Minard's Liniment used by Physicians PTE. H. GILLESPIE KILLED IN ACTION

The following clipping from a St. John Exchange will be of interest here as the deceased father, Mr. Gillespie, lived on Upper Queen Street. Harry was a general favorite with the boys and in his boyhood evinced his liking for the militia, having had a small regiment here who wore paper helmets and marched the Streets. He was a generous hearted boy and his chums will be saddened to hear of his death.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Gillespie, 167 Charlotte street, each received a letter from their son, Harry Cheerfulness was the dominant note in each message. This morning they received from Ottawa the distressing news that Pte. Harry Gillespie, infantry, was officially reported killed in action, Saturday, July 27.

The young soldier was born in Charlottetown 26 years ago, and attended the West End School there, with Lee Seaman, teacher. About ten years ago he went to Rockland, Mass., where he was employed as a telegraph operator. After spending several years with the U. S. army in Mexico he retired from the service and went to Winnipeg in June, 1917, and joined the British-American draft. Shortly after he went overseas and was transferred to the 8th Canadian Battalion.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sister, Miss Alva, at Rockland, Mass., and Miss Margaret Ellen, a nurse. The latter, after spending some time at Camp Devens was in New York when last heard from, preparing to go overseas. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie came here from P. E. Island about 10 years ago and Mr. Gillespie is a popular employee of Frost & Wood, Ltd., King Square.

Lawrence Hobbs, of Portland, Oregon, aged 19 years, who is in the U. S. navy, and James Gillespie of Amesbury, Mass., aged 22 years in the U. S. army are cousins of the young hero. Altogether Mr. Gillespie has more than a score of relatives in the allied armies.

SHIP LAUNCHED AT NEW GLASGOW, N. S.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Aug. 15.—The first wooden vessel to be launched from the McNeil Shipbuilding Yards took to the water Wednesday morning at 11.40 o'clock. About 9 o'clock word went around that the vessel was to be launched and crowds began to gather on the west side of the river bank facing the yards.

The Master builder, Mr. D. S. McLaren gave the signal. "Drive the Pin." The pin was released and the ship slid down the way as gracefully as if she was ploughing the waves. The launching was made "slip-on"—the first ever attempted here—and not the slightest hitch occurred during

The new vessel is a splendid looking craft of 250 registered tons. The keel is 103 feet, beam 30 feet, and she has a hole depth of 12 feet. The ship when completed will be a credit to the McNeil Shipbuilding Company and a tribute to the workmanship of Mr. D. S. McLaren, Master builder and his competent staff of shipbuilders.

The caulking of this vessel is being done under the supervision and direction of Mr. William Haberlin of Georgetown, P. E. I., who is an expert in his line he, having worked for many years at shipbuilding in the west.

The vessel it is understood has been purchased by Mr. A. Moulton of Halifax.
