Word for the Under-Privileged Boy

THE Rotary Club of Montreal, like its sister organizations throughout the continent, is an efficient and effective organization working for the good of the community in which it exists. It has particularly devoted its attention to work among the class of boys that fall under the term "under-privileged."

In every great city there are thousands of such lads facing life under grievous handicaps imposed by poverty, or by the more dreadful combination of poverty and such physical or moral surroundings as could be a menace to the strongest. The task of brightening the lives of these lads and of giving them a chance to become good citizens is a grateful and noble one. The Rotary Club of Montreal has done a splendid job in this connection. It has interested itself in a very practical way in the Boys Home at Shawbridge on the Laurentian Mountains, and has done a great deal for boys throughout the city and district.

The Shawbridge Boys Home is the particular care of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is also president of the home. He has always taken a keen interest in the under-privileged, and it was natural, when the Rotary Club held their convention in Montreal recently, that he should be asked to address them on that subject.

"Perhaps the saddest thing in the world," said Mr. Beatty, "is the subnormal boy, or one whose standard of health is low, and no work is easier or more inspiring than that which helps to place the handicapped where he can face the world on an equal terms with the more fortunate."

Mr. Beatty went on to quote an eminent English educationalist who, though not prejudiced against the poor as a class, stated with truth that many parents are not appreciative of the problems of their children, and, not being capable of coping with their difficulties, do not supply the inspiration that tends to make them the kind of citizens they should grow up to be. THE WITCH-DOCTOR'S SPELL

The witch-doctor of the New Guinea Islands combines the tricks of a conjurers with the art of a masseur. When he is called to the bedside of a sick islander he dresses himself in a full regalia. Around his neck the old man wears a necklace composed of bits of crystal, pointed sticks, human bones and perhaps some native remedies. Around his waist he wears a bag with a reserve supply of the same valuables and somewhere about his person he is sure to be concealing stones and pieces of glass which he will pretend to charm out of the body of the sick man. With his matter hair and dirty skin he is a most unlovely object. Muttering and mumbling he bends over his patient and after a lengthy examination he announces to the anxious relative and standers that the trouble is just what he expected: the sick man's enemy or some other evil agency has wished certain stones into the body. It is these stones which are causing the anguish and which he will proceed to charm out. He then begins his work of massage and soon manages to palm out a few stones or bits of glass. When these appear the sufferer generally expresses great relief. Sometimes the doctor uses a hot stone wrapped in bark to knead the sore muscles, and if the pains are of a rheumatic nature the relief is probably genuine.

QUEEN MOTHER ALEXANDRA MESSAGE OF CONDOLENCE

(PARIS, April 2.—Letters and telegrams of condolence continue to arrive at Sarah Bernhardt's home. Among the latest, says Figaro, is the following message from Queen Mother Alexandra, to the actress' son, Maurice: "My heart goes out to you and your family in the cruel loss you have suffered in the death of your dear and revered mother. I send you my sincere condolence for the great loss which throws into mourning not only yourself, but the French nation and the numerous admirers Madame Sarah Bernhardt had in England."

ALKALI IN SHAMPOOS BAD FOR THE HAIR

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless) and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff, and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for two or three months. Be sure you get Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holstroy's Corn Remover is its strongest recommendation. It sets on fire.

CURIOUS KINDS OF MONEY

Some extraordinary things are said to be money in various quarters of the world.

In Uganda, for instance, the price of a fowl is still two yards of cotton cloth. Two eggs cost a needle, while a couple of old beer-bottles will purchase as much firewood as a man can carry. "Sakas" and cartridges are a common currency with the Southern Sudanese. Three cartridges go to a salt, the latter being a bar of crystallized salt ten inches long and five inches thick. Salt "oinage" is borrowed from Abyssinia, where it has been current for many years.

Thin quills of gold dust from the tanager of value in the highlands of British Guiana. They are worth about $5.00 each. Five of them are the price of a wife among the Indians. A little farther north, on the Mesquito Coast of Central America, the natives think most of Mexican silver dollars.

Jamaica's favorite coin reminds us of the old buccannering days, when pirates staggered under loads of gold. The doubloon, worth about 16 has been in use in Jamaica for many years, and the coin was only ceiled a few years ago.

Coking must surely be a common feature in Fiji. Whales' teeth are the usual currency among the natives. They are generally carried trung around the neck of their wearer. But as a red tooth is worth twenty times more than a white one, there is an evident opening or the intelligent use of a cheap bottle of red ink.

A single shell of the "Prince" Bowie has been sold to a collector for about $200, but of the cowrie used as money in Burma it takes $1,000 to make up the value of about 40 cents. Similar shells are the prevailing currency around the Guinea Coast.

Only less cumbersome than the last-mentioned is the extraordinary combination of small pieces of copper and zinc. British Chinese subjects of Hong Kong carry in long strings. It takes seven thousand five-hundred of them to equal $1.00, amount which one would need to carry, as it would weigh over thirty pounds.

CHARACTER IN FINGER NAILS

It is said there is much character to be observed from a person's finger nails as from their face.

The following indications are taken to be fairly correct: Those possessing long nails are good-natured and self-confident, but lacking very little confidence in others.

Broad nails are supposed to belong to those of a gentle and bashful disposition.

Little round nails are the sign of a person who is seldom pleased, readily inclined to anger, spiteful, and revengeful.

Anyone with fleshy, nail is said to be calm and easy-going, fond of eating and sleeping, and would order a small income without industry to much wealth to be acquired by activity and diligence.

Thin or lead-colored nails belong to the melancholy person, who, however, would do well in all branches of science or philosophy.

The long, well-shaped fibrous nail indicates a refined and artistic nature, fondness of society, and a great love of the beautiful.

Brantford, Ontario—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I keep house but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her, so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so that I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. I have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be beat for putting health and vim into a woman."—Mrs. JAMES H. MACPHERSON, 309 Greenwick Street, Brantford, Ontario.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Wiley suffered mentally as well as physically, because her home and her children demanded the care and attention which she was unable to give because of her wretched health. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

Do Your Rugs Look Drab and Dull? They Need a Hoover-Cleaning

It is surprising how the colors in a rug become dulled through the winter. In almost every home there are invisible sooty, greasy particles in the air that settle upon the rugs and gradually rob the colors of their natural brightness and freshness.

A Hoover-Cleaning will brighten these colors surprisingly. Also The Hoover will beat out all the embedded gritty dirt which shortens rug life so materially. In addition, it sweeps up litter and surface dirt and powerfully air cleans, all at the same time.

By this thorough process rugs are cleaned through and through. Entirely free of the sooty, greasy dirt, they regain their natural beauty. Let us Hoover-Clean one of the rugs in your home—free—and see if its appearance is not noticeably improved. It will not oblige you in any way.
