Vanderbilt Seek No. 1 U. S. Turf Man

NEW YORK, Nov. 6-(AP)—Most folks at the Pimlico special last week were amazed at a new electric timer at old Pimlico. It was a clocking arrangement which by a photo-electric beam, clicked off the progress of the race at each fifth of a second and showed immediately the horses hit the wire just how fast they'd gone.

It was just another indication of what young Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt has been doing for Pimlico in particular and horse racing in general. And, from present indications—although he's only 27—young Alf is going to wake up some morning and find himself just about the No. 1 man of the United States turf.

His done so well as impresario at Pimlico that the old Maryland track, on the verge of coming apart at the seams before he took over in 1936, has paid dividends to its stockholders for two years now. Perhaps his greatest forward step to date, from a fan's point of view, has been the special. For years, a championship race, bringing together the top horses in training, has been every racing man's dream. Vanderbilt got the idea in 1937, but started it out only as a three-year-old stake.

Last year he had the "natural," however, in the Seabiscuit-War Admiral Gallop, which he succeeded in "cutting out" for $10,000 to the winner after Belmont's bid for $100,000 had fallen through because the "Biscuit" was ailing. This year, too, he had a logical field headed by Challeford and Kayak II. Nearly 25,000 fans turned out for it last week.

Toronto And Montreal Juniors Seeking Berths With Charlottetown Royals

This is not mere rumor. Yesterday Ed Meader, 18-year-old Toronto youth who is on the negotiation list of the Chicago Black Hawks arrived in the city in person. In conference with Royals officials the likable youngster stated that he would like to line up with the Royals and in the next breath stated that he could also secure the services of Braut, a Montreal youngster who last year performed in the nets for Concordia and is on the negotiation list of the New York Rangers; also a defencemen Connell who also hails from Toronto. The name of the other player was not disclosed but he is a Montreal youngster.

Nothing definite was decided upon but it is understood that officials are considering the matter and will likely have something more definite in the near future.
