HOW MANY OF THE PEOPLE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Have Gone Through a Tunnel---Something About Those in Boston and New York.

How few people in this Province have had the peculiar experience of going through a tunnel, but the eight happy young ladies who are elected to the Guardian's big free trip will be interested in knowing that there are tunnels of various kinds in both Boston and New York. In both cities there are electric trains running through tunnels under the residences, business houses and streets. There is also a tunnel from Boston to East Boston under the harbor, as well as a tunnel from New York City under the East River to Brooklyn. The new Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel from New York to Jersey is the biggest undertaking yet for the biggest city in America. What could be more interesting for the eight most popular unmarried ladies in the province than to be seated in an electric express train travelling under a great city and its great harbor at the rate of a mile a minute?

Both cities have electric elevated trains, in which the passengers ride on tracks in the air above the traffic on the streets. In fact the Boston Elevated also runs through a tunnel under the City. In this way passengers emerge from the subway and ride on the elevated, and vice-versa. New York City has steam cars, electric cars, cable cars and even the antiquated horse cars, as well as horseless carriages galore. And the member of The Guardian Staff and his wife, who chaperone the party, will have nothing to do but to guide the happy eight through all the places of interest, arranging their hotels, meals and sight seeing without a cent of expense to the entire party.

All persons sending in ballots are requested to place them in the regu-

DEBATE ON ADDRESS CONTINUED YESTERDAY

Premier Haszard and Captain Read Occupy the Afternoon' the Opposition Remaining Silent. Debate Adjourned Till This Afternoon. Two Interesting Speeches.

February 9.

The House opened at 3.45 o'clock. Mr. McDonald Councillor elect for the Cardigan district was introduced by Mr. Mathieson and Mr. Morson, was sworn and took his seat.

Before the orders of the day some conversation took place with regard to answering inquiries of the ministry before the address is passed, the Premier contending that the psactice was not to supply the information till the Governor's speech is replied to.

MR. MATHIESON contended this was unprecedented and would block the work of the House.

PREMIER HASZARD continued the debate on the address. He would not accept dictation from the Opposition. He referred feelingly to the death of the late Speaker and the late Sergeant at Arms. The country had sustained a severe loss in the death of these gentlemen. He joined with the Opposition leader in complimenting the mover and second?s of the address. He had never listened with more pleasure to speakers performing that duty. He complimented the Speaker on his promotion and expressed full confidence in his capacity and fitness for his present high position. As to the attitude of the leader af the Opposition he held it to be one of faultfinding and unfair criticism from beginning. This is not the time nor place for a full exposition of our claims. The hay claims and the Hillsboro bridge claims had been settled. The money improperly taken from us had been returned. Two years interest had been deducted at first but after correspondence ten months interest was repaid, as the people did not possess the full use of the bridge. The Province got all and perhaps more than it was entitled to. The Ottawa Government had shown a disposition to be fair, and this gave hope for our claims in other mateers. The question of the Tunnel, for instance, was a question of practicability and reatonable cost. The first thing was to have a proper survey—not a bogus one as had been made. If it was to cost tens or hundreds of millions, it would not be reasonable to expect it. It was a work of very great magnitude, such as had not yet been undertaken. The borings made by Mr. Palmer were not sufficient. The recent borings for coal and the strata gone through demonstrated the necessity of further information. He had talked with many engineers who all agreed that the difficulties would be very great. He believed the Government would have the necessary surveys made and set the matter at rest.

Coming to the matter of the price of potatoes he doubted the prices quoted in Nova Scotia. Some special kinds of N. S. potatoes might command 50 cents per bushel. In any case the cost of transportation from the Island would be greater because of distance and having to cross the straits. We all agree that the cost is too great. The straits would always be there and involved extra cost. He denied, however that the Provincial Government was responsible for this.

As to sending our young farmers to Truro, he felt it was a high privilege to be able to do so at moderate cost. New Brunswick also sent students there. It would cost too much for us to establish and maintain an equally good school here. Touching the Vernon River bridge, a mistake had been made. An indignation meeting had been held near the spot which he and Mr. Cummiskey attended. The leader of the Opposition was there, and when the matter was threshed out the people were satisfied. The Government corrected the mistake. The contract was not let to the lowest tenderer, because the tenderer at a higher figure was more competent and would probably complete the work in time. A temporary bridge had to be put up to prevent traffic being stopped. This was one of the extras. The work when taken off the contractos's hands was believed to be all right, but the frost showed later that the concrete was not properly mixed. This was made good by the contractors at a cost of $800 or $900.

The claims prepared against the Dominion would in due time be presented to the House and he would discuss them then. He believed the question of the fishery award was one in which we had a good claim, and that it would shortly be brought to a settlement. Other Provinces were interested and they must act together. With this matter settled it might be hoped that the tax act should be repealed or the burden reduced. All the

FRANCE-GERMANY ARE NOW AGREED

PARIS, Feb. 9—(Special)—France and Germany today signed an agreement concerning Morocco, thus banishing the spectre which for years threatened Europe.

Probably even more important is the effect this understanding has in establishing a broad basis of friendship between the two nations, separated since the disastrous war of thirty-eight years ago.

The agreement guarantees the Moroccan integrity and insures perfect allegiance to the terms of the Algeciran act.

France recognizes Germany's economic interests, while Germany recognizes France's political interests in Morocco.

This is understood to mean that Emperor William is desirious of participating in the general European friendship from which Germany was apparently excluded.

He took the initiative in the negotiations, his overtures having the hearty approval of the other European powers.

CRYSTALS WIN THE BOTH GAMES

The Senior Team Won by a Score of 7 to 2 and the Intermediates 17 to 3. Fairly Clean Game All Through.

SUMMERSIDE, Feb. 9—(Special by phone)—The fifth game of the Hockey series was played tonight in the Crystal Rink Summerside between the Abbies and the Crystals and was a clean win for the Crystals. There was a good crowd in attendance including about one hundred of the Abbies' admirers, who arrived by special in charge of Conductor Cox.

The game started at 8.30 with a rush by the Crystals to the Abbies' goal and for the whole of this half the play was fast and furious with the puck in the Abbies' territory most of the time but the poor shooting of the Crystals and the excellent defence of the Abbies prevented the Crystals from scoring. After thirteen minutes of play, Smith, scored for the Abbies. Abbies 1, Crystals 0.

This was the only score in the first half.

The second half started at 9.1— and was all Crystal. During this half, their forwards sent shot after shot at the Abbies goal and after [illegible] minutes of play Deegan scored the first goal for the Crystals, followed three minutes later by another goal for the Crystals by R. McDonald.

The play still continued to be in the Abbies' territory, and H. McDonald scored again for the Crystals. Two minutes later H. McDonald scored again for the Crystals.

A delay of nine minutes then took place caused by Reddin of the Abbies, getting a bad cut on the face from a lift by McMillan.

On resuming play Perry of the Crystals in less than a minute again scored.

Four minutes later, Deegan, scored again for the Crystals.

The last goal for the Crystals was scored by H. McDonald.

The Abbies now started a rush and for the last couple of minutes transferred the play to the Crystals' territory and succeeded in adding one more to the score.

The game throughout was fairly clean although considerable heavy checking and tripping was indulged in. Judge of Play, McDonald was no ways lax in dealing out the penalties, no less than six players decorating the bench during the first half.

JUDGES.

Referee—Joseph Mahar.
Judge of Play, Huntley McDonald.
Penalty timer—Parker Hooper.
Timers—Leslie Wright and L. B. McMillan.

In the Intermediate game the Abbies were clearly outclassed, the Crystals scoring almost at will. The score stood 9 to 1 at the end of the first half and at the end 17 to 3 in favor of the Crystals.

The result of this game gives the Intermediate trophy to the Crystals, they having won three games while the Abbies and Vics have only one game each to their credit, with one game yet to play.
