TRIBUTE TO LATE BONAR LAW

The anniversary of the death of Mr. Bonar Law, which fell last week, should serve to remind us of the great services which he rendered to the Empire. There is a very general feeling that those services run much danger of being overlooked.

No one whose sense of fairness was not clouded by political bias would attempt to minimize the great part which Mr. Bonar Law played in the war, but it may nevertheless seem to some of us that in the tributes so often and properly paid to him on this account, speakers and writers are apt to forget that the shrewd, quiet, unobtrusive and level-headed Canadian-Scott at his elbow, so to speak, saved the country in those hectic years from many ill-conceived or too hastily conceived projects. It was, in fact, the combination of coolness and imagination which the two men displayed in collaboration, which in reality, produced the effects which in these later days are rather too commonly attached only to one side of the partnership.

Mr. Bonar Law had many qualities which do not flourish under the spot light, and take him for all in all we shall not often look upon his like again.

NEW FINANCIAL SECRETARY

The newspapers have been busily engaged during the past week or so in appointing a new Financial Secretary to the Treasury in place of Mr. Ronald McNeill, who has hitherto filled that office.

Some of these organs have appointed Major Walter Elliot, M. P., and others of another stripe have inducted Sir Kingsley Wood, but Mr. Baldwin has thought it well to decide that Mr. A. M. Samuel shall be the man.

Mr. Samuel is of the Jewish faith, and a member of one of the oldest Jewish families in the world. His forefathers have been settled in the eastern countries since the Middle Ages.

It would indeed be hard to find a man of greater parts for the extremely responsible duties which will fall upon his shoulders. His knowledge and his interests are truly encyclopaedic, as witness his writings upon such widely differentiated subjects as bills of exchange and the hearing, the architecture of Ancient Rome and the reform of the Bank of England. Like a certain eminent character of the stage of another generation ago, he "can tell undoubted Gerard Dows from Raphael and Zoffany's and he knows the croaking chorus from the 'Frogs of Aristophanes'." Much of his knowledge may be attributed to the 'Frogs of Aristophanes'. Much of his knowledge may be hard to apply in the Treasury but he is the man for the job.

AND MR. RONALD MCNEILL

Mr. Ronald McNeill is now to go to the House of Lords and so will be known no more under the name by which he has been so long in the public eye. This is unfortunate in one way, as so many prominent men, retiring to the dignity and ease of the Upper House, in usually, their declining years, (though that is hardly the case in the present instance) seem to be doomed either to drop out of sight or to be compelled to labour to establish a new identity.

But Mr. McNeill will, I am afraid, find that the title he has chosen will be the subject of amused comment which will serve to keep his memory green. He has chosen the batony of Cushtendun of Cushtendun in the county of Ulm, and it will be too much to expect the more ribald members of the Commons to forbear to associate the title with the 'cushy' job of Vice-Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which he will now assume.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the valuable properties of every known 'ready-made' cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real healing power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2.00. Tastes pleasant—children like it—and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiac, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" and directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Kidneys Must Have Plenty of Water

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist, and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation.

Janet Aitken, the only daughter of Lord Beaverbrook, is to marry Mr. Ian Douglas Campbell, who, in the unlikely event of the marriage of the present holder of the title and the consequent possibility of the birth of a direct heir, will, in the course of time succeed to the historic dukedom of Argyll. Probably there is no noble Scottish name which strikes so familiarly on the ear, even of the Sassenach, as that of Campbell.

The engagement brings to mind the story told when the daughter of Queen Victoria, the Princess Louise, became engaged to marry the Marquis of Lorne, the heir to the then reigning Duke. The Campbell clansmen, it is said, solemnly assured each other that "the Queen's man to be a proud woman's day."

'JIX' PROPHECIES.

'Jix' is to speak more respectfully, Sir William Joynson Hicks, the Home Secretary, seems to think that the chances of the Liberal party coming back into power within a measurable time, are very remote. Listen to this—"You may see it suggested that there is going to be a Lloyd George revival. It is not possible. The Liberal Party may get a few more votes, they may need two omnibuses to bring them to the House of Commons instead of one, but there is no chance in our time of the revival of the Liberal Party because the Liberal Party has ceased to be a party of principle and has become one of opportunism, moving here and there trying to get hold of something which may bring them into power."

The only thing to get hold of is a majority of votes, and it may be that the Wizard of Wales may produce something of the sort yet, even when least expected.

EVOLUTION CONTROVERSY

This is most certainly not the place for discussion of any sort of religious question, but one may be permitted, perhaps, to mention the storm of ecclesiastical and lay fury which the recent utterances of Dr. Barnes, the Bishop of Birmingham, have provoked. The main thing which is forced upon the mind of the man in the street is that, allowing only for changes in time and the manners of mankind, there is very little difference when questions of theology are at issue, between the temper of the present day and the days of the Protestant Elizabeth and the Catholic Mary. Both sides appear, at all events on paper, to hate one another for the love of God. Not for fifty or sixty years when Bishop Colenso of Natal and Archbishop Colenso of Natal (and Archbishop Colenso of Natal) had such a really fine time. Bishop Colenso in his day, as is Dr. Barnes in this, was called upon by his opponents to resign his See. To this demand Colenso replied, according to a skit of the day, as follows:—

"My Lord Archbishop, to resign this Zulu bishopric of mine, and own myself a heathen dark because I've doubts about Noah's ark. And publicly to tell all men so is not the thing for—Years Colenso."

FELDSPAR PRODUCTION IN CANADA

The entire production of Canadian feldspar comes from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, the chief producing localities being in the vicinity of Sudbury in Sudbury district, Verona in Frontenac county, Perth in Lanark county, and Hybla in Hastings county, Ontario; and in the vicinity of Buckingham in Hull county, Quebec. There is a small production from the Parry Sound district in Ontario, and a deposit at Quetachu bay on the lower St. Lawrence river in Quebec was developed to some extent in 1922.

"What I want," murmured Phyllis, "is one who thinks loftily, who is head and shoulders above his fellow-creatures, who will strain neck and muscle to get what he wants."

"I'm off," replied the diminutive sutor, "What you want is a girl

Bishop Taylor Smith's Address In Y. M. C. A.

Bishop Taylor Smith addressed the gathering of young people in the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday night as follows: In the Book of Judges there is a question which I will base my short address upon tonight, and the question is this: "Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth." I am going to ignore all our sisters who are present, though we are glad to have them here, but being the Young Men's Christian Association—and being invited to speak to those who gather here week by week—I want my few words to be addressed especially to them—and I am sure the sisters will understand. And the question I have for you, brothers, is "Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth."

Now, there are various kinds of strength: there is physical or bodily strength, there is mental or intellectual strength, and there is moral or spiritual strength.

How well I remember visiting the Island of Cephalonia while there some years ago, I saw some working elephants. They were lifting and moving logs of timber just as a child plays with her bricks. This is a specimen of physical strength. And who is there among us who does not enjoy feats of strength, either in the gymnasium or in the playing field, the football field, or in the water. We all are admirers of physical strength, wherever it is found.

And then there is intellectual strength. Reference has been made to the Great War. During the Great War, I visited Newcastle, and there I saw men drawing to scale marvellous pieces of machinery for guns and ships. I know not which to admire more, the mind that planned or the hand that put those plans into material evidence. There was an exhibition of intellectual strength.

And then we have moral—spiritual—strength, without which physical and intellectual strength count for little. Moral and spiritual strength! Happy the man that is in touch with Jesus Christ through the Holy Spirit. He is a poor specimen that has no ink with God. He is a weak mortal and is bound to go under.

When we think of strength, we always think of one named Sampson. He is our hero of strength. Strong: physically—strong intellectually—strong spiritually. You know some of his feats of strength. A young lion roars against him. Young lions as you know, and as I know, through hearing them roar, do so when they are hungry. And Sampson, with nothing in his hand, tackled a hungry, an angry lion. He tore a lion with nothing in his hand! A wonderful feat of physical strength. You know, as you read the history of his life, how he was bound on many occasions, but he burst his bonds as though they had been burned in the fire. We hear of him lifting the gates of Gaza—carrying them away and leaving them on the hill—laughing at his enemies.

Then Sampson was intellectually strong. He had a godly mother. Let every man and woman thank God for godly parents. Little do you know of those who have gone before. Many a young man in many a city and many a young woman in many a city drinks of a stream and draws from that stream a character without acknowledging the source from which that greater comes. Yes, Sampson had godly parents. They introduced him into a society called the Nazirites, in which he had not to go near a dead body, he was not to touch strong drink; he had the best bringing-up that a lad could have. Yes, he was strong spiritually. He was a man of prayer. Let every man and woman thank God for godly parents. Little do you know of those who have gone before.
