INDUSTRY HIT BY
RISING PRICES

Rising prices affect everyone these days. In industry, for example, the cost of bituminous coal has gone up about three hundred percent. Today's higher fuel prices emphasize the importance of insulation more than ever before. For many years industry has looked to Johns-Manville for the numerous types of insulation needed in our power plants and factories. Teamed up with these heat-saving materials is an organization of skilled applicators who are trained in Johns-Manville methods. These men have the technical skill that comes from long experience with industry's insulation problems.

Yes, Johns-Manville insulation is expertly applied, saves costly fuel by reducing heat losses and keeps your plant operating at peak efficiency. For information write Canadian Johns-Manville, Sun Life Bldg., Montreal.

ISLAND DELEGATES

Millan and many other delegates including Mr. Holman said they were not only well satisfied but delighted that they believed now that the Progressive Conservative party was on the highroad to power at Ottawa.

"At previous conventions, Prince Edward Island members have generally voted in a bloc," Dr. MacLellan said. "I would say that this 1943 Progressive Conservative Convention was no exception to this broad general rule. We all took the position of may the best man win, and personally I'm convinced that that is exactly what happened today."

The Island delegation was particularly pleased to note that in Mr. Drew's acceptance of the leadership, he mentioned Prince Edward Island first in a brief review of the highlights of each of the Canadian Provinces. The new leader made it clear that he was well aware of the Province and specifically Charlottetown is the cradle of Confederation.

At this convention, delegates from the Province played a role principally in the resolutions committee and behind the scenes the main part was to move or to speak on a resolution, nor did they take part in resolution discussions.

DEFINITE VIEWS

"There's no question of our delegation not having very definite views on certain resolutions affecting the Maritimes," Dr. MacLellan said. "The fact is that in committee we worked to frame these resolutions in such a way as would be acceptable to all Maritimers of the party. When you've worked day and night to perfect a resolution, it would be folly to get up in open convention two days later and waste time talking about something you've approved in the first place."

The delegation, however, did take part in framing an amendment to resolution 28 pertaining to the Maritime Provinces, together with delegates from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Wording of the amendment was: "Now therefore be it resolved that the Progressive Conservative party pledges itself to pursue a policy, limited only by the rules of sound economics, and adopts the broad principle of alleviating economic difficulties of the Maritime Provinces, arising from reason of geographical locations."

While a few of the Island delegates left Ottawa late Saturday evening, the majority took a

Gallivan-MacPhee Wedding

Of widespread interest to Maritimers is the marriage taking place in St. Dunstan's Basilica this morning at 10 o'clock of Miss Mary Madelyn Eileen MacPhee, daughter of Mr. H. F. MacPhee, M. C., and Mrs. MacPhee, Charlottetown, and Mr. Daniel Leo Gallivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Gallivan of Whitney Pier, Sydney, N. S.

Beautiful flowers have been arranged to enhance the beauty of the Sanctuary where Rev. William Gallivan, brother of the groom, will perform the ceremony in the presence of relatives and invited guests. Mrs. Joseph Douglas will play the nuptial music during the ceremony, the soloists being Mr. Frank MacIntyre and Miss Frances Hennessey, Charlottetown.

The witness bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will wear an exquisite period gown of chalk white velvet, with Belgian silk net veil and will carry an arm bouquet of gardenias and roses.

Miss Mary MacPhee will be her sister's maid of honor. Her gown will be of matinee blue velvet, with her bridesmaids, Miss Joyce Madden, Liverpool, N. S., and Miss Kathleen McNeely, Antigonish, will both be gowned alike in American beauty velvet. The attendants will wear velvet halos and carry white flowers to correspond with their costumes.

Mr. Patrick Gallivan of Sydney will be best man.

The guests, including many from outside the Province will be ushered to the flower market place by Messrs. Jack Trainor, Charlottetown, Don Longhane, Halifax, Angus Gillis, Charlottetown, and Ernest Findlay MacDonald, Halifax.

The bride's mother has chosen a costume of green French crepe with pink furs and matching hat and shoes and wearing a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride will be dressed in navy blue with grey accessories and wearing a corsage of roses for her son's wedding.

Following the ceremony a reception will be held at Knapton Beach Hotel, where the breakfast table will be centered with roses and softly shaded candles. The color scheme is being carried out in blue and silver.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Gallivan will leave by car on a honeymoon to New York and Philadelphia, the bride travelling in a mulberry suit with periwinkle accessories, and top coat.

A wealth of wedding presents attested to the popularity of the young couple who are to make their home in Halifax, N. S.

The out of town guests include Mr. and Mrs. M. H. McManus, Halifax, Miss Joan MacLeod, Halifax, Miss Mary O'Byrne, Halifax, Mr. Ernest Finlay MacDonald, Halifax, Mr. Donald Longhane, Halifax, Mr. Leo MacIntyre, Glace Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Luke Gallivan, Sydney, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gallivan, Sydney and Mr. and Mrs. M. Halloran, Sydney.

WINS LEADERSHIP

lately accepted that theme as set out in the series of planks adopted at the convention as the party's polished-up program.

A convention hall seething with a tumult of ovation—some 6,000 persons were contributing to the din—heard him approve of the new policies as progressive.

And, said Mr. Drew amid a wave of cheers, they would win the next election.

After 12 1/2 all-the-pre-convention campaign of his supporters and their whirlwind efforts for him in the three days of the session—it became evident that Mr. Drew had welded the old party that brought him to power in Ontario in 1943, 1945 and this year.

It was clear that this spell had operated on a coast-to-coast basis, not only sweeping up the voting strength in the so-called Ontario-Quebec axis of Central Canada but taking in the outlying provinces as well.

To observers, it looked as though the Ontario Premier had made a victory in most cases overwhelming—out of every Province except Saskatchewan, where Diefenbaker probably took the bulk of the 94 votes.

On the other hand, another conclusion was that Mr. Diefenbaker and earnest Prairie lawyer and parliamentarian—had drawn support from every Province, too, except for a negligible vote from Quebec.

The vote from the French-speaking Province, it was conceded, went practically all for Mr. Drew and Mr. Fleming, with the youngest candidate drawing the bulk of his support from that Province.

For Mr. Diefenbaker, it looked as though his support came largely out of the Western Provinces—where he is noted as a top-flight criminal lawyer—and from Ontario. He got, it seemed, only slight backing from the Maritimes. The seaboard Provinces undoubtedly were preponderantly for Mr. Drew. So were Quebec and Ontario. That told the tale.

But the size of the majority was surprising, not only to those watching the contest but to the Drew forces themselves.

Sources close to the Premier—a confident figure on the surface—said that far from looking on the fight as a pushover, he had been decidedly anxious about the chances of his selection.

After the election, Mr. Drew received an ovation that swept through the delegate ranks of all Provinces.

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. special car for the return journey to Charlottetown at 6:55 o'clock this morning. W. Chester S. McLure, M.P. for Queen's, and sole Federal member of the delegation, left Ottawa Saturday night for Toronto where he is spending a day or two prior to returning to Charlottetown.

Claim Attlee May Resign

LONDON, Oct. 3 — (AP) — The News of the World said Saturday night that it had a report that Prime Minister Attlee "may resign within the next two or three weeks."

The political correspondent of the independent London newspaper attributed the report to "circles in close touch with Downing Street."

Members of Attlee's household said they knew nothing of it. The Prime Minister has been suffering from stomach trouble.

Enrolment in Universities To Double

By GEORGE FRANKS

UTRECHT, Holland, Sept. 27 — (Reuters) — Some 10,000,000 university students will be following courses of higher education in more than 4,000 universities throughout the world by 1960.

That is the conclusion reached by some 300 professors from 33 countries who met here in August at the preparatory conference of representatives of universities to discuss shortages of higher education.

The professors studied reports of progress, students, problems and plans from universities throughout the world. From the balance sheet of these reports, it was found that there are at present some 8,000,000 university students enrolled at the universities of the world—and that by 1960 that figure will almost certainly be doubled.

The professors themselves agreed that what one described as "this world phenomenon" which may turn out a riddle" was already dangerously overtaxing university facilities and staff.

In addition to long-term planning, the conference discussed some of the more immediate plans to meet shortages of textbooks, classrooms and teachers. In some countries, like Holland, there will have to be curtailment of the traditional free entry to universities.

It was on this point that the most cleavage of the conference occurred.

Representatives of the United States and the British Dominions were generally in favor of an open door and education for the largest number, whereas the majority of the British and Continental delegates expressed a preference for maintaining university standards by limitation and rigid selection of students.

Recent Rains Not Welcomed By Many

Last Saturday morning's rain and those which have fallen over the week-end were not welcomed by those island farmers who still have some grain in stock, Mr. Chester Shaw, potato inspector, Dominion Department of Agriculture, said yesterday. The rains were a disappointment also to those farmers who have been busily engaged in digging their earlier-planted potatoes.

It was surprising how many potato fields, Mr. Shaw said, these were in the Province which were covered with green tops. It was his opinion that farmers would be well advised, especially in areas where the late blight was severe, to delay their digging for from 10 to 14 days after the tops had died.

Mr. Shaw said he did not believe the present low prices for potatoes would continue long. Some farmers were compelled to sell part of their crop because of their lack of storage but it was his belief that those who could store would receive a good price after the first of the year.

PLATFORM DEDICATED

the motion was called.

Here are some of the other major planks in the platform structure:

1. A contributory social security program embodying retirement pensions at 65 without a means test, accident, sickness and disability benefits and adequate medical and hospital care for all.
2. Federal funds to aid the building of low-cost homes.
3. An open market for newly-produced gold as opposed to the present fixed 938-ounce price paid for yellow metal.
4. A broad program of development and conservation of natural resources.
5. A long-range plan of selective industrial legislation.
6. Formation of a national labor council and government establishment of profit-sharing plans between labor and management.
7. Substantial reductions in income and so-called "nuisance" taxes.
8. Re-affirmation of faith in the free enterprise system.
9. Assurance of maximum stability of income to Canadian farmers.
10. Establishment of a permanent committee of the Commons on veterans affairs.
11. On foreign affairs, the Party called for a policy of "friendly firmness" towards the Soviet Union with no appeasement in the face of aggression. The British Commonwealth should be strengthened by mutual cooperation and closer relations should be sought with the United States and France.
12. Canada, said the resolution, should give its "strongest" support to the Western Defense Union.

Would Outlaw Reds

The convention adopted a plank calling for the outlawing of Communist activities in Canada, and pledging strict enforcement of existing laws against Communism and the enactment of new legislation necessary to cope with the Red doctrine.

It urged the Government to remove from all departments and government positions "all known members of Communist and Fascist organizations and persons associated with them in such a way as to raise legitimate doubts as to their reliability."

Another plank opposed any infringement of provincial rights and said the provinces should give such rights free consent before any such right is altered. It suggested a more equitable distribution of the burden of taxation between the Dominion, the Provinces and the municipalities.

The convention opposed the socialization of major industries and financial institutions but maintained that "a sound national policy demands that our natural resources, our industrial enterprises and our financial institutions shall be encouraged and developed so as to produce the maximum national income."

The operation of the Foreign Exchange Control Board was criticized and a financial policy which "aims to find the true value of the Canadian dollar" was advocated. If appropriate modification of international financial agreements could not be achieved, Canada should not withdraw and allow the dollar to find its value in a free market."

The party pledged itself to the principle of expanding Canada's international trade and of reciprocal tariff adjustments and trade agreements to promote that expansion. It would eliminate all abnormal trade barriers arising from licence quota and embargo.

Notable Towing
Feat Accomplished

HALIFAX, Oct. 3 — (CP) — The Foundation Maritime tug Josephine and Lillian completed an 850-mile battle against heavy seas today when the derelict British freighter was nudged into Murray's Anchorage, Bermuda.

Foundation Maritime officials here termed the six-day towing operation "a very notable feat of marine salvage."

The captain of the Foundation Josephine messaged the operation was completed at 3 p.m. (A.S.T.) today. He said the abandoned salvage prize was still listing about 50 degrees.

The tug sighted the orphaned freighter last Sunday after a 10-day hurricane. Six crew members were lost.

SINNERS

How sad it is I think, to see The sins of men on earth; They wistfully forsake their God, The one who gave them birth.

The curly headed little boy Who prayed at mother's knee; Has chosen the wrong path in life, All base and vile is he.

Money has become to some The root of every evil; For them no comfort in God is found, They drift downward to the Devil.

Liquor is another curse, To which men have inclined They drink the red wine in the glass, And it beclouds their minds.

The liar is contended, To think that all is well; Little doth he reck the road That leadeth down to Hell.

The Saviour of the World Is the only hope of man; Dear friends accept his pardoning grace, Be saved now, while you can.

—Rustle.

It called, too, for immediate completion of a hard-surface trans-Canada highway, with a major Dominion contribution towards the cost. Eventually feeder routes should be established.

Other planks urged abolition of the $250 fee on radio receiving sets, adequate criminal reform, adoption of a Canadian national flag and economic improvements for the Maritime Provinces.

Lower Taxes Promised

The taxation plank said the Party would lift the personal income tax exemptions from $1,500 to at least $2,500 for married persons; from $750 to at least $1,250 for single; lower the general rate of personal income tax and increase the present $100 exemption for dependent children to $200 a child.

It also would stimulate enterprise and production through tax concessions, abolish the nuisance taxes and substantially reduce general sales and excise taxes on necessities.

The Party advocated a return to the prewar practice whereby wheat producers could sell their product wherever they wished, as opposed to the present policy of compulsory delivery to the Canadian Wheat Board.

It said, too, that it would enact permanent floor price legislation incorporating a definite formula in the Farm Prices Support Act allowing for variations in production and demand for individual products.

A board of livestock commissioners would be set up and a Dominion-wide rehabilitation and soil conservation plan established. Facilities of the Farm Loan Board would be extended.

The social security plank includes extended unemployment insurance benefits, including payment for time lost due to accidents or sickness, and similar benefits on a non-contributory basis for "unemployables."
