EASING IN TENSE (Continued from Page 1) ... mation about what the Western Powers are proposing might ruin the outcome of the Moscow talks. The Western envoys—Frank Roberts, special British envoy, Walter Bedell Smith, United States Ambassador, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau—arrived at the Kremlin just a few minutes before 9 a.m. (3 p.m. A.D.T.) They had left their various residences with the Kremlin's bells were ringing out. Roberts was accompanied by Hugh Lughli, a British Embassy attaché who has translated for high British officials in previous interviews with Stalin. Chataigneau also took along a translator. Smith was alone. The Western diplomats reportedly will seek not only an easing of the Berlin crisis but will attempt to establish a basis for future four power negotiations on Germany and perhaps other outstanding world issues. They talked individually with Foreign Minister Molotov Saturday. As cables flew back and forth between Moscow, London, Washington and Paris none of the principals could be charged with pessimism.

WORK OF (Continued from Page 1) ... caused farmers' tax problems with the Federation. Only once had the Federation not been consulted. That was when the tax department inserted the net worth statement in the farmers' tax forms. But the Federation brought so much pressure to bear on the Government that within a few weeks the net worth statement was ordered deleted. The Canadian Federation of Agriculture, through its various recommendations to the Government since 1941, had saved Canadian farmers millions of dollars. Mr. Hannam said, at a cost to the individual farmer member of 30 cents a year. The subsidy of $5 per ton on coarse grains brought to Eastern Canada from the head of the Lakes was a case in point. It is true the subsidy was, strictly speaking, a freight-rate assistance measure but $5 per ton was what it amounted to. Many national agricultural problems confronted the Federation from month to month, often from week to week. Would it now favour beef being admitted into the United States? If it did, would it also favour the admission of coarse grains? If so, would that mean coarse grains would be more expensive to the Eastern farmer, or would it make much difference at present since the Eastern farmer's grain crop was more abundant than that year.

The Butcher Question (Continued from Page 1) ... Mr. Hannam said there was a great deal of criticism from the consumer on the high price of butter which is now 87 cents wholesale. But butter only appears high because it is much higher than it used to be. For 33 years—from 1914 to 1947—butter was below 40 cents a pound. There were 10 years during that period when it was below 30 cents. Today it is moving up and the people who are complaining about the high price are those who are engaged in businesses which have no ceilings. "We are the only industry," Mr. Hannam said, "which has a lot of controls." He mentioned the embargo on farm products going into the United States and the controls resulting from the Anglo-Canadian food agreements. It was not his intention, Mr. Hannam said, to recommend that butter should be higher than it is at the present time. In fact, if there is a shortage of butter this fall, the Federation might recommend that butter be brought in from Australia or New Zealand provided that the price be under control. It is the policy of the Canadian farmer to produce for abundance. It must not be forgotten, however, that this was the policy which ruined thousands of farmers in the last depression. But today there are millions starving in the world and the farmer feels those hungry millions must be fed. Moreover, people who are hungry are a restless, disquieted people. They are those who plot revolutions for the hungry people will no longer starve without some physical protest. The farmer, therefore, by feeding those hungry millions has much to contribute to the peace and security of the world. Mr. Hannam will address a farmers' rally at O'Leary this evening. Before Mr. Hannam's address, the new film, "Hog Supreme," depicting the high quality of the Island's hog industry, was shown by Mr. John Martin of the P. E. Island Libraries.

TAX CHANGES (Continued from Page 1) ... radios, refrigerators, washing machines and furniture. Quota restrictions apply to automobiles, all textiles except raw materials and yarns, shoes, fresh fruits and some vegetables, and sundries such as clocks, watches, cutlery, sporting goods and smokers' supplies. Apart from automobiles, articles which may be expected to take the biggest price plunge will be electric refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, electric appliances, firearms, motorcycles, outdoor motors, and certain toilet articles, chiefly brushes, combs and mirrors. On these, the 25-per-cent austerity tax is cleaned off altogether. On other items, the tax drops down to the 10 per cent level in effect before the dollar-conservation program took hold last Nov. 18. These include automobiles, radios, phonographs, cameras, projectors, and photographic films and supplies. The expectation here is that a large part, if not all, of the reductions will be passed along to the buyer. For some of these articles—namely the heavy taxes scared off buyers so much that the market became glutted and stores couldn't move their stock. Well before the tax cuts were announced Saturday night, some Ottawa stores were marking down their radios by 25 per cent to get them moving. That markdown is more than the tax reduction on radios. The markdowns were the result of Saturday-afternoon forecasts that the tax would be repealed that night. Other Side of Picture On the other side of the pic-

UNEXPECTED (Continued from Page 1) ... that McPhail had disappeared. For a time it was thought he had gone ashore. Then the women became alarmed and a search was started. Meanwhile another summer visitor, Major Scott Lynn of Ottawa, found the body drifting at Linkletter Shore, a short distance away. He did not know who the man was or what had happened but he recovered the body from the water and applied artificial respiration for three-quarters of an hour. Major Lynn, with his wife and daughter, are travelling by automobile and trailer and were staying at the Linkletter Shore. McPhail, a native of Tyne Valley, P.E.I., had been in the United States for 40 years. He was a train dispatcher with the Metropolitan Transit Authority and was unmarried. A coroner's jury viewed the body last night at the Compton Funeral Home in Summerside. After the remains were identified tonight at 6:30 in the County Court House. Ralph Dodds is jury foreman. Other members include Fred Galant, Norman Macdonald, Harold McIvor, Earl Sudbury, George Olscamp and George Clow. The customer can expect to pay more for soaps, shortening, lamb and mutton. By removing its $1,500,000-to-$2,000,000-a-month subsidy on fats and oils going into shortening and deodorizing them, the Government is either the trade or the customers to absorb these increases: On toilet soap, about a cent a bar; on laundry soap, about one to two cents a bar; on medium packages of soap flakes and chips, three cents a package; on shortening, 12 cents a pound. Imports of these fats and oils will continue on a quota basis. They are allocated by the International Emergency Food Council to various countries, and in Canada the Government will go on with its distribution controls. However, the Prices Board noted that Canada's share of the world's fats and oils is "slightly higher" this year than it was in 1947. Lamb and mutton will advance moderately through the Government's action in throwing open the export market on these products to the United States. Up to now, these had been exportable only under permit.

Reid, D.S.O., Officer Commanding the 17th Reconnaissance Regiment reports that the personnel of the unit which returned Sunday evening from a week's intensive training at Peauwanda Camp appear to have profited from the experience and to have enjoyed camp life under the officer commanding the camp was well satisfied with the turnout of the regiment and expressed particular satisfaction at the condition of the regimental records. The unit was given elementary reconnaissance training and which included an opportunity to drive tanks. The troops were also shown a demonstration of fire power. Major H. G. Williams informed "The Guardian" that the 28th Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, Lieut.-Col. G. K. Peake, D.S.O., E.D., officer commanding, experienced a successful camping period at the Anti-Aircraft firing camp located in Picton, Ontario. The military authorities in charge of the camp were quite pleased with the size of the Charlottetown unit which had a proportionately larger turnout than any other regiment at the Camp. Aircraft ground 'slews' targets were used during firing practice which was carried out with standard 40 mm. guns. Lieut.-Col. F. J. Storey, officer commanding the 6th Divisional Signals, returned by plane yesterday from the Signals Training Centre at Barriefield, Ontario. He reported that the permanent staff in charge of training at the camp were exceptionally pleased with the recruits who underwent a week's extensive training in signals and wireless instruction. Col. Storey said that the instructional staff were also delighted by the enthusiasm displayed by the young officers of the unit and by the interest and esprit de corps shown by the men.

TRIBUTE PAID TO LATE MR. BOULTER From Premier J. Walter Jones: "The late Wilfred Boulter was teaching at the Tryon Consolidated School in 1904 when I first heard of his good qualities. I offered to take his place for three months if he would take a special course in agriculture. This was the beginning of a brilliant career in agriculture and education. "He became a school inspector, then secretary of the Potato Growers' Association and Deputy Minister of Agriculture. Later his full talents were given to the Potato Growers' Association but he was used as agricultural plenipotentiary on many occasions at important conferences on trade, tariffs and agriculture in both Canada and the United States. He became president of the Canadian Horticultural Board where his opinions were highly regarded. One of his last jobs in his year of office was the securing and management of the British order for three million bushels of potatoes in 1947. "Normally he should have had many more years of service. He will be sorely missed in church, community, education and agricultural work, in all of which he was a trusted leader."

From the Hon. W.F. Alan Stewart, Minister of Agriculture: "In the passing of J. Wilfred Boulter the agricultural interests of Prince Edward Island have suffered a severe loss. Mr. Boulter during his lifetime made an outstanding contribution to agricultural expansion, both as an official of the Government and later through his co-operation as manager of the Prince Edward Island Potato Growers' Association. "His passing at the zenith of his influence will be deeply deplored by all who were associated with him, the great majority of whom benefitted through his outstanding efforts."

From Mr. Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan, O.B.E., former Premier, and Leader of the Opposition: "I am sure that every citizen of Prince Edward Island was shocked and saddened to learn of the untimely death of Wilfred Boulter, M.B.E. "I had the honour of being a classmate of his at Prince of Wales College fifty years ago, and for that long period of time we have been sincere and true friends. He was a successful school teacher and for ten years a capable and inspired school inspector. Thirty-one years ago he became Deputy Minister of Agriculture for this Province, and later manager of the Potato Growers Association. During my term of Premiership I found him a loyal and faithful public servant, initiating and carrying out wise policies in the Department of Agriculture. As manager of the Potato Growers Association he did his greatest work and if the Association is prosperous today, having weathered the storms of adversity in tariffs and low prices and inferior quality, Wilfred Boulter was the man mainly responsible and to whom the greatest credit should go. At one period he fought valiantly and almost alone against adverse tariff increases, especially the Export-Harvey tariff. He was the acknowledged expert and leader in the development of the great potato industry of Prince Edward Island, and also recognized at Ottawa as an outstanding horticulturist, being twice president of the Dominion Horticultural Council. Truly the farmers of this Province have never had a greater champion of their rights than Wilfred Boulter. "For many years he was a tower of strength, experience and wisdom on the City School Board. I know that all our citizens deeply mourn the untimely death of one of our greatest Prince Edward Islanders."

From Mr. J. Lester Douglas, M.P.: "Prince Edward Island has lost one of its outstanding citizens and business executives, in the death of Mr. J. Wilfred Boulter. "His loss will be felt in every strata of life in Prince Edward Island; among the business people in church circles, and perhaps most of all among the farmers for whom he laboured so long, and to such great advantage. He was a warm friend of mine, and I had many opportunities of knowing the extent of his executive ability, and the fine mind which he brought to bear on various Provincial problems. "He visited Ottawa frequently as a member of various delegations having to do with Provincial problems of far-reaching importance to the Island. Primarily these visits were connected with the potato industry, but in addition, he handled many other problems of great moment to Island agriculture. He was the key individual in the extension of the potato markets of this Province, and was the driving force which put the Island product into so many different parts of the world. His worth was appreciated not only by the farmers, but by such Provincial institutions as the Charlottetown Exhibition. "Canadian wide recognition was given to his ability, when he was elected as the president of the Horticulture Council of Canada, and the measure of his standing in Canada was recognized by the leading agriculturists of the Dominion, who accepted him as an equal. "He gave of his talents to many worthwhile causes, and will be long remembered for his services to his native Province."

From Mr. J. Lester Douglas, M.P.: "Prince Edward Island has lost one of its outstanding citizens and business executives, in the death of Mr. J. Wilfred Boulter. "His loss will be felt in every strata of life in Prince Edward Island; among the business people in church circles, and perhaps most of all among the farmers for whom he laboured so long, and to such great advantage. He was a warm friend of mine, and I had many opportunities of knowing the extent of his executive ability, and the fine mind which he brought to bear on various Provincial problems. "He visited Ottawa frequently as a member of various delegations having to do with Provincial problems of far-reaching importance to the Island. Primarily these visits were connected with the potato industry, but in addition, he handled many other problems of great moment to Island agriculture. He was the key individual in the extension of the potato markets of this Province, and was the driving force which put the Island product into so many different parts of the world. His worth was appreciated not only by the farmers, but by such Provincial institutions as the Charlottetown Exhibition. "Canadian wide recognition was given to his ability, when he was elected as the president of the Horticulture Council of Canada, and the measure of his standing in Canada was recognized by the leading agriculturists of the Dominion, who accepted him as an equal. "He gave of his talents to many worthwhile causes, and will be long remembered for his services to his native Province."

Tribute Paid To Late Mr. Boulter

From Premier J. Walter Jones: "The late Wilfred Boulter was teaching at the Tryon Consolidated School in 1904 when I first heard of his good qualities. I offered to take his place for three months if he would take a special course in agriculture. This was the beginning of a brilliant career in agriculture and education. "He became a school inspector, then secretary of the Potato Growers' Association and Deputy Minister of Agriculture. Later his full talents were given to the Potato Growers' Association but he was used as agricultural plenipotentiary on many occasions at important conferences on trade, tariffs and agriculture in both Canada and the United States. He became president of the Canadian Horticultural Board where his opinions were highly regarded. One of his last jobs in his year of office was the securing and management of the British order for three million bushels of potatoes in 1947. "Normally he should have had many more years of service. He will be sorely missed in church, community, education and agricultural work, in all of which he was a trusted leader."

City School Board Pays Tribute To Late Mr. J. W. Boulter

The regular monthly meeting of the City School Board was held yesterday afternoon with Dr. J.J. Yeo presiding, and who was welcomed back to the Board meetings after his recent illness. The following resolution was moved by Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan, O.B.E., seconded by Major D.L. Mathieson, B.A., M.L.A., and adopted unanimously. "Resolved, that we, the members of the Charlottetown City School Board in regular meeting assembled, wish to express our deep sorrow at the death of Mr. J.W. Boulter, M.B.E., a valued member of this Board. For many years Mr. Boulter has been one of our best members. His long experience as a teacher and ten years as a school inspector together with his natural ability and good judgment were the proper assets to make his opinion valuable and he made many sacrifices for the pupils and teachers in our City Schools. Further resolved that this resolution be inserted in our minutes and a copy sent to Mrs. Boulter and family."

Mrs. Rhoda McAndrew was appointed to fill a vacancy on the staff of West Kent School. City Schools will open on Tuesday September 7th at 9 o'clock. Beginners must be successfully vaccinated. Miss Heather Lantz, a pupil of West Kent School and daughter of Dr. J.P. Lantz and Mrs. Lantz has been awarded a prize of $25 by the City School Board for having made the highest marks at the recent entrance examinations to Prince of Wales College.

Prof. MacKinnon At Rotary Club

Professor Frank MacKinnon, Ph.D., Department of Political Science, Carleton College, Ottawa, was guest speaker at Rotary yesterday. His subject, "The Selection of National Party Leaders in Canada" dealt with the importance of the coming conventions for the selection of men, one of whom will be the next Prime Minister of Canada, and the other the Leader of the Opposition. Canada is not only a geographical federation, but also a political and cultural federation, and the leader selected must be able to weld the nation by being able to command the support and loyalty of all groups and factions. In view of this it is obvious that the leader selected cannot be popular only with a small group, nor can he be merely a local man. Possibly the difficult task of linking French and English cultures will be a strong combination such as MacDonald and Cartier, or King and Lapointe, said Mr. MacKinnon. The men to be selected must be in every sense leaders and not party chairmen, for although it is highly desirable that they keep their respective parties strongly united, they must be statesmen and good House of Commons men, said the speaker. It must be kept in mind that Canada is one of the great nations of the world and our leader will be expected to be able to take his place in Empire and world councils.
