THE WINTER STEAMERS AND CAR FERRY PROSPECTS.

Few persons outside of this Province have even a partial knowledge of the transmutations that take place when and shortly after the change from summer to winter steamers takes place here.

But when the winter boats go on duty we usually have a series of kaleidoscopic changes. Ports and routes are changed, often, indeed usually, without notice.

Persons cannot make the crossing and passengers are delayed for days or weeks on expenses they had not counted on or prepared for.

And behind all this is the common probability that passengers may find their only means of ingress to or egress from the Province to be by way of the small ice-boats at the Cape, where one must pay his passage and work his passage as a strap passenger.

an authorised officer of the Post Office Department. If this is so, either the 'authorised officer' referred to or the other official who rendered the account for $25,754 must have blundered.

It appears that The Globe, according to its own statement, believed that without question or challenge the postal authorities would carry the extra copies at the regular rate for subscription copies, and in that belief had contracted to deliver them through the mails for something less than one cent per copy.

It appears that some Canadian newspaper publishers—or at least one Toronto daily—did send out a considerable number of extra copies during the election campaign and paid the extra postage rate as for papers sent to non-subscribers.
