Chicago Church Gutted By Fire

CHICAGO Nov. 9.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin swept the interior of St. Philomena's Catholic Church today causing damage estimated at $150,000. The altar, its vessels and vestments were destroyed, and a $20,000 organ ruined. A priest succeeded in saving the Sacrament.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Nov. 9.—(CP Cable)—Two men were dead and two others missing as Trinidad took toll today of a series of severe electrical storms that lashed the coast of the British Island over the week-end.

Augustin Villaroel, picked up, today by the Venezuelan steamship Apure, told his rescuers how two companions were drowned when the open boat in which they were heading for Venezuela from Port of Spain was overturned by a giant wave.

Two sportsmen were still unreported after setting out Saturday in an open boat to cruise along the coast during the week-end, and it was feared they had been drowned.

again very ill at her home in Carleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph MacDonald of Borden are receiving the congratulations of their friends on the birth of a baby boy on Thursday, Nov. 5th. Mother and son are both doing well.

Their friends will regret to learn of the illness at their respective homes in Cape Traverse of Byron little son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cutcliffe and Gladys, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Norring.

Mr. Ernest Lord of North Tryon suffered a painful accident on Saturday at Ives Mill, Tryon, when his right hand was caught in the machinery, removing four fingers.

About noon on Sunday, Nov. 8th, Mr. James Quigley passed peacefully away after a short illness at the home of his son, Mr. Fred Quigley of Carleton. The deceased who was in his seventy-sixth year spent most of his life in Wilmot but after the death of his wife, Mary Francis, six years ago he resided with his son Frank in Carleton. He was a life-long Liberal and an adherent of the United Church of Canada. He leaves to mourn their loss one daughter, Hilda, Mr. Lester Robbins of Wilmot, three sons, Frank of Carleton, Percy and Harry of Mount Tryon and fifteen grand-children to all of whom the sincere sympathy of their friends goes out in their sudden bereavement.—D.

persons have been led into the erroneous idea of lending all their support, financially and otherwise for educational institutions. When and how, I ask, are we going to take care of the thousands of young people if we do not give something for the establishment and maintenance of industrial schools? It seems to me a case of helping the few and forgetting the many.

We talk about being an educated generation when, as a matter of fact, we are not adequately equipped in a single Province to care for our young people.

Indeed, this is one of the weak links in our educational system, a weakness which, until remedied, must place our youth at a disadvantage whether they remain at home or seek their living in other lands.

ALMOST AS GOOD AS WEBSTER

Sir,—Hon. Mr. Howe's optimistic view of and prophetic words regarding the railway debt, remind me of Daniel Webster's speech on the tariff.

Webster was a man of profound intellect and broad views, but he sometimes labored under the befogging influence of Madeira wine. On one occasion he was down for a speech on the tariff. When he got up, he could hardly hold two ideas together. A friend sat behind him as prompter.

As Webster stood wavering the prompter said, "Tariff, tariff" in a whisper.

Webster began: "The tariff gentlemen is a subject requiring the profound attention of statesmen. American industry must be (nods a little). Prompter: "National debt." Webster: "And debt—there's the national debt—it should be paid (loud cheers which aroused the speaker); yes, gentlemen it should be paid (cheers), and I'll be hanged if it shan't be—(taking out his pocket book)—I'll pay it myself! How much it is?"

This question coupled with the recollection of the impecuniosity of Webster's pocket book excited roars of laughter.

THE U. S. ELECTION

Sir,—Not only in the United States has the Democratic landslide and the marvellous endorsement of President Roosevelt given satisfaction but in the world at large that endorsement has brought unanimous words of praise. It is felt that not only will Roosevelt's re-election be an aid to prosperity but it will have the effect of retarding the war spirit and will bring greater hope to those who are working in the interest of world peace and the avoidance of an economic and military catastrophe. By the election the United States has been put in a place of leadership. Roosevelt, as it were, is sitting on top of the world and the world capitals are now really looking to him to do something constructive to restore order in international affairs. There are good grounds for this belief may be gathered from the past foreign policies of the President and his secretary of State, Mr. Hull and previous to the election the President declared "Of course we intend to follow and expand that policy." It is already announced that the President will attend an all American international conference at Buenos Aires on Dec. 1 and this is hopefully looked forward to as the starting point in his international outlook.

No opponent chosen by the Republicans could have beaten President Roosevelt on this occasion. Landon although he is 11,000,000 votes behind the President nevertheless polled more votes than given to any previous Republican candidate. It is conceded, however, that Mr. Landon and his campaign manager Mr. Hamilton were no match for the President and his aide James A. Farley. A columnist in The Times refers to the former pair as "Country Boy Management". There may be some truth in that statement. They had a splendid organization, well supplied with millions of money but their strategy was terribly at fault and the Republicans were annihilated. President Roosevelt is an expert campaigner and a great leader. Mr. Farley cannot be duplicated as a national chairman. It was he who had Roosevelt nominated and elected in 1932. His organization has been kept in perfect working condition ever since. His complete knowledge of the situation in every section is shown by his marvellous pre-election prediction that Landon would only carry two states and he actually named them, Maine and Vermont. One telegram received by him since the election reads: "As Elijah was the world's greatest spiritual prophet I hail you as the foremost political prophet."

In Canada we hear much about Tammany but Tammany counted for little in this election. Farley is the man who managed and controlled the fight and he was able to deliver the goods. His organization is not for election time only. It is a permanent institution and in the field of politics it is like a community welfare organization.

At every election certain questions are submitted to the electors for instance in Oklahoma which is a dry state the people were asked to vote on the repeal of the Prohibition law in force there but the voters by a substantial majority decided to remain dry. Here in New York a question was voted on as to whether the State should issue Bonds to pay for relief purposes. It was carried although many thought that "a pay as you go" policy would be preferable. Another proposal was for proportional representation. It also carried although it is safe to say that the majority of those voting knew very little about the proposition. It will hardly be workable in a city such as New York and it will be extremely costly.

One of the happy results was the almost total elimination of all third parties. The Communists did not poll over 40,000 votes. The Socialists lost heavily since 1932 and the party headed by Father Coughlin, Dr. Townsend, Mr. Lemke and others which was called the "National Union for Social Justice" and which Father Coughlin claimed would poll 9,000,000 votes actually polled less than three quarters of a million. It was a knock out blow for Father Coughlin. There are many other interesting things that could be written about this election but they must stand over for the present. It was a grand sight to witness the hosts of people at "Times Square" on election night as the returns were being broadcast by bulletin boards, loud speakers and electric devices. There are no words to describe the scene. It was wonderful and dazzling—the lights of Manhattan. The stars in their courses had never seen a spectacle just like it. I am Sir, etc. J. F. W.

BRUDENELL WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The annual meeting of the Brudenell Women's Institute was held on Nov. 3rd at the home of Mrs. Harold Nicholson, with ten members and one visitor present.

Meeting opened with Creed, followed by roll call and reading of minutes of previous annual and regular meetings. The secretary then gave financial report of the year's work. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President—Mrs. Edson McIntyre. Vice Pres.—Mrs. Harold Nicholson.

Secy-Treas.—Margaret Robertson (re-elected).

Directors—Mrs. Milton Fraser, Miss Isabel Robertson, Mrs. L. K. Cameron.

Auditors—Miss Blanche Dewar, Miss Doris Robertson. It was moved and seconded that the Institute hold a bean supper. The secretary brought in a bill of $1.10 which was ordered paid. Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Fraser reported having collected for King's County Hospital. The meeting then adjourned and the following Peace Day program was carried out.

Readings, "Our Heritage" by Colonel George Drew, Mrs. Henry McLaren; "The Peace Bridge Ceremony," from "The Country-woman,"—Miss Blanche Dewar.

Recitations, "The Song of the Pacific"—Isabel Robertson. "A Friendship Song"—Doris Robertson.

"Peace"—Mrs. Milton Fraser.

"The Victory which is Peace"—Mrs. Edson McIntyre.

The hostess then served a delicious lunch which was much enjoyed by all. Next place of meeting Mrs. Milton Fraser's.

See Rise In Beef And Dairy Prices

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Americans who relish porkchops, ham or beef steaks were warned by experts at the agriculture department today that these meats will cost more and be scarce next year. "The smallest supply of meat in 15 more than 15 years," was forecast officially in a report.

Drought which reduced feed supplies was blamed by the government spokesmen for the expected trends.

Another report here predicted "some rise" in dairy prices in 1937.
