

Royal Wedding Scenes Of Splendor

Scenes of unparalleled pomp and splendor and the amassing of enormous crowds to wish the young couple well featured the wedding of London of Prince George and Princess Marina. These pictures were rushed to Canada by water, rail and air from the scene of the wedding. They show, (1) the bridal couple on the platform of Paddington station before they left for their honeymoon in Hilly Hall; (2) a vast multitude there as the coach bearing the Duke of Kent and his bride enters the gates of historic Buckingham Palace; (3) the ceremony in the Abbey. The bride and groom stand at the altar. The group seated at the left includes the King, the Queen, Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, the Duchess of York, Princess Margaret Rose (seen seated on floor), Lord Harewood and the Earl of Athlone; (4) the royal bridal party photographed in Buckingham Palace after ceremony, left to right, Princess Katherine, Lady Iris Mountbatten, the Prince of Wales, Princess Olga of Greece, the Princess Marina, Prince George, Grand Duchess Kera, the Duke of York, Princess Irene and Princess Julianna. Seated: Lady Mary Cambridge and Princess Elizabeth; (5) another scene of the ceremony in the Abbey, as the Archbishop of Canterbury joins the two in matrimony.

The Royal Bride And Groom After The Ceremony In Westminster Abbey

Just after the colorful marriage ceremony at Westminster Abbey, to which thousands of people in Canada listened on the radio, Prince George of England and his bride, Princess Marina of Greece, were taken to Buckingham Palace where an official photograph was taken of the couple together with some of the royalty and nobility that attended the ceremony. In the group are: King and Queen of England, the King and Queen of Norway, Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece and the bride and bride-groom. Seated in front are Lady Mary Cambridge (left) and Princess Elizabeth.

Royal Couples' Wedding Gifts

In the Duke and Duchess of Kent should desire to know the time of day they may look at any of these six rare clocks (UPPER photo) or some of the others, too innumerable to squeeze within the scope of this camera if they desire some light in their new home they may switch on any of the many lamps shown in the LOWER photo. Rare editions of famous books are also on the table. Everything shown is just a small portion of the deluge of gifts that were given the duke and the duchess before their colorful marriage in Westminster Abbey. A king's ransom
