WESTERN SCIENTISTS PROBE NUCLEAR LORE

EDMONTON, May 20 — (CP) — Edmontonians need have no fear of an atomic explosion that might wipe out their city, but thoughtful physicists at the University of Alberta now are working on nuclear physics under the supervision of Dr. G. O. Langstroth, professor of physics, and Dr. H. B. Scott, assistant professor.

Dr. Scott stressed that the university will carry out pure research only, specializing in the study of phenomena of behavior of certain nuclear particles as yet unexplained.

The problem tackled by the scientists here is also being studied at the University of Zurich in Switzerland and at Ohio State College.

Contrary to popular belief, no outstanding qualifications are required for the work, beyond the usual standards required to graduate in physics, says Dr. Scott.

He spent several months last summer working on atomic energy research at Chalk River and found it "very interesting."

Freeze Only Vegetables Fresh Picked From Garden

Vegetables to be stored in home freezing units or lockers should be frozen, just as they should be cooked, as soon as possible after harvesting. This is the recommendation made by state experiment stations which have tested loss of flavor, tenderness and vitamin content in vegetables after the harvest.

Garden-fresh for freezing means not more than two hours after harvesting.

"Prompt handling of garden products from harvesting to freezing is of the utmost importance," says extension bulletin 244 from the University of Minnesota. "For example, holding freshly picked peas in a warm room for 3 to 4 hours will materially toughen the skins. Losses of Vitamin C are greatest during this period."

One to two thirds of their original Vitamin C value, the bulletin says, may be lost by vegetables in 24 hours at room temperature. If necessary to hold overnight, they should be placed in a refrigerator or covered with crushed ice. Never try to hold them after shelling, slicing or scalding.

The findings concerning the loss of nutrition are of importance to housewives who harvest or purchase vegetables for the table. Peas are of flavor due to delay in cooking or an outstanding example of the loss processing. Tests by the state experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., showed that Vitamin C content dropped as peas grew older. In lots harvested at different stages of maturity over a 10 day period, the oldest lots contained 35 per cent less Vitamin C than the youngest. They also lost tenderness, as indicated by a tenderometer reading of 80 for the youngest, and 140 for the oldest. Tenderometer is a new device to measure toughness.

Peas are sweetest at dawn, according to the Washington state college, and if harvested then should be kept in a cold place until cooked, frozen or canned.

Spinach stored at room temperature lost 48 per cent of its Vitamin C content in 24 hours, according to the Oklahoma experiment station; and in six days it lost 91 per cent. Spinach is often six days on the way from field to the table.

Varieties of vegetables recommended for freezing are, in general the home garden kinds which excel in tenderness and flavor, without regard to their shipping qualities.

Use small, tender beets, the young tender leaves of all greens, carrots harvested late in the fall and mature but not woody. Grade lima beans and peas by floating in cold brine and discarding all that sink to the bottom, which will be over-mature. Pick corn slightly more mature than for table use. Whole tomatoes do not freeze well.

LONDON, May 20 — (CP) — A consumers' strike by Canadian children against rising prices of chocolate bars and soft drinks won editorial praise from the Times of London which termed the protest "the right of strike" and one calculated to make British buyers "wistful" at the thought of hitting back at sellers. The newspaper's famous "fourth leader" — which deals humorously with lighter topics of the day — called attention to the high degree of organization of the strikers in publicizing their campaign of "infantile unrest" and boycotting the vendors whose prices were deemed exorbitant.
