ISLANDERS RETURN HOME.—Among those returning to spend the Christmas holidays with their parents, were the Misses Dorothy and Frankie Gillis, Amesbury, Mass., where they have spent the past three years. The girls think that Spud Island, is quite good enough for them yet and are enjoying their stay very much as their many friends were very much pleased to see them. They think no American boat can compare with the Car Ferry for a home like feeling and cheeriness. Miss Gillis says one would know a Canadian boat anywhere and also spoke of receiving the Guardian from friends here and says it is like a visit from an old friend, as it contains so much of interest to one away from home. Previous to leaving for home, they were tendered a farewell party and received many tokens testifying to the esteem in which they are held. They intend returning in about six weeks to their old positions which await them there.

MISS MARGARET WOODSIDE.
The death occurred at her home in Charlottetown, on January 6th, of Miss Margaret Woodside, 72. Miss Woodside was long and favorably known in this community. About a week ago she contracted a cold, which developed into pneumonia, with the result that she was unable to get on her feet and she was taken home, and in a weakened condition she was tenderly nursed in her home by her niece, Mrs. Joseph Dunning, who was assisted by her family. Miss Woodside was one who held true to the good old Presbyterian faith and was visited by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Williamson during her illness. Mrs. Williamson also conducted the funeral services at her home on the evening of January 10th. A spray resting on the casket gave silent evidence of the esteem and respect of which she was held by the members of the W. M. S. of which she was a life member.

MRS. ALEXANDER SORRIE.
The angel of death entered the home of Mr. Alexander Sorrie, 124 Road on Dec. 23rd, and took from our midst the beloved wife and mother, Mrs. A. Sorrie, at the age of 71 years. She was formerly Mary King, daughter of George King. The deceased had been in good health up to a few months before her death, during which time she suffered a lot. Her daughter, Mrs. Nathaniel Taylor, and grand daughter, Mrs. David Godsoe, waited on Mrs. Sorrie very kindly and patiently all through her sickness and that loving hands and medical skill could do was done, but all in

Feng's Army Shows Benefit of Teaching
PERING, Jan. 12.—Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang the pride of the missionaries in China as an outstanding example of the Christianized Chinese, undoubtedly has exerted a good influence upon the thousands of young men who have constituted his army.

Whether the amount of instruction he has been able to give them really has implanted in their minds any conception of the Christian religion, is uncertain, but his efforts at teaching his soldiers the rudiments of clean living and morality Dissolute Habits Corrected

Smoking, obscenity and dissolute habits of all sorts are tabooed under the rigid rules enforced. The value of athletics and of bodily industry and a desire for learning have been encouraged. Motives of the purport that "He who will not work does not deserve to eat" and "Knowledge and industry are the roads to prosperity and happiness" were painted in large characters on walls and gates around the barracks.

The men were given religious training on mass and at intervals baptized in the Christian faith in lots running into the thousands.

Are Better Fighters
At the time of the battles between Peking and Tientsin, which resulted in Feng's evacuation of the capital, these troops, most of whom therefore had done no serious fighting, amazed Foreigners and Chinese alike by their courage and loyalty. They showed their officers.
