ISLAND PRIEST HONORED - Bishop O'Sullivan has received word from the Cardinal Secretary of State that Very Rev. J. A. H. Blaquiere, of Lavergne, M.I., has been raised to the dignity of Domestic Prelate to His Holiness, Pope Pius XI. Monsignor Blaquiere is one of the best known of the clergy of Charlottetown Diocese and his many friends will rejoice with him on his reception of this high Papal honor which carries with it the title of Right Reverend Monsignor. He was born at Rustico, P. E. I., August 6th, 1865 and was ordained to the priesthood in Charlottetown, June 9th, 1892. Practically all his priestly life has been spent in the Magdalen Islands where he has rendered signal service to the church as pastor of the large parish of Lavergne. He was appointed Vicar Foraine of the Magdalen Islands by Bishop H. J. O'Leary and has been entrusted with this important office ever since. No date has been set for his investiture with the purple robes of office, but it will likely take place in the near future when the documents arrive from Rome.

FURTHER

(Continued from Page 1) accounts have revealed a shortage of over $1,000,000. The St. John's college council tonight discussed the possibility of the college having to close down during the coming academic year. Board members today appeared stunned by the disclosure that their funds had been wiped out.

Auditors tonight were completing a check of the widows and orphans' fund. Pensions are provided from this fund for widows and orphans of deceased clergymen. Heavy inroads into this fund have been made, it was reported.

Other Anglican church funds also are short but no definite figures are as yet available. Among these trust funds, assets of which are believed exhausted, are the St. John's cemetery association funds, the archbishop episcopal fund, used to maintain the archbishop of Ruperts Land diocese, and a clergymen's retirement fund.

Auditing thus far has not revealed how the monies in the church and university endowment funds has disappeared. Auditing members of the board of governors of the University believe that the chief conversion of funds was to protect mortgage investments which had gone bad.

When arrears in mortgages should have been disclosed in annual reports on the endowment funds, Mr. Macbray, it was thought, drew on capital account to provide monies which should have been received in interest on the mortgages. This practice, over a number of years, gradually depleted the funds of the various trusts. For years there have been drawings on the various funds to pay interest which was not earned.

S. O. T. PICNIC—On Wednesday, August 17th, Victoria Division No. 4, Sons of Temperance, held a most enjoyable picnic at York Point. The weather being ideal bathing and clam digging were indulged in during the earlier part of the afternoon. Then a splendid luncheon was served and greatly enjoyed by all who were present. After the wants of the inner man were fully satisfied a game of baseball was played until the time for the return of the motor boat which conveyed the happy company back to the city, all feeling that they had spent a very pleasant afternoon.

TOMORROW'S ECLIPSE—Wednesday's solar eclipse starts beyond the North Pole at 1.19 p. m. Atlantic Standard Time. From the time the moon appears first to touch the sun till it loses contact on the other side, will be from 1.14 p. m. to 3.30 p. m. This great spectacle will not be seen again in Canada until the year 1963. Yesterday The Guardian gave editorial prominence to the warning against attempting to view the eclipse, either with the naked eye or with ordinary colored glasses. A densely smoked glass should be used. Another method suggested is the use of a spooled camera film, where it comes out blank and dark. This is perfect protection. The same results may be had by combining several films, using the solid or dark parts.

FIRE AT BRUDENELL—At 4.30 yesterday morning, an alarm was given Montague for a fire, which occurred at the home of William Campbell, Rosneath. Awakened by the sound of burning timber, the household discovered the barns to be in a mass of flames. Help was quickly called, Montague sending out fire fighting apparatus, and with combined efforts of neighbors, fire-fighters saved the dwelling house, but the three barns with their contents were totally destroyed. What caused the fire is a mystery. The loss is estimated at $2,500 partially covered by insurance. The buildings burned included a barn 85 x 28 feet containing thirty tons of hay; a pig house and carriage and poultry house combined. A quantity of harness, wagon and some odds and ends were all that was saved.

MOLLISON

(Continued from Page 1) Mollison came down to a perfect landing. The little plane in which he negotiated the westward crossing on August 19 was being watched tonight by volunteers from Cape Breton airport. Early tomorrow, if the sun shines, the Captain will climb aboard and take off for Harbor Grace. "I had easy flying today until I was about 60 miles from Sydney," he said, "then I ran into a terrific thunder storm, with lightning and rain, but had no great difficulty in reaching the city. I did have some trouble locating the field." He circled the city for about 20 minutes, he said, and then sighted Pilot Don MacPherson's plane which had gone up for guidance, and followed it over the airport. He could see the field fairly well, but being unfamiliar with it, and as the mist was dense, decided to look around. Sydney river was then comparatively free from fog, and a landing was 'easy'. Captain Mollison was brought to the city by Lt. Col. Freeman O'Neill, commander of the first Cape Breton Highlanders and an aviation enthusiast. He is Lt. Col. O'Neill's guest tonight.

Japs Bomb Guerrillas

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Aug. 29—(A.P.)—Japanese air bombers were sent out from Mukden today with orders to attack concentrations of Chinese guerrillas blamed for the series of raids which caused terror throughout the city last night. The Chinese troops were reported to have taken up positions at Hun Hopu, four miles from Mukden. During the morning the city's entire fire department succeeded in conquering fires at the large arsenal and the aeroplane base, which had been set by the raiders. There were no explosions at the arsenal and about the only damage was at the plane base. Most of the raiders retired at daylight. In one of the hand-to-hand fights near the arsenal a Japanese officer and two soldiers wearing the uniform of the new state of Manchukuo were killed.

SISTER SHIPS

C.F.-P.E.I., the sister ship of the Heart's Content. She found no difficulty in finding a landing field at Pugwash and scanned the skies for two hours for Captain Mollison's silver monoplane. After giving up all hope of seeing the Captain she left on return to Charlottetown calling enroute at New Glasgow Airport and arriving in Charlottetown at 5.30. The weather was overcast at Pugwash and evidently Capt. Mollison flew above the clouds, although he was seen over Pictou.

During the early afternoon frantic calls and wires were received from St. John and Sydney. The St. John wires urged that Captain Mollison avoid Sydney as a severe storm was raging in that quarter. The Sydney wires carried instructions to the same effect. The gallant Scot unaware of the reported storms, and not seeing P. E. I. on the ground at Pugwash, pushed on. He failed to take the Sydney airport, although the Sydney plane, piloted by Don MacPherson, took the air to show him the way down. He made a successful landing however at Cox Heath, seven miles from Sydney.

This information was received in a message addressed to Mrs. Jenkins about 6 o'clock this evening. Captain Mollison has been unsuccessful in landing on Canadian airports. He missed St. John Airport both on his way to New York and on his way back, and yesterday he failed to land on the Sydney airport.

While bad weather existed at the above mentioned airports unexpected conditions existed in Charlottetown. It is a matter of regret that trans-Atlantic flyers have not made use of the local airport, located as it is in a fog free area, and equipped with long runways.

Solberg And Peterson Will Return To N.Y.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Aug. 28.—(By The Canadian Press)—The two flyers of Viking descent who set out from New York six days ago to retrace the Leif Erickson trail by air, arrived here today on a freight train. Their seaplane, smashed in the nosevise which ended their trans-Atlantic plans for the time being, was brought along in crated form. But Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen are not disheartened. Given financial backing, they are ready to try it again, confident of success.

From St. John's, the two flyers will return to New York by boat. Last Tuesday they headed for Harbor Grace from the United States city, enroute to Norway, only to have their hopes dashed in the waters of Paradise Sound, off Mersashen Island in Conception Bay, within 50 miles of their immediate goal.

Solberg blamed headwinds for the mishap. Under good weather conditions the plane would have reached the Newfoundland airfield in daylight. As it was, their speed at times was only 45 miles an hour, and it was long after dark when they finally came down, smashing off a wing in the landing. Fog and rain, too beat the last stages of the flight.

Both were anxious to hear any word of Clyde Lee and John Bochkon, who landed on the beach at Burgeo the night the Solberg-Petersen plane crashed, and later sped eastward toward Norway. But there was no word to give them.

There was speculation here today over the possibility that Lee and Bochkon in their Green Mountain Boy might not even have got away from the Newfoundland coast. It was apparently based on the low altitude at which they were flying before crossing the coast, but was not given much credence, as fishermen saw them heading seaward, flying low and fast.

Deputy Ministers at the conference numbered seven: J. B. Munro, Victoria, F. H. Auld, Regina, J. H. Evans, Winnipeg; J. B. Fairbairn, Toronto; J. A. Grenier, Quebec; H. Mitchell, Fredericton, and J. W. Boutler, Charlottetown.

TROPICAL

LATER

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 29.—As the weather bureau hosted hurricane warnings today, Miami bent its head and shoulders into a gusty 30 mile wind that swept in from the Atlantic, and went about the business of clearing the decks.

The warning was broadcast that dangerous, shifting gales possibly might reach hurricane force south of Miami during the early evening, but there was no noticeable hysteria.

While railroad officials bemoaned ruin of advance ticket sales for labor day excursions, lumber companies were doing a rushing business in two by fours, and the ring of hammers filled business streets as protection was hastily thrown around plate glass windows.

Many city, county and federal officers closed in the early afternoon so that the employees could go home to buy candles, brace the automobile on the leeward side of the house and check-over supplies in the pantry.

MANY INJURED

The barometer continued its slow downward course to 29.96 from the normal 30.00 and the wind slowly rose until it was blowing 38 miles an hour from the north at 7 p. m. Office workers surging into the streets met hard gusts of wind. Electric lights went out in various parts of the city. Ambulances were kept busy removing patients from homes to hospitals and downtown hotels. Traffic lights went out in outlying districts. Fire chief E. A. Westra said that at 6 p. m. four circuits with a total of 91 fire alarm boxes were out of order.

Small craft fled Biscayne Bay and sought safety in the Miami River even before the hurricane warnings were hoisted. Larger shipping was moved to commercial wharves where moorings are strong-vear. In the late afternoon all boats had been removed from the city yacht docks and the Royal Palm Yacht Club docks also were bare.

United States customs officials reported all their patrol boats had been moved safely into the river except one which broke down and which they expected to be battered to pieces in the high waves.

Cases In Queens County Court

Four cases came before His Honor Judge Duffy yesterday in the Queens County Court. Judgment was given for the plaintiff for $104 and costs in the case of Ira J. Yeo, M.D., vs. Leigh Stewart, an action for a debt on medical and surgical attendance.

The case of Michael MacDonald vs. Hugh Cummiskey, also came before His Honour. The case was an action for assault on board the S. S. He was pulled out by the boat's crew and for some weeks thereafter suffered from the effects of the wetting. Judgment was given for the plaintiff for $50 and costs. Mark R. McGuigan for the plaintiff and R. R. Bell for the defendant.

At 10.30 the case of The King vs. Earl Lund came before His Honour. The prisoner who was charged with breaking and entering a dwelling house at night with intent to commit an indictable offence therein, elected for a speedy trial. The case was set down for hearing on Wednesday next.

THE STRIKE

Response to the strike call had been "magnificent and far beyond our expectations."

"We have not entered into the strike light-heartedly," this spokesman asserted, "but have explained to all that a long fight may be necessary to win."

With a large proportion of the 200,000 weavers on strike an equal number of spinners—even if they decide to accept
