conference lightened to a considerable degree the atmosphere of gloom which caused many to predict nothing better than a stately burial of disarmament efforts, at least for a considerable time.

Arthur Henderson, the conference chairman, will open with a general statement. Norman Davies, the United States Ambassador-at-large, as a puddy Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet Foreign Commissar, will follow.

Other speakers—the delegates include 15 foreign ministers—and the subsequent discussion, with intervals, will run into next week.

This afternoon's brief private sitting of the steering committee was quiet enough except for a passing incident. Mr. Henderson remarked that in view of the opinion expressed in the French memorandum, it would be a far-reaching amendment to government to limit it to regulated products. The effect of the amendment was to widen the scope of the investigation because many natural products may not come within a marketing scheme and they would be regulated.

A program of exceptional merit was given in Hertz Hall last evening by the Mt. Allison Concert Party to a capacity audience. Miss Pauline Copp and Mr. Raymond Simpson opened the recital with the beautiful Serenade of Schubert.

Since the declaration of peace and up to the present time, this great Society has been busily engaged in doing everything humanly possible for the benefit of the public, and by making living conditions better by teaching and instructing our people how to live by making a proper and thorough medical examination of the school children, and the results have been most satisfactory.

I know of no better investment than a man or woman can make—the joy and satisfaction in knowing that through your contribution to this work you are partly responsible for giving that child a chance in life.

From all over the Province I am constantly receiving most gratifying reports of the splendid work that the Red Cross and Health Nurses are doing day by day in assisting the people of this fair Province not only to regain lost health, but teaching them how to live and to continue the good health they may be enjoying at present.

I appeal to all within the sound of my voice tonight to heed the clarion call that has gone forth not only to the members of the Red Cross Society, but to all the citizens of this Province to take an active interest in this work and to give according to your ability so that its influence may grow and develop throughout the length and breadth of our island.

In closing may I quote the verse taken from the Junior Red Cross Leaflet: "The Red Cross is having another Campaign. And you are to be giving and giving again."

"Oh, no," said the angel, looking me through, "Just give 'til the Master stops giving to you."

Yes, my friends, let us proportion our giving to our ability. Let us proportion the Giver of all good things to proportion His Blessings to our giving.

Good-night—May Health, Happiness and Contentment ever be yours.

With the combined investigation act in this respect, the Liberals were led into a parliamentary trap when they demanded a vote on the most contentious clause in the bill, which gave the cabinet power to restrict exports and imports and license shippers.

When the Liberals demanded the vote, the clerk ran his eyes down the government benches, counting 39 Conservatives. When he turned to the Liberals, he counted only 38.

"That makes two. They are all for it," gleefully interjected Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie.

The chairman, who previously had announced the vote as 39-0 and 39-1, changed it to 39-2.

There were shouted denials from several Conservatives and the House passed to consideration of the next clause.

Liguorian Players Appear in Fine Advantage in Holy Redeemer Hall.

"Cinderella O'Reilly," a delightfully intriguing comedy-drama, was presented by the Liguorian Players before a packed house in the Holy Redeemer Hall last evening.

The part of Judith, the young Prehistoric mammals had been found on the estate of Miss Judith, and this attracted the attention of the young American author, Forrest Arnold, played by Mr. Pius Callaghan.

strand. The crowd cheered as McLarnin freed himself and Ross came right back with a straight right that started a jump under McLarnin's left eye.

ROUND SEVEN McLarnin sought desperately to make an opening for his right hand as it became more and more evident that he now had to put Ross down in order to win.

ROUND EIGHT Jimmy poured at Ross's body with a long left, striving to get Ross' guard down. He succeeded, but the left hook he flashed to Ross' head landed high on the challenger's temple.

ROUND NINE Fresh apparently as though he were just starting out, Ross danced out behind his biting left hand and flicked McLarnin's soggy features. Jimmy leapt into the ring and pummeled each other's body in close.

ROUND FIFTEEN McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

ROUND SIXTEEN McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

ROUND SEVENTEEN McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

ROUND EIGHTEEN McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

ROUND NINETEEN McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

ROUND TWENTY-SIX McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

ROUND TWENTY-SEVEN McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

ROUND TWENTY-EIGHT McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.

concentrating on the body as Barney tired under the fusillade McLarnin drove Ross into the ropes and kept up a drumming fire.

ROUND THIRTEEN Ross boxed slowly and McLarnin pumped his head with left jabs before he switched to the body with a hard left hook and short right.

ROUND FOURTEEN Referee Forbes signalled to the judges that McLarnin had lost the last round because of a low blow. Ross danced out smartly, poking lefts into Jimmy's face and they quickly fell into a slugging match in the centre of the ring.

ROUND FIFTEEN McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter left. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes.
