RECIPROCITY CAMPAIGN WILL BE HELD

OTTAWA, May 21—Politics, like the weather, will be warm in Canada during the next two months. The word has gone out from the leaders of both political parties for an active campaign in all constituencies on the reciprocity issue, pending the reassembling of parliament on July 18, for the final effort of the government to secure the ratification of the agreement before prorogation.

The opposition members have left Ottawa with the declared intention of forcing the government to go to the country on the issue in the autumn through the lever of obstructing the passage of supplies to carry on the administration.

Before adjournment on Friday they consented to grant an interim supply bill, just sufficient for the government's needs up to September. On reassembling they will probably grant supply for another two months, long enough to permit of the passing of the promised bill, redistributing the parliamentary seats, according to the figures of the June census. Then the government, with an empty treasury and the public service thereby disorganized—an admitted handicap in an election campaign—would have no recourse but to appeal to the electors to break the deadlock.

LIBERALS CONFIDENT.

The government and the Liberal majority in parliament, confident that reciprocity commands the support of the country as a whole, are not disposed to let the opposition hold up the government's program any longer than is absolutely necessary to justify a prompt appeal to the country and the word has gone out that the Liberal members are to perfect their organizations at once and be ready for a sudden election, if need be, at any time after the house meets again.

Election literature, with reciprocity as the main theme, is now being prepared by both sides, and as the members postal franks are good during the recess it will be sent out in huge volume from Ottawa during the next two months.

MEETINGS EVERYWHERE.

Meetings are being arranged by both sides covering every portion of the dominion. In the province of Quebec, for instance, the Liberal organization has arranged for some 300 meetings. The cabinet ministers will take charge of their respective provinces and will be absent from the capital most of the time between nowand July 18th.

Mr. Borden starts on June 15 for a hurried tour of the prairie provinces, addressing some thirty meetings in three weeks, his meetings will be offset by Liberal meetings now being arranged for all the western constituencies.

Hon. Frank Oliver will be in charge of the pro-reciprocity western campaign and it is possible that Hon. Mr. Paterson, who was Hon. Mr. Fielding's colleague in negotiating the agreement at Washington, will address several meetings with Mr. Oliver in the west next month.

That is at present the political outlook. An election is contingent on the United States' senate ratifying the agreement and the opposition finding, as a result of their campaign, that they can make headway against reciprocity. They are already assured of a big campaign fund from the interests opposed to reciprocity, but this is conditional on their preventing its coming into operation.

If the American senate fails to ratify the agreement or hitches it up with amendments onerous to Canada then the chance for freer trade between the two countries will have been lost, for the present, at least, and parliament would probably speedily prorogue to take up other business at the opening of the next session in November.

THE SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS WOMAN.

The money-making woman has certainly characteristics which set her apart from the rest of her sex. The words money-making are here used in the sense of successful in business as well.

In the first place, no woman who has the management of money will ever be successful if she spends all she has. No matter how large or how small the sum in hand, she always manages so she has some left. If she allows herself 25 cents a day car fare she spends only 20 cents. This instinct of holding back funds, of saving for a rainy day, is born in her. She can no more resist it than she can the call to eat when she is hungry. Some women never have capital; others are creating a larger one all the time by saving and re-investing even their interest.

No woman who spends her last cent be sure of that. It means more than keeping out of debt to be a good manager.

The business woman who makes her mark is she who decides long and earnestly before choosing her particular occupation and then sticks to it. This is an age of specialization. In big cities, above all, there is no room for unskilled labor, and the woman who knows more than one trade, who does a little of this and a bit of that, is skilled at none thoroughly enough to draw a good salary.

After she has once chosen her trade the successful woman will, while carrying it along according to her own ideas and abilities, keep a sharp lookout on the methods of her rivals. More can be learned from rivals, even enemies, than from friends, for friends flatter and are blind to faults.

The woman who wants to succeed at anything must keep studying her particular line as long as she works at it. It is perfectly futile nowadays to say one knows a trade. Everything is changing too rapidly. She who stands still is lost. She was good yesterday; she will be so no longer tomorrow.

To kick against the march of events and the new developments occurring almost daily is the worst kind of foolishness—a sure sign of failure. The woman who wants to succeed must make up her mind to welcome these changes, to make them serve her ends to find out what good there is in them for her and to go with the current, not against it. That is perhaps the greatest reason of her success.
