OUR MINISTER'S SERMON

The minister said last night, says he, "Don't be afraid of giving. If your life ain't worth nothin' to other folks, why what's the use of living? And that's what I say to my wife, says I. There's Brown, the miserable sinner. He'd sooner a beggar would strave than give. A cent toward buying a dinner. I tell you our minister's prime, he is. When I couldn't quite determine, But I heard him a givin' it right and left. Just who was hit by his sermon. Of course there couldn't be no mistake. When he talked of long winded prayin'. For Peters and Johnson they sat and scooped. At every word he was sayin'. And the minister he went on to say, "There's various kind of cheating, And religion's as good for every day. As it is to bring to meetin'. I don't think much of the man that gives. The loud amuck at my preachin'. And spends his time the following week In cheatin' and overcheatin'. I guess that dose was bitter. For a man like Jones to swallow. But I noticed he didn't open his mouth. Not once after that to holler. Hurrah, says I, for the minister. Of course I said it quiet. Give us some more or this open talk. It's very refreshing diet. The minister hit 'em every time. And when he spoke of fashion. And rigin' on in bows and things. As woman's ruin' passion. And comin' to church to see the styles. I couldn't help a winkin'. Says I to myself that sermon's pat. But man is a queer creation z. And I'm much afraid that most of the folks. Now, if he had said a word about My person's mode of sinnin'. My have gone to work to right myself. And not set those agrinin'." Just then the minister says, says says he, "And now I've come to the felers. Who've lost their showery by usin' their friends. As a sort of apron umbrellas. Go home," says he, "and find your faults. Instead of huntin' your brother's. Go home," says he, "and wear the coat. Don't try to fit for other. My with who padded, and Brown he winked. And there was lots of smilin'. And there was lots of lookin' at our pew. I got my blood a-bilin'. Says I to myself, our minister is gettin' a little bitter. He tell him when the meetin's out, that I'm a new man at all that kind of a critter.

DO YOU KNOW THESE MEASURES?

What are a pot of beetroots, a bunch of cauliflowers, and a flat of cabbages? The British Ministry of Agriculture thinks it desirable that the public should understand these market measures, and has issued an explanation. A pot of beetroots is 56lb. of Jerusalem artichokes 80lb. of lettuce (cabbage) 8 to 10 dozen.

Happenings Of The Week

Mrs. McAvity, the Canadian who painted the Prince of Wales and of whom mention has already been made in Happenings of the Week, has recently been "filmed" by Pathe Freres, in her London Studio, and the film will shortly be shown in Canada under "Interviews" in Eve's Revue. Mrs. McAvity is living in Chelsea, that fascinating strip of Old London lying between King's Road and the Thames' Embankment, of which Miss Elsie Montisambert, wrote in her "Unnoticed London," that "the little village had been famous for such a diversity of things as literature and custards art and water-works, china and huns, horticulture and learning." A letter just received from Mrs. McAvity, contains the information that she is expecting to take a trip to Bermuda in the Fall of 1924, going via Canada.

Miss Myrtle Ross, who has been on a delightful holiday with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ross, returns to Montreal this morning.

According to a Bond Street authority, notepaper in all the lovely bits of spring tempts women to fill their writing-table cases afresh. The present attraction is a coloured striped paper with faint bars of a paler shade upon it, and at intervals a bar with a tiny dot design upon it in another colour. Bordered papers are also popular. A grey, mauve, blue or yellow paper, with a border of a contrast shade looks well. Some women choose notepaper that harmonises with their rooms and envelopes are lined to match the border colour used in the paper, met with a cold reception today from Senate leaders, Republicans and Democrats alike. "We never will" was the emphatic statement made by Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, chairman of the finance committee, which has charge of all fiscal policies so far as the Senate is concerned, and other senators in private statements were of the most part equally hostile to the British suggestion. Especially antagonistic were senators of the "old irrecusable" group and Senator Hiram Bland, of Nebraska, ranking democratic member of the foreign relations committee, was quoted as saying that any such plan appeared to be without a possibility of United States support. "The question of Great Britain cancelling her debts is one for herself," said Senator McCumber. "What she does with respect to her debtors is a matter for herself. Our policy towards ours is our own affair. We never will consent to cancellation of the war debt of Great Britain or other nations in my opinion." State Department officials again declined to comment on the British note, saying they wished to give dispassionate study to the text of the note which is being forwarded to Washington by the United States embassy at London.

POPE'S FINANCES SUFFER FROM CHAOS IN EXCHANGE

ROME, Aug. 4.—The disastrous state of money exchange, with Vienna and Berlin has placed the finances of the Vatican in a precarious situation, as Austrian and German Catholics "always have been general contributors to the upkeep of St. Peter's in the connection, the Pope has asked Rome a noted financial expert who will work with a special commission of five Cardinals on a re-organization of the Papal Benedictine regime Becard, pointed out economies which could be made by the Holy See. The Pope hoped that after the Genoa conference the exchange situation would improve, but instead it has become much worse and contributions from Austrians amounted to trivial sums only when converted into lire. The cost of living in Rome which is mounting rapidly adds to the financial perplexities of the Vatican.

The Reason Why! In the sections of Ontario where the soft winter wheat is grown and blended flours are milled, OGILVIE'S "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" FLOUR is the standby for all baking purposes. The housewives of Ontario have tried out the two kinds of flour, side by side; and they know that they get better results with the hard spring wheat flour than with the soft winter wheat and blended flours. OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR Is milled from the choicest hard spring wheat from the wheatfields of our Canadian Northwest, which is recognized everywhere as the finest wheat belt in the world. "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" serves every baking purpose better than soft winter wheat or blended flours. When baking bread with "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" use more water with the same quantity of flour and you get a bigger, tastier loaf. For Pastry, use the same amount of shortening and less flour and you get the lightest, most delicious Cakes, Pies and Pastry you ever tasted. No matter what other flour you may be using now, try OGILVIE'S "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" and see how much better it is for all baking purposes. Dealers everywhere have OGILVIE'S "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" FLOUR in convenient sized bags and in barrels. The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Limited MONTREAL - FORT WILLIAM - WINNIPEG - MEDICINE HAT

A Guide to What's Good to Get SOME one has said that if bread and butter were new inventions they would have to be advertised before people would accept them as standard articles of food. Even in this progressive age, folks are somewhat wary of leaving the beaten path. They stick pretty close to the things they know, when those things come up to their expectations. That is why alert merchants and manufacturers strive to tell about their products and their services in the advertising columns of the daily paper. They want you to know what they have to offer, in the belief that when you do know, you will be interested, and perhaps inspired, with some of their own enthusiasm. Thrifty men and women find that it pays to read the advertisements. It enables them to rest assured that they are not overlooking anything. It lets them know where to locate some desired product or service; where to go for "this" or "that" to get "that" to best advantage. Without its direction they would overlook much and consequently lose much. They would live in ignorance of many things that might add materially to their wealth, health and happiness. Make advertising your guide to what's good to get. READ IT—REFLECT ON IT—IT PAYS!
