

Forward--For A Bigger, Better, Busier, Charlottetown Vote for R. H. Sterns for Mayor

THE well laid plans of former years to make Charlottetown, bigger, better and busier, have only been partially carried out. The City Councils of the last ten years have done nobly, but there is much yet to be done. Aggressiveness in performing should now get behind intelligence in planning.

R. H. STERNS is in accord with every movement designed to beautify the city and make it a better place to live in. Present conditions demand that the chief Executive officer of this City shall be a man who has kept abreast of the time conversant with the new conditions. Who is more competent than R. H. Sterns? who is

R. H. STERNS is probably the largest property holder in the City and gives employment to more people than any one tax payer in Charlottetown. He may therefore be depended on to protect to the best of his ability the interests of the property holders and at the time give the working man every chance to live BETTER THAN EVER BEFORE.

R. H. STERNS is in favor of encouraging the establishment of new industries in the City. In favor of a more up-to-date fire protection service in order to bring the fire insurance rates down to the lowest possible figure, that the smaller property holders may take advantage of the protection thus afforded. In favor of improving the streets and the construction of permanent sidewalks.

R. H. STERNS as Mayor means business, progress, a live city, industrial advancement, commercial activity, a hearty welcome to the tourist, up-to-date methods and greater publicity of Charlottetown's attractions.

R. H. STERNS is in favour of a water service for all, rich and poor, and the introduction of measures whereby those who desire more taps, can afford to have them installed.

R. H. STERNS if elected, is determined to have a strict and impartial enforcement of all civic laws, and all measures calculated to advance the best interests of Charlottetown.

R. H. STERNS is in favor of keeping taxation at the minimum consistent with the high efficiency of all civic services.

CHURCH MEETING.—The annual reports of the pastoral charge of Kensington and New London North show that $2,300 were raised for the missions of the Presbyterian Church. Of this amount $1,487 were raised by the weekly envelope system and Special Donations. $695 were raised by the Women's Missionary Societies and $118, by the Sunday Schools. Of the total Kensington raised $1,447. The chief gains over previous years were in the Women's Missionary Societies, in Geddie Memorial Church, where the weekly envelope system was used for the first time and contributions more than doubled, and in the generous special donations by members of Kensington congregation. Beside the above money was raised in the congregation for the Bible Society, the Lord's Day Alliance and other religious and benevolent objects. The total for all was $4,054, of which three-fifths went outside the congregation. Kensington has decided to increase Mr. Sutherland's salary.

MALPEQUE.—That the young people of Malpeque, are taking great pleasure in the season's gaieties is quite evident from the fact that on Friday evening last a goodly number of lads and lassies occupying four sleighs started out for one of the neighboring villages several miles distant. As the gentlemen with their speedy trotters, splashing sleighs and beautiful robes drew rein at the appointed starting place, then drove off with their ladies, making the air ring with their mirth and laughter the looker-on, could not but express the wish that good luck would attend them. But ill-luck comes to most any one occasionally and came it did to them. The clouds hiding from view the glory of the moon which would have afforded light for following the road by some accidental chance the right track was lost and the unfortunate ones wandered every-which-way through the fields cutting many queer and semi-circular tracks, ere the right one could be found. Suffice it to say they reached their destination none the worse from the delay. One of the number a boy, strayed away on the homeward stretch, but was found at the grey light of dawn by two young ladies who had got rather impatient and over-anxious for him, in comfortable quarters, whither he had gone for recreation it seems.

WELSH HAD HIM
Everybody knows what a "welcher" is, but not one man in a thousand is aware of the origin of the word. More than a generation ago there lived in London, on his own wits and the credulity of his acquaintances, a mixture of Sir Affable Hawk and Mr. Micawber. His name was David Welch. He was, as a classical writer once said, "good at all things but mostly at a bet." But almost the best things at which he was good was not paying, for he never paid. As each fresh victim copped up his sympathizing "pal" would ask him: "What now—what's the matter?" The answer invariably was: "Welch has had me." This state of things became chronic, until at last, whenever a man had a long face, it was said that he must have been "Welch'd."

AN ISLAND WOMAN CURED OF PNEUMONIA
Other Remarkable Cures in Charlottetown.
Mrs. F. S. Watts, formerly of Summerside, now living at New Waterford, C. B., writing under date of Jan. 20, states that she recently had a severe attack of pneumonia with other complications, but that she was entirely cured in a few days by means of the Faradior oxygenator which she purchased in Charlottetown a few months ago. In order that others may obtain help in time of need Mrs. Watts desires this fact to be given the widest publicity. She also states that during her illness no other remedy was used. A gentleman living in Charlottetown was recently cured of double pneumonia by means of an oxygenator, although his case seemed quite hopeless. In about three weeks' time the gentleman was as well as ever and attending to his business.

A USE FOR OLD SPOOLS.
Do not throw away the spools when empty, keep them until you go away next summer, and use them to slip over the balls or cheap hooks found in many cottage closets. This will save many a waist and gown.

WESTERN PERSONALS

Mr. John W. Walker and Mrs. Walker, Kelim, and Mrs. Henry Byrnon, Kensington, are spending a few days with friends in St. Peter's.

Miss Georgie Kelly, Charlottetown, late teacher of Glenman School spent a few days here recently the guest of Mr. David MacDonald. Miss Kelly has an excellent record as a teacher and made many friends during her stay in Glenman. It is understood she intends retiring from the teaching profession in order to take a Commercial College course. Her many friends here wish her success.—I.

THE BARE THROAT.

It was a good crisp winter evening, and they stood on the street corner, at the theatre hour, waiting for a car. His coat collar was turned up and the corner of a scarf protruded. She wore a voluminous, fur-trimmed wrap, open at the neck so that her throat and part of her chest were exposed to the cold. "Humph," and, turning, discovered that his own companion was similarly clad. "It's a wonder girls aren't all dead." The girl laughed and said: "It is good for us. We don't take cold nearly so easily as if we didn't harden our throats to the cold. And far more men and women have pulmonary troubles." "Well, I heard that forty girls were laid off at one of the big stores after that cold spell ten days ago, and one of them didn't recover." Many conversations of this sort take place every winter, now that the V neck is in vogue, and one sometimes wonders what side has the right of it. We asked a doctor the other day, and he seemed almost as dubious as we were. "Well," he said, "if there is no weakness of the throat, and if the girl doesn't change suddenly from high neck to low neck, I don't think it would do any harm."

WHY CHUM WAS SAVED

A little dog, unlicensed, had been found in the streets and taken to the home. He was an affectionate animal and greatly endeared himself to all about the place. They called him Chum and he joyfully responded whenever his name was spoken. As the days passed, other poor homeless dogs were put to death. Finally came Chum's last day of grace, and no one had come to claim him. The next morning dawned, and the man who was to kill Chum called him into the yard. Chum danced and wagged his tail, no doubt thinking something good was in store for him. The man then said, "Well, Chummy, your time has come. You'd better say your prayers." Immediately the little forepaws were crossed, the little head bowed and Chum said his prayers. As the little body was still in the attitude of reverence a step was heard. The attendant looked up and saw the superintendent standing there. There were tears in the eyes of each. Chum was still living; but instead of being anybody's dog he is now every body's.

CHEAP SINK STRAINERS
An economical and exceedingly useful "sink strainer" may be made by punching holes with a nail and hammer into the bottom of a large lard pail. Stand this in the corner of your sink to receive potato skins and all sorts of debris which may be put into the stove or cabbage pail, as preferred, at the end of each meal. Wash the pail with hot suds when washing the other dishes.
