DONEGAL ADVERTISED FOR BRIDE

In London Telegraph, So Says Halifax Herald

HE ASKED $125,000 CASH

But a Subsequent Agreement Provided for Forty Thousand Dollars a Year.

"An English Peer of very old title is desirous of marrying at once a very wealthy lady; her age and looks are immaterial, but her character must be irreplicable; she must be a widow or a spinster—not a divorcee. If among your clients you know such a lady who is willing to purchase the rank of a peeress for $25,000, paid to her future husband, and who has sufficient wealth besides to keep up the rank of a peeress, I shall be pleased if you communicate with me in the first instance by letter, when a meeting can be arranged in your office. I beg you to keep this confidential. The peer will pay handsomely for the introduction when it is arranged."

It was this offer printed in the London Telegraph last February that led up to the much talked of marriage, a few days ago, of the venerable Marquis of Donegal and Miss Violet Twining, a twenty-one-year old Canadian heiress and beauty.

A firm of prominent London solicitors handled the matrimonial campaign of the octogenarian Marquis with rare skill. When his offer first appeared in print there was much speculation among titled Britishers as to the identity of the advertiser, but the secret was skilfully kept. Only since the marriage of the Marquis has it become known that he was the peer who put up the rank of peeress for sale in the open market for $125,000 spot cash.

The financial arrangements made between the octogenarian bridegroom and the young bride were not exactly those that were called for in the original advertisement.

Instead of $125,000 cash being paid the agreement provides for settlement of $40,000 a year upon the Marquis. He is in his eighty first year and is hale and hearty for a man of his advanced age. Should he live five years his marriage will net him $200,000. Should he live three years he will receive $120,000, or about the sum he originally demanded. It was less than six weeks ago that the Marquis was introduced to Miss Twining at the Isthmian Club. Five weeks after the first meeting he led the young Canadian heiress to the altar.—Halifax Herald.

THEY FATHER CONSUMPTION.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrh cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhine is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops drooping, headache, and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment, $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. CONSECRATED TO FOREIGN MISSIONS

Two Workers About to Leave for far off Japan.

UNITED IN MATRIMONY

Rev. Percy Alexander Formerly of Stanhope and Miss Fannie G. Wilson of Tennessee.

Rev Percy Alexander and Miss Fannie G. Wilson were married last night at the First M. E. church, in the presence of a large number of friends. The wedding was entirely free from ostentation. The decorations were very lovely, the chancel being filled with palms and on the pulpit was a handsome bouquet of Bride Roses. Miss Harriet Smith presided at the organ playing the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as the party entered and Mandelsohn's wedding march after the ceremony. The ushers were Messrs. Paul Manker, C W Wheland, George Adams and Dr James Atlee.

They entered first, in couples, followed by the little ring bearer, the bride's sister Sarah Wilson. She was in pure white and was a charming attendant. The bride and groom followed together. Awaiting them at the altar were Rev. Luther Freeman, and Dr J J Manker who jointly performed the full marriage ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. Manker pronounced the nuptial benediction.

Mrs. Alexander was a very sweet bride. She was in full bridal toilet of white satin train, and handsomely applied. With it she wore a tulle veil and carried Bride Roses. While kneeling after the benediction the little maid gracefully threw the veil back from her sister's face, an office very sweetly performed.

Immediately after the ceremony the party drove to Mr. P. C. Wilson's home where an informal reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will remain here until February.

The union of these two lives, both of which have been consecrated to the foreign mission work of the Methodist church is especially appropriate and as they go on their way in about a month to resume their work together the love and prayers of numberless friends will follow them to far away Japan. Both are pre-eminently fitted by education and nature for this highest form of Christian labor and their work has already been of great value to the great denomination that sent them out and under the auspices of which they return to the mission field. Chattanooga Tenn. Times.

(R. V. Mr. Alexander referred to above is a native of Stanhope and the son of George Alexander now residing in Souris. He visited the Island last summer while on his furlough from Japan. Mr. Alexander's first wife was burned to death about six years ago when their home in Japan was destroyed by fire.)

THE EDITOR'S MAIL.

FRUIT GROWERS' EXHIBIT.

SIR,—In The Guardian of the 9th Inst. I note a long list of apples, samples of which are requested from fruit growers for exhibit purposes in Charlottetown on 10th prox.

I fail to note in the list one of the best general purpose apples in the winter variety for the home market, viz the Bishop Pippin, which appears to be well acclimated, and when properly cared for gives satisfactory results.

I am perfectly aware it will not bring satisfactory returns from the shipments to the English market, owing to the large quantity forwarded there from France, and moreover not having a showy colour to take the eye.

The prudent housewife, however, on this side of the Atlantic should have no hesitation in accepting this variety, when properly put up, as to my idea it will compare favorably with some varieties whose merit consists in either being of a good keeping quality late, or more showy. In error I stand corrected.

Respectfully,
C.

REV. R.S. COFFIN RESIGNS

On Account of Ill Health—Kind Address From his Former Charge and a Handsome Present.

A correspondent writing to the Truro News from Upper Stewiacke says:—In the midst of our festivities the community was surprised and pained by the announcement of the resignation of Rev. F. S. Coffin, Owing to ill health Mr. Coffin has been compelled to rest. This with a change of scene and associations, he hopes will restore his wonted vigor.

Finding him firm in his decision to leave, his congregation rallied from the blow and promptly arranged for a social, at which they could give expression to their feelings. Such a gathering was convened in the Presbyterian church, where refreshments for three hundred were served by the ladies.

Our chairman, Mr. Robert Kent, then called the meeting to order, and requested Mr. Barton Fulton to read an address, during which he made a presentation of a purse containing $115 to the retiring clergyman. Speeches from the Elders, members of the church and adherents followed; all expressing appreciation of Mr. Coffin's labors, and regret at his departure.

Mr. Coffin was then called upon, and for once in his life found preparation of little service. The preceding addresses, and the remarks of those present, affording him ample material for an impromptu reply. From a full heart he became eloquent over the kindness of his people. A strong warm sympathy from his audience was an inspiration to him throughout. He closed by a very impressive appeal to the young men to be mainly.

A speech from Elder Kent, the Chairman, and music from the choir, contributed very much to the unqualified success of the farewell meeting.

THE WISDOM OF BEING SURE OF ONE'S FACTS.

(From the Maritime Merchant, Jan. 2.)

The Secretary of the Maritime Commercial Travellers' Association is George E. Faulkner, of Faulkner & Co., Halifax. Mr. Faulkner is a man of many offices; he is a director of the Truro Condensed Milk Co., and president of the Port Hood Coal Co., Ltd. His interest in numerous industrial concerns in different parts of the country makes it necessary that he should frequently travel by rail, and it was while he was coming in on the express from Truro a few days ago that the following incident occurred: "I was sitting in the smoking car," said he, "when two travelling men came forward to have a cigar. One of them was returning from the North, the other from Cape Breton. 'How are things down east?' said No. 1, who had been in New Brunswick. 'Not so bad,' said No. 2. 'If it didn't take so long to get there, we were about three hours late getting into Sydney the other night on account of the—bad coal the I. C. R. are using in their engines. Somebody told me it came from Port Hood and I tell you it is rotten stuff.'

"I thought this was about my time to say something," said Mr. Faulkner, "so I dropped my paper, leaned over the seat and said: 'Do you know, my dear sir, that it is a very dangerous thing to make a statement like that without being sure of the facts. Will you believe me if I tell you that the Intercolonial Railway has not had a pound of Port Hood coal since last spring and that owing to the rush of orders from other sources, it would have been impossible to supply Port Hood Coal had they wanted it. Port Hood Coal, indeed! No, Sir! If you were late getting to Sydney it was no fault of 'Port Hood.'

"The travelling man didn't know just what to say but expressed his regret if an unwarranted injury had been done. He said the thing had been freely stated at Sydney and that others were of the same opinion.

I said, 'Of course I know you are not talking with malicious intent, but there is a lesson in this incident which may be of profit.

"It is to avoid speaking ill of anybody without being sure of the evidence. Who can tell even in this case how much damage has been done to Port Hood Coal by people who without a fair knowledge of the facts have talked too much."

THE INDIAN TROOPS ARE REVIEWED

The Last Important Event of the Durbar

A MAGNIFICENT SIGHT.

Thirty Thousand Troops Led by Lord Kitchener—Warmly Congratulated by Lord Curzon.

DELHI, India, Jan. 9.—The review of thirty thousand British and native troops led by Lord Kitchener, by the Viceroy, Lord Curzon, yesterday, was the last important event of the coronation Durbar. The Viceroy, the Duke of Connaught and the Grand Duke of Hesse, surrounded by a brilliant staff, took up their positions at the saluting point between the grand stands. From every side an immense multitude of Europeans and natives watched the march past and cheered the favorite regiments. Lady Curzon and the Duchess of Connaught witnessed the review from carriages.

The scene yesterday was not less brilliant in coloring than the preceding events, and it equalled them in picturesque interest. There was a particularly effective manoeuvre after the passing of the horse artillery the cavalry, the field batteries and the infantry in the order named; the cavalry in line of regiments, followed by the artillery galloped past again, and formed half mile in front of the grand stand, and from this position charged down in a long and magnificent line to within a short distance of the saluting point.

Lord Kitchener, after leading the first regiments, joined the Viceroy. He was warmly congratulated by Lord Curzon on the bearing of the troops throughout the Durbar.

Of all the soldiers revived today, none made a better impression than the native volunteers, which were led by native princes magnificently uniformed and horsed.

The Imperial service corps, composed of natives, which saw service in China, excited great admiration and was given a tremendous reception.

THE CRITICAL TIME OF LIFE.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigor is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes 50c, or 3 boxes for $1.50, at Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.
