will have sent abroad thousands of fighting airplanes that will be better than anything yet produced."

"If we could drop 1,000 airplanes and aviators over there today, everybody in Germany would know before night that we were there."

"We are bringing over to this country foreign motors which * * * will be duplicated here."

"Essen, the site of the Krupp gun works * * * could be reached bombarded, and put out of business."

"I think it is conceded that the Central Powers cannot any more than compete with their opponents in the manufacture of airplanes. Therefore, the United States in this regard holds the balance of power."

When Orville Wright, inventor of the flying machine and the first man in the world to fly, was asked to express his opinion as to the probable effect of an efficient carrying out of the Aircraft Production Board's plan for an appropriation of $630,000 000 for 35,000 airplanes and thousands of aviators, he replied that, as the war was now being run absolutely from above, the United States could win it in the air. Then thousand flying machines he said, would end the war in ten weeks.

It was in Dayton that Mr. Wright talked about the Government's airplane programme and the outlook for victory in the air.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that a large airplane fleet is the way to stop the war. If it were possible for the United States to deliver tomorrow several thousand flying machines in France, the war would be won by the Allies in a few weeks. The way to stop the war is simply to drive the Germans from the skies, and this can be done only by a preponderance of fighting machines. By fighting machines I mean little airplanes carrying one man and a rapid fire machine gun.

FLOWERS THAT DISLIKE ANTS.

By Francis Margaret Fox.

Housekeepers do not like to have ants in their houses. When Marian's mother found one little red ant near the sugar-barrel in the pantry she made such a fuss all the children laughed. Mother sent right away to the drugstore for a package of ant killer, and then she sprinkled it all around the edges of the barrel.

arian told Uncle Richard about it when he came home; Uncle Richard teaches botany in the high school; so instead of laughing at mother, he told Marian that there are plants that dislike ants, and if she would call all the other children he would tell them how the plants keep ants away. The children came running!

"Please get me some butter and eggs," Uncle Richard then said to Marian. The children knew he didn't mean butter-and-eggs from the pantry; he meant the orange and yellow flowers that grew beside the fence. Marian was quickly back with a hand full of butter and eggs.

"This flower was not growing in our country when Christopher Columbus discovered America," said Uncle Richard," "and maybe it wasn't even in Europe, and finally crossed the Atlantic, and now here it is, and it never sends to the druggist for something to keep this away!"

"What does it do!" asked Marian's older sister.

It grows bristly hair that ants connot climb over. Butter-and-eggs wishes to give all i's honey to the bumblebee. It stores honey in the end of the little cornucopia. Then t keeps its doors shut. Along comes Mr. Bumblebee, steps on the porch where the flower is colored like the yolk of eggs, open goes the door, in goes the bumblebee after honey! When he backs out again the door closes behind him. Honey bees cannot open the door because they are not heavy enough.

"When the bumblebee goes into the butter-and-eggs honey well to pump up the honey, he gets his velvet coat covered with pollen. Then away he goes into another butter-and-eggs to ripen seeds so they can keep growing new plants year after year!"

The children were so interested in springing open the door of the pretty butter-and-eggs flower that they forgot about the ants, until Marian asked her uncle the name of another blossom that will not allow ants to come visiting.

"The gringed gentian will not have ants walking in the front door looking for honey that is needed by the bees," was the answer.

Uncle Richard asked the children if they remembered that the petals of the blue gentian are trimmed with blue fringe. They made them laugh; they told him of course they remembered. No one who ever saw the lovely flower could forget the fringe that looks as if the fairies had snipped the edges of every petal with wee, wee scissors.

"The gentian wears that fringe to keep ants away," Uncle Richard told the children before he walked away, laughing because Marian called after him.

"Wish the sugar barrel would blossom out in the blue gentian fringe and butter-and-eggs trimmings!" But it didn't.
