NAVAL ENGAGEMENT IN BALTIC SEA

Several German Transports Sunk by Russian Ships. Russians Lost one Auxiliary Ship. Germans May Attempt to Land Troops on Russian Coast.

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, June 7.—A naval engagement at the entrance to the Gulf of Riga resulted in the sinking of several German transports, and one large vessel not named, says the Petrograd correspondent of the Times. The Russians lost one auxiliary ship.

SERBIAN FORCES ARE ADVANCING

(Special to the Guardian.)
ROME, June 7.—Serbian forces are continuing the advance in Albania from two directions and are now only two days march from Scutari, according to a despatch. They have occupied the towns of St. Rova and Galahario, near Elbasan. In central Albania, while the regions of Has and Ljume also are in their hands. The advancing forces met with little opposition. Albanian and Mussulman troops are said to have abandoned Scutari several days ago.

FRENCH MINE LAYER SUNK BY GERMANS

(Special to the Guardian.)
PARIS, June 7.—The Ministry of Marine officially says: "The French mine layer Casablanca struck a mine in Entrance Bay, Aegean Sea. The captain and another of the crew of sixty-four sailors were picked up by a British torpedo boat destroyer. It is possible others were able to reach the coast, where they may have been taken prisoners by Turks."

UNPARALLELED ACHIEVEMENT OF YOUNG CANADIAN AVIATOR

Chased and Overtook the Zeppelin that Raided England. Manoeuvred for Position Whence He Dropped Bombs on Zeppelin Blowing it up and Sending it a Roaring Torch to the Earth with its Crew of 28 Men. The Canadian Escaped.

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, June 7.—For the first time on record a Zeppelin in air has been destroyed by an aviator in an aeroplane. Reginald A. J. Warneford, a young sub-lieutenant in the Royal Navy, who mastered aeroplaning only this summer, has performed the feat, and to-night is somewhere within the British lines, while the Zeppelin lies in ruins, sprawled on the roof and ground of an orphanage near Ghent. Falling there a blazing mass, after being struck by the young aviator's bombs its crew of twenty-eight men were killed, also several occupants of the orphanage buildings. The theory is advanced this Zeppelin was the craft which raided the east coast of England last night for the fact that it was in the air over Belgium between Ghent and Brussels at 3 o'clock in the morning leads to the belief that it was returning from the expedition not starting. Dawn breaks early these days and the huge Zeppelin could be sighted far off, and it is presumed that the craft was headed for her home when Warneford came winging swiftly under the gray skies.

The Zeppelin which was flying comparatively low began to mount at once but the Britisher was speedier and climbed into the air in long spirals, reaching a position at length over the German war works. From this position of vantage Warneford pierced the Zeppelin's shell repeatedly with his incendiary bombs. Without a parallel in this war or any other is the story which the young aviator will have to relate, for details of the fight have not yet been told. First came long pursuit, for according to the Admiralty report the aeroplane was six thousand feet in the air. To reach this height would require nearly twenty minutes and the Zeppelin meantime could drive forward approximately fifteen miles. Then followed the manoeuvring for position and finally the dropping of bombs from which the dirigible tried vainly to escape. Minor explosions occurred and at last one of terrific force and the Zeppelin burst into flames. At that moment Warneford must have been at close range over the dirigible, for almost simultaneously with the outbreak his machine turned completely over and for a moment hung head down within his monoplane, all control of which had been lost pitching and tossing in swift currents of air which rushed up to fill the vacuum created. By a desperate movement Warneford flung his machine far above the earth and planned for a landing behind the German lines. He alighted unhurt, set his propeller going again and flew off to the West. Whether the Zeppelin's machine guns or rifles were turned on the aviator is not disclosed, but in order to attain such an advantageous position, the British Lieutenant must have handled his machine skilfully for this is an extremely difficult feat. Although the target the Zeppelin presents is extensive it can be lifted by its own buoyancy to a great height while the pursuing aeroplane has to rise in spiral by the power of its engine alone. As the fight in mid-air occurred over that part of Belgium held by the Germans, hopes are raised in London that the Germans will be forced to move their Zeppelin bases Eastward, thus making raids on England more hazardous. Some of the reports say that the non-combatant victims were two nuns and two orphans and that others were injured, but a Reuters despatch received to-night says that two nurses and two children were killed and many others injured. All versions agree that the Zeppelin crew perished and this seems certain as the great craft was struck while more than miles in the air and must have been a roaring torch before it struck the earth.

NEW MINISTERS OF COALITION CABINET

Take their Seats in House of Commons. Premier Announces Response to Kitchener's Appeal for 300,000 Recruits was Satisfactory. Recruiting Programme Later.

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, June 7.—All the new Ministers of the British Coalition Cabinet appeared on the front bench in the Commons this afternoon. Premier Asquith and the new Secretary for the Colonies, Bonar Law, and others were cheered by the whole House when they rose to a question. Premier Asquith announced that the response to Kitchener's appeal for three hundred thousand recruits was satisfactory. Full announcement of the Government's policy regarding recruiting will be made later. Alluding to the intervention of Italy, Premier Asquith said: "During half a century there never has been a shadow of discord between the two nations. We regard her as one of the custodians of the free traditions of Europe. We warmly grasp the hand of Italy, welcome her gallant sailors and soldiers as fellow-comrades in the struggle on which the liberty of the world depends." Frederick G. Kellaway, (Liberal), asked whether the Government has the power of stopping the mischievous campaign of a group of newspapers which endeavoured to prevent men from going to the army by refusing to publish Kitchener's appeal for more men violently attacking its conditions, and whether the Government are aware that these attacks came from the same source as did the recent attacks on Kitchener. Mr. Tennant, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of War, replied: "The action of these journals has stimulated a response to Kitchener's appeal. It is believed the men required will be available." Mr. Tennant's answer was greeted with cheers. Mr. Kellaway asked assurance from the Coalition Government that "this malignant press will not be able to continue its attacks on the leaders of the nations." Mr. Tennant said he thought this action was not necessary. Home Secretary Simon wove the second reading of the Bill to establish a ministry of munitions. He explained that the new department would concern itself with the supply of munitions but that the fighting departments would determine the nature, extent and urgency of their needs. The Home Secretary said the army wanted as many shells as the organized industry was capable of producing and as quickly as possible. Lord Robert Cecil, Unionist, recently appointed Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, made his first appearance in the Commons as spokesman for the Foreign Office today. Replying to a question whether Britain had sent China and Japan a note similar to the American note on the Chino-Jap treaty, Lord Robert said: "Both Japanese and Chinese Governments are aware of the views of His Majesty's Government on the subject." The Munitions Bill evoked some mild opposition. The House was then committed to a financial resolution authorizing a salary for the Minister of Munitions not exceeding $25,000 yearly. The House then adjourned. The Munitions Bill must be read again and go to the Lords but an agreement as to financial details assures its passage.

GERMAN CROWDS SHOUT FOR PEACE

(Special to the Guardian.)
PARIS, June 7.—L'Humanite, which has its own means of obtaining news from Berlin declares that 2,000 persons, mostly women, assembled in front of the Reichstag building on May 28th, in Berlin, and shouted for peace. The crowd was finally dispersed by mounted police, who charged into its midst. Several arrests were made. The press was forbidden to mention the incident.

BRILLIANT CEREMONY IN COUNCIL CHAMBER

His Honour Augustine C. McDonald Sworn in as Governor of P. E. Island in Presence of a Number of Citizens.

In the presence of a number of citizens yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Legislative Council Chamber, His Honour, Lieutenant-Governor Augustine C. McDonald was sworn in by the Chief Justice, Sir W. W. Sullivan, assisted by Mr. F. W. Bennett, Assistant Clerk of the Privy Council of Canada. Mr. Justice Fitzgerald also participated in the ceremony. After His Honour had taken the prescribed oath, he was congratulated by the Chief Justice and a number of friends and others.

The Commission, read by Mr. Bennett, was as follows:

George V. by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, etc.

To Augustine Colin Macdonald, of Montague, in the Province of Prince Edward Island, gentleman, and to all to whom these presents shall come, Greetings:—

Know ye that we reposing special trust and confidence in the prudence, courage, loyalty, integrity and ability of you, the said Augustine Colin Macdonald, to be Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Prince Edward Island, one of the Provinces of our Dominion of Canada during the will and pleasure of our Governor-General of Canada.

And we do hereby authorize and empower and command you the said Augustine Colin Macdonald in due duty to do and execute all things that shall belong to your said command, and the trust we have reposed in you, according to the several powers, provisions and directions granted or appointed you by virtue of the Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, passed in the thirtieth year of the reign of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, called and known as the British North America Act, 1867, and of all other statutes in that behalf and of this our present commission, according to such instructions as are here-with given to you and hereunto annexed, or which may from time to time be given to you in respect of the said Province of Prince Edward Island under the sign manual of our Governor-General of our Dominion of Canada, or by order of our Privy Council of Canada, and according to such laws as are or may be in force within the said Province of Prince Edward Island.

And we do hereby further appoint that so soon as you shall have taken the prescribed oaths and entered upon the duties of your office, this our present commission shall supersede our commission under the great seal of Canada bearing date the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and ten, appointing His Honour Benjamin Rogers to be the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Prince Edward Island.

In testimony whereof we have caused these our letters to be made patent and the great seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed.

Witness, etc., etc.

At our Government House, in our city of Ottawa, this third day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and in the sixth year of our reign.

By Command (Sgd.) LOUIS CODERRE, Secretary of State.

SEPTEMBER DOMINION ELECTION

OTTAWA, June 5.—It is now almost certain the general election will take place in the early part of September. Both political parties are busily preparing literature and completing their plans for an early autumn campaign. The soldiers' ballots are safely in charge of the Lord High Commissioner in London, the amendment of the British North America Act has received the Royal assent, and everything is in readiness for dissolution at short notice. A rumor was in circulation that Sir Robert Borden would probably go to England next month to consult with the authorities. This is merely political club gossip and is without official confirmation. Sir Robert's hands are full with administrative work and preparations for an appeal to the country, and he is not likely to leave Canada at this critical juncture. If he does, it will be only for a short spell in order to have a personal conference with the

BERLIN DESCRIBES ATTACK BY FRENCH AVIATORS

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, June 7.—A despatch received by wireless from Berlin describes the attack upon the headquarters of the German Crown Prince by French aviators. They dropped bombs and steel darts and several men were killed. Otherwise the raid is described as unsuccessful. The raid referred to is, without doubt, the onslaught mentioned in a French official communication given out on the night of June 3. This fixed the attack of the French aviators on the headquarters of the German Crown Prince as having occurred that morning. Twenty-nine machines threw

SUMMARY

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, June 7.—If the Germans have transferred troops from East to West, as reported, they have held sufficient men on the Eastern front to continue without relaxation the offensive which has carried them and the Austrians almost across Galicia. The forces which pinched Przemysl into surrender are battering their way East according to both German and Austrian official communications at one point in the Southeast, hardly more than sixty miles from the Russian frontier. The troops which swept through Stry have continued further East until they are thirty miles beyond that town and equally beyond Lemberg, the position of which appears perilous. Further North they are eighteen miles to the East of Przemysl. So that, roughly speaking, the encircling movement on Lemberg is duplicating that at Przemysl. The Germans also are on the offensive in the Baltic provinces. Their official statement records the crossing of the River Windau, to Southeast of Libau. A Petrograd despatch received in London to-night says telegrams from Riga report the Germans active to the North, Northeast and East of Libau. Military authorities expect heavy fighting at Mosteck, where Russians will make a determined stand.

There is hard fighting and heavy losses on both sides, notably to the north of Arras, where the French seem determined to nibble. Their forward move continues in the west, but the contests are hardly more than trench warfare, contrasted with the fighting in Galicia.

Repeated Zeppelin raids on England have aroused British airmen to extraordinarily vigorous action. A raid on the Zeppelin shed near Brussels and the bringing down of a Zeppelin with its crew near Ghent were carried out at about the same time. The British official account does not state whether the hangars attacked held a Zeppelin, but a message reaching London asserts it did.

Italy, since she has thrown her troops in the field and unleashed her navy on the side of the Allies, has been taken into the financial circle of the nations warring against Germany. At a recent meeting of the British Chancellor of Exchequer and the Italian Minister of the Treasury an agreement was reached to pool the resources just as Britain, France and Russia had previously agreed.

BERLIN CLAIMS ALLIANCE WITH ROUMANIA

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, June 7.—A despatch from Berlin says: Political discussions in Bucharest, Roumania, brought to light the fact that there exists a formal treaty among Austria, Germany and Roumania. This treaty, which runs until 1920, regulates the relations among these countries and binds Roumania in case of war to attack the Allies.

P. E. ISLAND GIRL SHOT IN NEWTON, MASS.

Miss Ruby Stewart Dying in Hospital from Bullet Wound. Her Employer Murdered. The Perpetrator Arrested. Jealousy the Cause.

(Special to Guardian.)
NEWTON, Mass., June 7.—Walter Green of West Newton, a restaurant owner is dead, and Miss Ruby Stewart, a waitress from Charlottetown, P. E. I., is lying at the Newton Hospital as a result of a shooting by Charles E. Warren, a 23 year old chauffeur, who thought he had been jilted.

The shock of her husband's tragic death has prostrated Mrs. Green and she is in a serious condition. After an afternoon and a night of investigation, the police of Newton can give no reason for the shooting except jealousy, and Warren who is locked up and charged with the murder, will not give any. He refuses absolutely to answer any questions. According to statements of friends of the dying waitress and the accused young man there was a love affair. It is said that young Warren worshipped the pretty little waitress and hung on her every word and look, but she would not listen to his proposals of marriage and would not let him court her. Miss Stewart came here from P. E. I. five years ago.

(Special to the Guardian.)
NEWTON, Mass., June 7.—Love affairs with many girls are expected to be revealed when Charles E. Warren, Alston, is placed on trial charged with the murder of Walter G. Green, employer of his former sweetheart, Miss Ruby H. Stewart, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., who lies at the Newton Hospital, suffering from bullet wounds inflicted by Warren.

Search of the prisoner's lodgings in Alston revealed many letters in the handwriting of different women and through these letters the police expect to disclose the full details of Warren's past life.

Warren will probably be arraigned to-morrow in the Police Court in Newton on a charge of murder. It is expected the police will ask for a continuance until the session of the Grand Jury which starts this week. If Warren is indicted by the Grand Jury he will have an early trial. Jealousy appears to be the motive for the shooting that stirred all Newton when Warren fired many shots in and about Green's Newton Centre restaurant. It is now said that Warren was incensed to learn that Ralph Carlos, a chauffeur for Charles S. Morse, of Saltonstall Road, Chestnut Hill, had been paying marked attention to Miss Stewart.

Police Sergeant Mullin says that he saw Carlos with Miss Stewart only the night before the tragedy and it is supposed that the news of their meeting came to Warren and inflamed his wrath against the waitress with whom he had recently quarreled. While Warren apparently was jealous of any attentions paid by other men to Miss Stewart, he was at the same time engaged in a number of love affairs. Search of his room revealed a number of portraits and letters. In few cases were the full names of the writers given, usually initials were signed and occasionally an endearing nickname or love term.
