Watches, watch chains, rings, and other articles, estimated to be worth $150 were stolen on Monday night from the store of Mr. E. E. Parkman, Montague. Entry was effected by a window facing on a vacant lot at the side of the store. The robber took a thorough job and left very few clues behind them. Besides the stolen goods they also appropriated about twenty-five watches which had been left in the store for repairs. The thieves apparently took their time and before leaving found the proper cases and boxed the different articles of jewelry they had taken. Mr. Parkman had just received a large amount of new stock for the fall and Christmas trade, and it was mostly from this that the burglars drew their plunder.

Word of the crime was received by the Attorney General in this city yesterday and Police Officer Watson Higgins was promptly sent down to carry out an investigation. So thoroughly had the thieves done their work however, that as yet there is no clue to their identity. Mr. Parkman is receiving the sincere sympathy of the neighborhood over the heavy loss he has suffered as a result of the theft.

The reception following was held in the church parlors, which were effectively decorated with palms and gladioli. Later Mr. and Mrs. Macnie left for a trip through the White Mountains. Mr. Ings won five firsts, seven seconds and two thirds, as well as the special prize in the milking contest which was won by his Ayrshire cow, "Queen's Pride" over other breeds.

The efforts of the present.

WARNING TO CHILDREN.—While Mr. J. W. Murdoch was driving from Murray River to Montague in his car last Sunday, some children playing on the road obliged to bring his car to a standstill about twenty feet from them. As soon as they reached the roadside he again started away but was startled to see one of the youngsters, a lad of twelve, dash across the road directly in front of the auto. One of the front fenders struck the boy and threw him to one side, and he was picked up by Mr. Murdoch, unconscious. The latter immediately drove with the injured lad to Montague still unconscious where he received medical attention, and it was ascertained that no bones were broken. After spending several days in bed and under a doctor's care. The little fellow is already well on the way to health. The accident should serve as a warning to children who make a practice of using the public highway as a playground, without giving proper heed to the dangers of passing vehicles.

Mr. Frank M. Stewart presided at Rotary yesterday, it being "Business Methods" Day, Rev. Neil Herman, being the speaker. Mr. Herman spoke on Standardization of Business. He wished to speak not as a Minister but as a plain business man. There were two fundamental principles which should guide all business, first, do not sell what you do not own, and the second, do not buy what you cannot pay for. The whole business world today is run rampant in violation of these principles. By way of illustration he told of being in a real estate office in Western Canada, one day and seeing two old men come in and inquire about lots which had been sold them in the west by real estate agents in Ontario. They were told that the "lots" were mere bog holes, in that their hard earnings of years had been swallowed up. This is the sort of spirit that is ripping up business today—a spirit of speculation and gambling. He then spoke of stock manipulation which was going on giving an illustration of where one manipulator cleaned up $12,000,000 in stock gambling in three months. Men who are engaged in legitimate business feel the effect of the World of Big Men behind the manipulation. The wheat market is in the hands of a few manipulators. The price is not governed by the law of supply and demand, but by stock gambling. The farmer has not the slightest opportunity of fixing the price. The great question today is how to standardize practical business. Nineteen hundred years ago there was born a man who standardized religion, but he was crucified and rejected by men and crucified. He enunciated the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would have others do to you." This is at the bottom of all sound business for all time. The Golden Rule eliminates competitors and spells co-operation. In place of killing out a business competitor a business man should co-operate with him. The Golden Rule spells fair play. Business is a game played with competitors and markets. The question is are you playing the game fair? "I believe that a man can be a Christian and make money," said the speaker. "No man needs to be crooked to make money." The Golden Rule spells practical Christianity. Any business that does not work for the higher good, that doesn't give a square deal to humanity, that does not give a living more happiness to humanity is not Christianity. General Booth when told Christianity was played upon replied: "Christianity was never played in." Now is the time to play in Christianity and to apply the Golden Rule. Rotarian J. O. Hyndman read a letter from Rotarian A. M. Bold-club conveying greetings to the Club. The guests present were W. J. Reid, Kinkora, and Mr. C. B. Gooderham, Ottawa. Unusual talent assisted Monday night at a concert given by the Women's Institute of Montague in the Oddfellows' Hall in aid of the Montague High School. Mrs. George Macleod, Montreal, now visiting her brother Milton Furness at her old home in Vernon River; Miss Laura Whiteman, Lower Montague; Roy Quigley, Charlottetown; George Tweedy, Charlottetown, and Rev. E. A. Westmoreland, Vernon River. Miss Rena Wood, a graduate of Professor Fletcher, Charlottetown, played sympathetic accompaniments and showed finish in a piano solo, further entertaining with a vocal solo; Miss Jean Allen, Charlottetown, ably accompanied Messrs. Quigley and Tweedy. Miss Elizabeth Macleod, Montreal, daughter of Mrs. George Macleod, surprised the audience with her young grace and interpretations in aesthetic dances. Miss Sylvia Pool, Montague, drew much laughter with her humorous readings, while Mrs. Westmoreland entertained with dramatic effect in more serious sketches. Miss small the Cunningham, Miss M. W. A. Cumming, Montague, recited with dainty impressiveness. His Worship Mayor Martineau presided. After the concert the participants and others were entertained at the home of Mrs. Cumming, a dainty lunch being served by the Institute. The concert added substantially to a fund with which the Women's Institute will install the heating and plumbing of the new modern school, replacing the one which has served for many years, and the Institute is grateful to those who so generously assisted with their talents.

The September meeting of the Women's Institute of Montague, held on the lawn of Mrs. Robert Stewart overlooking one of the most beautiful parts of the Montague river, was made especially notable by a social hour spent after the transaction of business, and in which ex-Premier John Bell took part. Mr. Bell, who was visiting his niece Mrs. John Beer, was present by special invitation and on request spoke a few words concerning his recent European trip. He compared the happy home conditions in this province with less favored one even in Great Britain. He complimented the Institute on the work it was doing to improve social conditions and also upon the efficiency with which its business was transacted. He promised that at a future date he would give a longer lecture on his tour and especially on the Wembley exhibition.

Mrs. Hadlock, Belmont, Mass., formerly Miss Mary Alken, Lower Montague, entertained the meeting with readings from Drummond. Mrs. T. G. Ives, President of the Institute, presided. On the 5th June 1925, after a few days illness, Mrs. Ann McDonald passed peacefully in Christian resignation and faith in the Redeemer at the advanced age of 90 years. Mrs. Macleod was beloved of all who knew her intimately, a kind and peaceable neighbour, highly respected in the community, and at home a loving mother and faithful wife. She was laid to rest in Sherwood Cemetery the services being conducted by her Pastor, Rev. D. M. Lamont. So soon after the loss of his beloved wife, Mr. Archibald Macleod followed her to the eternal home on the 18th June 1925, only a fortnight intervening between their deaths. Mr. Macleod was the son of a well known elder of the Church of Scotland, in whose home the eminent Rev. Ronald Macleod used to hold religious services for many years. Archibald cherished a loving and affectionate memory of "the old minister" and could, to the last, repeat memorable utterances from his sermons. Mr. Archibald Macleod possessed a clear and sturdy intellect, was versed in Scripture and shortly before his death gave tender but solid testimony of his faith in his Saviour. He died in the 85th year of his age. He was laid to rest by the side of his spouse in Sherwood Cemetery, the funeral service being conducted by Rev. D. M. Lamont. At both funerals a large concourse of friends and neighbors who came to pay their last respects to an aged and respected resident. The services at the church and grave were conducted by Rev. A. J. McDonald, P. E. I., who also visited him during his illness. The pall bearers were Edward Hughes, Jas. McCannell, Michael Beagan, Thos. O'Shea, Joseph Board, Bernard Callaghan, May he rest in peace.
