THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 28 1911.

RECIPROCITY AND INTERNATIONAL GOOD WILL.

Hon. Philander Knox in an address delivered before the Chicago Chamber of Commerce on February 15 made a strong argument for reciprocity. Space will only permit of reference to a few of the many good points made in this moderate and well considered address. One point is that while the agreement is full of promise of mutual benefits to both nations, very little has been said or claimed as to who gets the best of the bargain.

Another point is that the same year that saw the settlement of the last boundary dispute between Canada and the United States and the peaceful settlement of the hundred-years-old fishery dispute, saw the opening of the reciprocity negotiations and the ratification of the Boundary Waters Treaty. Surely it is a good thing that two nations situated close beside each other, and with a common boundary of more than three thousand miles, should have thus amicably settled so many vexed questions which had in the past produced so much friction, and might, in an emergency, have led to war.

As to annexation as a possible result of a trade agreement, Mr. Knox, speaking to his own people, disclaims any desire or expectation of that kind, but sees that a closer accord commercially between the different members of the Anglo-Saxon world might lead to concerted action in regard to world affairs generally. "The United States," he says, "appreciates the advantage to the common welfare of the continent that Canada contributes her own strength plus the strength of Great Britain."

And again: "In the higher atmosphere and broader aspects of the situation it is certain that if there should be any great world movement involving this continent, Canada and the United States would, as a matter of course, act in the most perfect concert in defence of the common rights of a common blood and civilization."

We all know that before Confederation the several Provinces of British North America imposed customs tariffs one against the other. With the union of the Provinces those trade barriers were swept away. Most Canadians think this was a good thing. Few would care to see the old interprovincial tariffs renewed. And does not the argument almost necessarily extend to the removal of trade barriers between Canada and her next neighbor?

Mr. Knox in the course of his address points out that eleven years after the declaration of independence down to 1787 such barriers of tariff and tonnage dues existed between different States of the American Union and produced angry feeling and retaliatory measures of State against State. New York imposed tonnage dues on "every Yankee sloop which came down through Hell Gate and every Jersey market boat rowed across the river had to pay entrance fees and obtain clearances at the custom house." Connecticut firewood paid heavy duties in New York. On the other hand, the New Jersey Legislature laid a tax of $1,800 a year on a light-house erected in that State for the guidance of vessels into New York, although the site for the same had been purchased and paid for by the State of New York.

One by one the old and unreasonable trade barriers between Province and Province and between State and State have been removed and the result has been better and more cordial feeling and relations all round. The time has now come to work for better and more neighborly relations between nations by the same means, and the reciprocity agreement is a great step in that direction.

A DOCTOR AND A POET.

Not many members of the medical profession have made notable contributions to poetry, but one of the small number, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes formed a worthy and happy exception to the rule. Doubtless most doctors are too busy in their great calling to devote much time to literature. A more recent instance than Dr. Holmes of the poet doctor is found in Dr. Ronald Ross of London who has recently published a volume of verses entitled Philosophies.

Dr. Ross has attempted no very lofty flights, but as The Times intimates, is content to write about his own experience and can make poetry out of it. He had won fame by his discovery of the origin of malaria, and how it is propagated by mosquitoes, and his poems for the most part express thoughts that came into his mind while he was studying malaria in India. Here are twelve lines which express the earnestness of his quest, his consciousness of the greatness of his discovery, and the devout spirit in which he recognized it as a gift from God for the benefit of humanity:

This day relenting God
Hath placed within my hand
A wondrous thing; and God
Be praised. At His command,

Seeking His secret deeds
With tears and toiling breath,
I find thy cunning seeds,
O million-murdering Death.

I know this little thing
A myriad men will save.
O Death, where is thy sting?
Thy victory, O Grave?

"In his fine prelude Dr. Ross expounds the faith with which science has inspired him. It is an austere faith; but his poems prove that he holds it with joy, and can express it in terms of beauty. They remind one of the religious poems of the seventeenth century, so full of thought and experience, and yet so passionate, which even the minor poets of that time often succeeded in writing," concludes The Times.

A correspondent is afraid because of the slow progress in getting ready the civic ballot bill, evidently having in view the dilatory tactics of last year. We do not share these fears. Popular feeling in favor of the ballot in both civic and provincial elections is too strong to be much longer successfully resisted. The ballot is surely coming.

Our representatives at Ottawa sometimes act upon the advice of The Guardian, and when they do so we very naturally think they are right and it is a pleasure to commend their action. Some months ago and repeatedly since The Guardian has directed the attention of the Government to the great need of another winter steamer to replace the Minto. A boat at least as powerful as the Earl Grey is emphatically needed, and we are glad to learn that the proposal is supported by our members at Ottawa.

The reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States has been a sad blow to the protectionists in the Mother Country, who call themselves tariff reformers. Tariff creators would be a more appropriate name for them, as their aim is to set up a protective tariff in the United Kingdom. For that the time is singularly inopportune. The protectionists of the United States and Canada are just now almost panic-stricken over the popular demand for a reduction of the tariff to a revenue basis.

The St. John Exhibition Association has decided not to hold an exhibition in that city this year, owing to inability to secure a provincial grant, but will endeavor thereafter to have annual exhibitions, beginning with 1912. The Provincial Government is this year giving an exhibition grant of $5,000 to Fredericton and $1,000 each to St. Stephen and Sussex and a guarantee of two-thirds of its deficit, not to exceed $5,000 to Chatham. These grants to other towns in the Province precluded any grant being made for St. John.

CANAL TO BE FORTIFIED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—After nearly five hours of debate the House of Representatives shortly before ten o'clock Saturday night, voted overwhelmingly in favor of the policy of fortifying the Panama Canal, and appropriated $3,000,000 to begin the work. The total cost has been estimated at $12,000,000.

THE BALLOT IN CIVIC ELECTIONS.

Sir.—It is currently reported around the City that the Councillors of Ward 5 are not in favor of the ballot in Civic Elections. If such is the case the public should be made aware of the fact. It is well known that fully four-fifths of the voters are not only in favor of a ballot, but very anxious that it should be introduced. It is not time some action was taken?

Respectfully,

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix 2 cups of granulated sugar with with one cup of warm water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiaicol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.
