ALL NEWS OF LOCAL INTEREST

On the evening of the twenty-second a pleasant company assembled at "The Willows," Searletown, the home of Christopher and Mrs. Lowther to celebrate the nuptials of their only daughter, Grace Maud, and J. Archibald MacKenzie of Springfield Lot 67. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. M. McLeod, cousin of the groom. The bride looked charming in a gown of white peau-de-soie and carried a shower bouquet of val-de-lis. She was attended by Miss Katie MacKenzie, Kensington, sister of the groom, who was attired in a dainty costume of white organdie. The groom was supported by Major Lowther, brother of the bride. The wedding march was beautifully rendered by Miss Aitken Montague. Mrs. MacKenzie who is a general favorite was the recipient of many beautiful and valuable presents among which was an elaborate silver celery dish from Aurora Division. Immediately after the ceremony the wedding supper was served and at an early hour the happy couple left for their future home in Springfield followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

THE marriage took place at ten o'clock this morning of Florence, daughter of the Hon. P. Blake, formerly of Charlottetown, but now of Sydney, and John F. Mahoney, bookkeeper for the firm of N. and M. Smith & Company, the ceremony being performed in St. Mary's cathedral by the Rev. Father McQuillan. The bride was attended by Miss Annie Keefe, as bridesmaid. D. Mahoney, a brother of the groom, was the best man. The bride looked most charming in a gown of biscuit colored cloth, and wearing a dainty pink hat, her bouquet being of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a pretty costume of turquoise blue, with blue hat, her bouquet being of pink roses. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. F. Keefe, Inglis Street, invitations owing to a recent death in the family, being restricted to the relatives of the contracting parties. The hall and drawing room were lavishly and beautifully decorated with plants and flowers, both cut and growing. After receiving congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney left for the wedding trip, the itinerary of which will include Boston, New York and perhaps the St. Louis Fair. On their return they will live at Hillside Hall. That they are followed by many and warm good wishes was fully shown in the large, beautiful and valuable collection of wedding gifts, which included a large chafing dish from the firm of N. & M. Smith & Company, and a cheque for a large amount from the Hon. P. and Mrs. Blake, who came on from Sydney to attend the wedding. The groom's gift to the bride was a ring set with diamonds and sapphires, and to the bridesmaid a pearl and ruby ring. Great interest was felt in the wedding both in Prince Edward Island and in Nova Scotia, owing to the prominence and popularity of both bride and groom. The bride has been a great favorite socially, while Mr. Mahoney enjoys the regard of all who know him, both socially and in the business world.—Halifax Herald.

STORIES OF REV. MARK GUY PIERCE

(Concluded)
 "One day we had been to see her and as we were coming away she held my hand and kissed me tenderly. "Good-bye," said she. "Good-bye, dear "Old Rosie," said I. They were going, and I was quite frightened at being left behind. "Good-bye," she said and held my little hand. Then the tears came streaming down her face and she said, "I suppose I shall never see you any more." "Why not?" said I—my heart was on fire for an instant.
 "The first great gold fever had broken out in this America of yours in 1848 or '9 and everybody was making his fortune, and everybody with whom "Old Rosie" had lived had gone and left her. "Old Rosie" must go to the workhouse.
 "You don't know what the workhouse is, and thank God. We have not a parish in England that hasn't its workhouse. I knew the outside of the workhouse—people said that was the best side to know. It was covered with blue slate and always looked blue. I wanted to have a free kick at the universe to think that that was where "Old Rosie" was going. It took a good deal to spoil my appetite, but that day it was. My elbows were on the table, (where they should not have been), but the knuckles were wanted to keep back the horrid tears that would come creeping down my cheeks. I cried myself to sleep that night and woke up in the morning crying and then I washed the marks away and began to cry again. Then I had to go to school and learn English history, but there was only one character in the history to me and that was the dear old soul who was up in a little room. Then I took up my Latin grammar, and all I could do was to put my hands behind my back and say, "Rosa, Rosa, Rosie." It was all for and at last when the clock struck twelve I bounded home and said to my father, "Is she gone?" My father smiled.

 "Oh, I did not like to smile, I hated the sun for shining. I hated the birds that chirped, I hated the flowers that bloomed and the people that went laughing and talking about the streets. How dare they, as if there was nothing dreadful in the world, and there "Old Rosie" was going to the workhouse! I wanted to die then. "Why my lad," said my father, "it's all right, everything is all right," (and everything was so dreadfully wrong), "she has gone home."
 "I said, "Home! you know she had no home to go to but the workhouse."
 "It is all right my lad," said he. "They went this morning to call her, "Rosie, Rosie!" and she did not answer, and they came near her and touched her.
 "Rosie," they said, but she was dead. "But no," said my father, "she is not dead, my boy. God sent his angels and took her, took her home to the Father's house." And I loved God for taking "Old Rosie" home, and thought how beautiful it was that she was not up there in the workhouse in her suit of blue, but she was up there in the Father's house all white-robed and golden-crowned, and I thought I heard her singing amongst the angels of Heaven for Heaven was but such a little way off in those days. I waited till everybody was out of sight and then I said, "Praise God, I don't care so much now if I am a preacher, if it will make "Old Rosie" happy." So I came to think I should be a preacher some day, and now I want you, as you sit and as you think of each one of your old folks at home, to join with me in singing the old hymn, to that old tune of long ago, "Rock of Ages."
 "And as we think (not sadly) we must go to meet those who have gone before, our loved ones, let us sing very softly the last verse."

Pale Weak Women Take New Hope

There is a remedy for all your troubles. Thousands have been Cured. Why get back your Strength and Vigor by Using the Food-Tonic Ferrozone?

Ever since the world began woman has borne more than her share of suffering. Secret troubles undermine her strength, she has suffered in the past is no reason why she should forever be dragged down by misery and sleeplessness. There is a remedy one that will lift that awful burden and remove the ill from which women suffer. The name of this remedy is Ferrozone which today is a household word throughout the length and breadth of the American continent. New hope has been brought into the life of many a downcast woman, a new era of health has dawned for thousands who have tried and proved the merit of Ferrozone.

There is no girl or woman who can afford to miss the benefit that is sure to come from the regular use of this grand remedy. It acts directly on all the organs which health so largely depends. Your days of weakness and headache, your hours of nervousness and despondency will all depart. Life will hold for you many new joys as it does for everyone that uses Ferrozone regularly.

Your whole body will feel the quickening influence of Ferrozone. The blood will be richer and enriched. You will no longer suffer from suppression and interference with the menstrual functions. Ferrozone cures all such ailments and prevents their return.
 Mrs. Mary E. Cowan, of Hillsboro, writes: "If half the ailing women in this world would only use Ferrozone regularly they would save a great deal of sickness. Before using Ferrozone I was fatigued and tired out with the least exertion. I spent half my time in bed and was forever bothered with some trouble or another. After using a few boxes of Ferrozone I became more robust, my strength increased and the irregularities I formerly had have disappeared. Ferrozone is a grand medicine for women."
 This is the experience of thousands. You really ought to use Ferrozone—it will do you so much good. Don't listen to the druggist who urges some thing just as good. No substitute compares with Ferrozone, which does all that is claimed of it. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at druggists or by mail from The Ferrozone Company, Kingston, Ont.
