

Only Six Played In Every 1925 American League Game

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Box scores of the American League during the 1925 season contained the names of 264 players. Only six of this number had the distinction of playing in every game during the season.

According to statistics compiled here, 138 players participated in fifteen or more games, while 17 were credited with participation in less than fifteen games. The six players who went through without missing a game were Joe Sewell of the Cleveland Indians; Sam Rice, Washington; Al Simmons, Philadelphia Athletics; Bob Fink, Chicago White Sox; Bob Meusel, New York Yankees; and Marty McManus, St. Louis Browns.

About 30 hens also perished in the flames, the rest of the live stock having been rescued before the fire reached them. The loss is estimated at about $1500 and much sympathy is felt for Mr. Stevenson as he had no insurance. The fire started from the gasoline engine and is but another warning to those having engines operating in their buildings.

Rev. J. Sidney Bonnell

Delivers Sermon On Evolution

The following is taken from the St. John Times-Star of January 13. In St. Andrew's Kirk Sunday night Rev. J. S. Bonnell commenced a series of sermons on evolution. He referred to the wide publicity given last summer by United States newspapers to the trial of Scopes, a young school teacher of Tennessee, who was charged with teaching evolution. The trial was a farce from the outset, Mr. Bonnell declared, as there could only be one outcome. The teacher had broken the state law and the trial served no greater purpose than to afford a noted criminal lawyer, an opportunity to propagate his atheistic views and a United States politician an opportunity to display his profound ignorance on the subject of science.

A more important aspect of that trial, Mr. Bonnell said, was that it was an effort to revive the old animosity and renew the age-old conflict between science and religion. It could be seen in history that all the hostility and hostility of the past had been due to a misunderstanding of the function of science and religion.

Mr. Bonnell traced the conflict through the ages from the time of Copernicus, continuing through the days of Galileo, Sir Charles Lyell, Darwin, Huxley and other leaders in science. They had all taught the new scientific truth about the evolution of the earth daily round its axis and yearly about the sun and that all life on the planets was linked in a great progressive chain, but the theologians had branded these men as blasphemers and had claimed that Genesis proved the new science to be absurd and untrue. One of these, Dr. John Lightfoot of Cambridge University had claimed to have established from Genesis that man was created by the Trinity on October 23, in the year 4004 B. C. at 9 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Bonnell in passing that said it was only necessary to state that a tablet recently found in Mesopotamia had authentic reference to an advanced civilization which had existed in 6000 B. C.

He declared that both religion and science owed a great debt to the young man Henry Drummond, who at the age of 33 by his brilliant attainments had caused his name and fame to go around the world. He was among the first to show that Genesis was never intended as a text book on science and that its function was only to teach an abiding religious truth.

The reverent scientist must answer the question, said Drummond, as to the time and duration of man's creation and it was on the other hand the function of Genesis to teach that the world has come into existence through the creative action of Almighty God. Science has to do with the methods of creation, but the Bible has to do with the origin and destiny.

Mr. Bonnell declared that all controversies had come from an fact that scientists or theologians had invaded the realm where they were not entitled to speak with authority. He quoted from Prof. J. Arthur Thomson of Scotland and Dr. Francis Aveling of London showing that these scientific leaders of today taught that both science and religion led to God.

In closing Mr. Bonnell asserted that the Bible had nothing to fear from the best credited scientists and would continue to hold its place as the supreme moral guide for humanity.

The next sermon in the series will deal with the evolutionists' account of creation.

Induction of the Rev. D. Coburn, B.D.

At the request of the people of Rose Valley and Bradabane the Rev. D. Coburn, B.D. resigned his charge at Upper Musquodoboit Halifax, Co. N. S., and was inducted at Bradabane Church on Friday, Jan. 15th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by authority of the Presbytery of P. E. Island, United Church of Canada. The stormy day did not in any way detract from the enthusiasm of the people. They were there from far and near to welcome their new minister. The sermon was delivered by Rev. R. H. Baxter of Pleasant Valley and was a heart searching and impressive message on "Jesus the light of the World." Mr. Baxter is a young preacher with rare gifts and a fine spirit.

The induction questions were all answered satisfactorily and Rev. D. Coburn duly inducted by the interim moderator.

In the address to the newly inducted minister Rev. D. K. Ross, emphasized the necessity of keeping close to Jesus Christ of preparing the heart and mind by fellowship with God before delivering His message to the people. The address to the people stressed the necessity for cooperation of the people with their minister, regular attendance at the services, family religion the importance of family worship. No church can be vigorous spiritually where the Bible is not read in the home. Mr. Coburn was introduced to the congregation by Mr. Hugh McLure, at the close of the service, and also met his session and managers for the first time as their pastor. Mr. Coburn has laboured for the past 20 yrs. in Presbyterian congregations in Halifax, Co., and Pictou and was pastor for a second term at Upper Musquodoboit where he was greatly beloved as the address and gifts bestowed on him there last week duly testify. We wish Mr. Coburn success in his new field of labour.

An address to Rev. D. K. Ross interim moderator of session was read by Mr. Hugh McKay at a speech by the Treasurer Mr. Rod McKay. Mr. Ross thanked the people for their gift and expressed his hope of cooperation for the session and congregation.

COMMUNITY HONORS DEPARTMENT PASTOR From the Morning Chronicle: UPPER MUSQUODOBOIT, Jan. 14.—On Monday evening the people of St. James' Congregation gathered to tender, in a public way, their farewell to Rev. David Coburn, B. D., who has been their pastor for upwards of twenty years.

It was one of the most notable gatherings of its kind ever held in this community. The large public hall was packed to the doors, and when Mr. Coburn was ushered to the platform the audience, assisted by the choir, arose and joined in the singing of the hymn "Blest be the Tie That Binds." This was followed by an address and presentation from the people to Mr. Coburn, their gift being a handsome club bag and a sum of money.

The St. James Ladies Aid Society also presented him with an address and $25 in gold; the W. M. S., with an address, and the Trail Rangers with an address and $10. These addresses were most fittingly written, the one from the Boys' Club of which Mr. Coburn was leader, being deserving of special mention; all testifying to the affection existing between the people and their departing pastor.

The C. G. I. T. also presented Miss Margaret with an address and gift and the young men in like manner remembered Kirk, who fittingly replied.

Revs. Mr. Maclean, of Springhill, Mr. MacInnis, of Upper Stewiack, and W. K. Read of Middle Musquodoboit, all of neighboring congregations were present and with outstanding men of the community addressed the meeting, all testifying to the sterling qualities which have so endeared Mr. Coburn to the hearts of this people.

During the evening the choir sang an anthem entitled "Fear Thou Not" and the "Mispah" Hymn, all joining in the closing hymn—"God Be With You Till We Meet Again," after which a social hour was enjoyed, giving all an opportunity in a personal way to bid Mr. Coburn and family farewell. He goes to a new field in P. E. I. determined to send the cause bell to an asylum. Then he had motion pictures taken of the reaction of the litigants. Psychologists will determine which woman showed the most grief and the child will be awarded accordingly.

The exhibition of dazzling hockey displayed by Kelly and Campbell had the fans applauding heartily on numerous occasions. Williams as usual teamed out in front, with McEachern and Gordon never working better; the former is again showing that destructive aggressiveness around his opponents net. He was on the rubber and never lost a chance.

The first Crystal goal was worth ten, when one considers that Hackett unassisted beat the entire Abegweit hockey team including "Dutchie." Figuratively speaking he escorted the disc right into the Abbie net.

The backward boy pupil might get along better with his arithmetic if given questions to solve like the following: "Chick" Williams, in a game of hockey devotes 2 1/2 horse power. If six players in all develop that much h.p., how far could "Swede" Kelly go on 1 gal. of gas at 32 cents per gal?"

The next game which takes place Friday night should be so scintillating if not more so than any of the games played to date.

Herrrell and Allen teamed in great style Tuesday night.

"George, who taught you to use those dreadful words?" "Santa Claus, mamma."

"FROM THE BAND STAND"

BY (T.E.C.)

After losing three straight to the Abegweits, it looks as though we have nothing to congratulate the Crystals over, but this is one occasion where the above doesn't hold good, and on the contrary, "heartly and sincere congratulations."

"How come?" Well, in the first place although conceding the "triple row" the western puckmen forced the vertical striped plan to the limit—and then some. And in the second place, fans both here and in Summerside haven't been treated to such whirlwind hockey in years as is being handed out this season.—The Crystals have a fast, heady and well trained aggregation, a sextette that any town may well feel proud to call its own.

A hockeyist soloing through with the speed of an express train and stick-handling like a demon, is pretty to glimpse, but it is a glaring fact that competition is the all important feature in a close hockey battle.—The Abegweits proved this in their last two tilts.

Diamond and Lefurgey hung out the "survival of the fittest sign" before the game Tuesday night. While the latter was being pelted up for a nasty wound under the eye, the former was seen skating his dizzy way to the boards after being crowned by the same kind painfully injured showed the stuff Canadian hockey men are made of. They stuck to the business in hand, and instead of contracting puckey disease as a result, the effect was just the opposite. Diamond received another nasty cut from Hackett's stick during a collision at the net. The occurrence was purely accidental and couldn't be avoided.

Hockeyists arguing during a game are entirely out of order.—Better hire a hall next time. The rink is for hockey and not "hot air."

The writer never saw a larger and more enthusiastic crowd of hockey fans in the Crystal strong room than was there on Tuesday night. Truly a fitting compliment to the Crystals and Abegweits. That the boys appreciated the attendance was easily manifest, due to the fact that for clean and fast hockey very little was left to be desired.

Those two hundred hockey followers of the Abegweits sounded like a thousand when McEachern notched the opening count, but when Gauthier evened the two all score, the response reminded one of the beating of storm waves on a rock bound coast. One fan sweated a hot dog during the excitement and blamed the customer next to him for stealing it.

It looks as if a battle of hospitality is on between the rival towns. Tuesday night a dance was given in honor of the Abegweits by the followers at the Olympic Cabaret, and needless to say everyone enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

Cronin and Cox conducted themselves like regulars—in fact they were regular rubber hunters Tuesday night. Cronin is moving great this year and Cox is travelling great guns.

The glad hand was extended to Ernie McQuarrie when making his appearance on the ice. It was a welcome and deserving cheer, and "Whitey" responded nobly by turning in a good game of hockey.

"Clegg" Silliphant didn't draw a penalty—he was on the surface all the time and more effective than ever. Silliphant is a smooth hockey player and a big asset on the black and white line.

Earle "Jollat" Prowse was a much perturbed hockeyist Tuesday night. He was forced to do the heavy looking on, due to two injured ribs sustained in the last game at the local arena. Prowse, it is expected will be out of the game indefinitely.

The exhibition of dazzling hockey displayed by Kelly and Campbell had the fans applauding heartily on numerous occasions. Williams as usual teamed out in front, with McEachern and Gordon never working better; the former is again showing that destructive aggressiveness around his opponents net. He was on the rubber and never lost a chance.
