INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE — Root G. Jackson, M. D., who is to lecture in the Holy Name Club Hall on Monday evening, did not commence lecturing until after his 78th year but for the past 7 or 8 years he has spent an increasing amount of his time on the lecture platform with phenomenal success as those who have heard him well know. There is hardly a place of importance in Canada or the U. S. where he has not appeared and he is inundated with invitations to appear on the lecture platform nightly. His general subject is "Natural Health through natural living habits," but each lecture is different. When you hear and see Dr. Jackson you will marvel at the physical and mental alertness of this "youth of 77" who night after night thrills great audiences with his eloquence and enthusiasm. Dr. Jackson's lectures are free and those who desire to attend should go early to be sure of a seat.

PROMINENT ISLANDER — A loyal Prince Edward Islander, one of Boston's best known attorneys is James H. Morson, a native of Dundas, son of the late Richard W. and Janet (Robertson) Morson. Educated in the public schools of his native village and at Prince of Wales college, Charlottetown, Mr. Morson began his career as a teacher and for six years was principal of the school at Marshfield, P. E. I. He then attended the University of Maine Law School, he graduated with an L. L. B. in 1908. He was admitted to the bar in Boston later the same year. He has been retained in many famous cases. Perhaps the outstanding trial of his career was the well known "Molasses Case," the litigation of which arose out of the bursting in 1919 of a 2,000,000 gallon molasses tank at Atlantic avenue. Eighteen people were suffocated, an immense amount of damage was done. Mr. Morson represented the Canadian side in the trial which lasted 18 months and was only finally ended by a settlement. He married Minnie A. Robertson of Farmington, P. E. I., in 1911. Both he and Mrs. Morson are unparading in their efforts on behalf of Canadian children in Boston. He is president of the Canadian Club, Mr. Morson is still one of the most active members of the executive. He is a Mason, a member of the Beth Aran Lodge of Brookline. The Morsons live at 20 Stanton road, Boston. He is the brother of Alex. Stewart Morson of Dundas. Another brother is Rev. Robert R. Morson, minister of the First Congregational Church of Palmer, Mass. Mr. Morson's firm has another Prince Edward Islander in it. It is Joseph S. O'Neill, of Vernon River, P. E. I. — Exchange.

Miss Lena McLure is visiting in Toronto prior to leaving on a trip to the Pacific Coast.

Honoring Memory Of Lord Halifax

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, April 28—Memory of the late Lord Halifax, leader of the Anglo-Catholic movement in the Church of England will be perpetuated by a new high altar and reredos in York Minster.

A design on broader and more striking lines than that originally suggested has been submitted to the Dean and Chapter by Walter Tapper, consulting architect to the Minister. The work will be proceeded with as soon as the committee and the treasurers feel that it can be executed without danger of debt.

In a letter asking "churches and congregations and individual donors throughout the Empire and in the United States," to subscribe to the memorial, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Archbishop of York, Sir Samuel Hoare, Sir Ian Malcolm and Dr. Scott Lidgett remind churchpeople that the scheme offers an opportunity of paying their tribute of regard and of gratitude to a true saint, Englishman and a fearless and devoted son of the Church.

The sum aimed at is $30,000. Lord Hugh Cecil and Athletian Riley are named treasurers of the fund.

Canada's Atlantic port in Nova Scotia was named after an ancestor of Lord Halifax.

BRITAIN SETS UP FORESTRY QUESTS

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, April 27—An organization for the development of colonial forest resources has been set up by the Secretary of State for the dominions, J. R. Thomas.

With the consent of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research two of their technical officers have been transferred for the new effort—namely, Major F. M. Oliphant, lately assistant director of the Forest Products Research Laboratory and Major J. P. Cosgrove, lately in charge of the section of utilization at the laboratory.

Major Oliphant, as forest economist, will deal mainly with the organization of production and will spend much of his time in the dependencies concerned, while Major Cosgrove, as market development officer, will be engaged in market promotion work, with reference to the United Kingdom market and other markets, both British and foreign.

The organization will be chiefly concerned with timber development, but will also interest itself in other forest products, such as wood pulp, fibres, gums and resins, and the like.

SNAKES DISLIKE IRISH MOISTURE

(Canadian Press)

DUBLIN April 27—A new reason has been assigned for the absence of snakes from Ireland. It's the weather!

Popular legend has it that they were all banished by Saint Patrick, the national apostle, 1500 years ago. The more material view that snakes dislike Ireland's wet weather was taken by W. Farrington, lecturing at a meeting of the Geographical Society of Ireland here.

He said Ireland boasted of a species of toad common to county Kerry but had nothing like the common English toad. England was first occupied by certain fauna which were slow of movement, also Ireland at a later stage, but as the land sank and the sea arose and cut off the British Isles from the rest of England, there was less time for the fauna to move from the mainland, he said.

Farrington added Tierra del Fuego also had no snakes, although South America was a comparatively snaky region. The reason for the absence of the reptiles was undoubtedly due, he said, to wet weather in both parts of the world.

FOLKE ARE READY FOR LONDON CROWD

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, April 28—International criminals who hope to reap rich harvests in London during the Jubilee celebrations will have to overcome stringent precautions now being undertaken by the authorities.

Scotland Yard, the Home Office, the Customs Service and a chain of private detectives working in hotels are uniting to see that these unwelcome visitors get short shrift.

Worldwide foreign capitals reported some time ago that certain gangs had planned Jubilee raids on London.

Secret warnings reached Scotland Yard and then "black lists" of suspects were sent to the special branch men at the British ports. Already certain "tourists" arriving here on "holidays" have been politely asked to move on—and they have gone without a murmur.

Indian princes with their jewels, rich Americans and wealthy men from all parts of the Empire gathering here for the celebrations have attracted the criminal element.

Early to bed and early to rise It's not made him healthy, nor wealthy, nor wise. Is the motto of old John Hamley, But it gets him away from his family.

Slayer Hopes Children Wont Visit Him

"I do not want Than to see me; he would only be making a 3,000-mile journey to have his poor heart broken at the end of it," declared Harold W. Vermilyea, convicted murderer of his mother, from the death cell in Belleville, Ont. jail, when told that his son, Than, shown here, sought to come from California to say farewell prior to his execution. Anrel's, his daughter, who has also written to her father, is shown on the right.

Missionaries Unreported

As yet no word has been received from the ten United Church missionaries stationed in the earthquake area at Shoku. (2) Mrs. Duncan Little, Toronto, a medical doctor herself, is with her husband, Dr. Duncan Little, in the very centre of the area. Miss Ruth MacLeod (1), is with her father, close to the worst trouble. Mrs. H. B. Collier (3), with her two children, one 11 days old, was forced to evacuate from Chengtu in Szechuan, China, when the area was terrorized by rebels.

TROUBLES CONTINUE BESET OLD DOMBINA—CHEMISTS NOW USE WOOD IMITATE HIDE

Dobbin's supremacy has been challenged by the motor car and now along come the chemists and begin to set up a rival for his hide. Not only is horsehide threatened but cowhide, pig skin and other leathers. And the new fabric comes from a tree! Experiments with Canadian spruce have produced an article that has the grain and texture of leather as well as its durability. Among Canada's gifts to the Princess Marina, now the Duchess of Kent, was one made of the new fabric and great interest has been aroused in the latest achievement of industrial chemistry. The forest resources of the provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as well as other provinces in Canada should be considerably enhanced in value as a result of the new discovery. Both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have extensive stands of spruce according to the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways.

Successful Lamb Project

The lamb feeding project initiated by the Dominion Department of Agriculture whereby lambs raised on the ranges of Western Canada are fattened in Ontario is new in its measure of permanency to the whole range-sheep industry that did not formerly exist. At the same time the establishment of lamb fattening centres in Eastern Ontario has special significance in that the products from these feedlots have gone a long way in opening up a larger demand for lamb in eastern cities and towns. For example, following the introduction of lamb fattening centres in the Ottawa Valley in 1934, the city of Ottawa this year is being regularly supplied with fresh feed-lot lambs from farms in the vicinity. The expanding trade and popular demand for lamb in Ottawa and Toronto are receiving an important boost from the project which has been established at Montreal and other cities, provided a source of good feeder-lambs is established. Eastern farmers who are able to produce plenty of the right kind of feed and are strategically located can easily capitalize on the results which have been obtained by Ontario feeders last year and again this year. From a beginning of about 3,000 head in 1934, the Dominion Lamb Feeding project has now grown to approximately 7,000 head in 1935. With new feeders to be able to cater to Montreal and to market further eastward, the project might be profitably extended to include 10,000 lambs in 1936.

Graustark

By George Barr McCutcheon

Cautiously they approached the castle and found themselves on the heels of the plotters. They came suddenly on one of the conspirators who was administering chloroform to a castle guard, whom he had apparently knocked senseless. Lorry swung his cane and the plotter fell. In turn Anguish and Glen-fall chloroformed him and crept along the castle wall.

Ahead, they could see four men moving stealthily. One stopped beneath a window and the others entered the castle. Lorry swiftly but silently followed them, knowing that they were headed for the princess' room, and then lost sight of them in the dim halls.

Pushing forward, nevertheless, he found, as he climbed a stairway, that somehow he was ahead of them. He had no means of knowing which door to hear a woman's sleepy voice say: "Who is it?"

Lorry cautioned the woman to be still and told her of the plot.

"Where is the room of the Princess?" he demanded.

"You are now in the room of the Princess," she answered.

"Are you the Princess?" he asked, astonished.

"I am," she said.

In a moment she had lighted a candle—and there stood "Miss Gungensloeker."

The alarm was given and the conspirators were killed or captured by castle guards, but in the fray, one of the guards mistook Lorry for one of the plotters and felled him with a blow of a rifle.

Bull Moose Startles Old Loyalist Town

Early rising inhabitants of the historic town of Shelburne, on the south shore of Nova Scotia, rubbed their eyes one morning recently to make sure they were seeing things aright and they had not stepped back into the pioneer days of the town, when a big bull moose sauntered down the main street and stopped at intervals to browse. This might have been a common occurrence back in the days when the town was founded in 1785 under the name of the "New Jerusalem" or even when the Loyalists arrived 10,000 strong from New York in 1783 following the American Revolution, the town being renamed Shelburne in honor of the then Secretary of State of the Home Government, Lord Shelburne, but the last time it happened was in 1911 when some of the residents had moose steaks out of season. The latest moose visitor, however, managed to get away without making contributions to the bill of fare of the citizens. The town boasts a hand-operated tire engine given to it by George III in 1787 and is visited by many tourists throughout the season, states the Tourist Department of the Canadian National Railways. Shelburne's bid to fame as a second "Newport" with the arrival of the elite of New York's society among the Loyalists was short-lived and many found their way back or settled elsewhere, there being nothing contingent to the town to support so large a population.

United States Sells Greater Portion Goods To Empire Countries

Just what British Empire markets mean to the United States is indicated in trade returns for 1934. Total exports from the United States to British Empire countries, ten, in that year amounted to $830,913,571, next in order of Empire countries, $766,995,540, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. In every case of Empire countries there was a marked increase as compared with the previous year. As regards other countries there was a decrease out of ten countries in two, France and Germany. The United Kingdom was the principal market both with respect to Empire countries and others with Canada a fairly close second. Next in order of Empire countries come South Africa, followed by Australia, British India, New Zealand, the Irish Free State, Jamaica, Bermuda, Trinidad and Tobago. Japan was the big market so far as other countries were concerned, followed by France, Germany, China, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium, Argentina, Brazil, Soviet Russia. As a comparison, the United Kingdom took goods to the value of $383,316,994, Canada $302,417,408. The nearest foreign country was Japan with $210,420,136, France $115,936,674, and Germany $108,814,547. In the matter of imports the United States took Empire goods to the value of $424,903,042, and from other countries $515,276,691. All of the British Empire countries increased their exports except South Africa. Canada is the largest source of supply for the United States, $231,689,607, an increase of 24.8 per cent over the previous year, followed by Japan $119,251,106, the United Kingdom $115,367,580, Brazil $91,484,306, Germany $68,805,488, France $61,037,255, Argentina $29,487,327.

Dressed Poultry Exports

With regard to the heavy exports of dressed poultry to Great Britain, it would appear that Canada is faced with a desirable opportunity of exporting more high-grade poultry than is being shipped at present. According to the Dominion Department of Agriculture Egg and Poultry Market Review, a rather unfortunate feature of the present export movement is the fact that shipments are made up largely of the lower grades. Unquestionably the export market will absorb a certain volume of low grade products but there probably is a limit to which a market can be developed unless a certain amount of the higher class grades is provided. Of the 23,491 boxes exported during January and February, about 94 per cent has been of Selected C quality and Selected Q quality. Selected C quality is the lowest commercial grade of poultry produced in Canada and Selected B is only one grade better. Neither of these grades of poultry is considered desirable. Judging from reports of British importers, Canadian exporters, if they intend to increase their poultry business in Great Britain, would be well advised to endeavour to export some of the highest grade product along with the grade B shipments.

BRITISHER MANAGES HIS FILL OF TOBACCO

Depressions may come and go but the Britisher seems somehow to be able to get his tobacco. Last year he consumed collectively 8,915,529 pounds more than the previous year, the total home consumption in the United Kingdom for 1934 being 198,905,190 pounds. Empire tobacco has gained a strong foothold in the British market with the fine-cured type predominating, tobacco from Empire sources increasing from 1 per cent to 20 per cent of the total consumption during the past fifteen years, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. Empire supplies are drawn in addition to Canada, chiefly from Southern Rhodesia, Nyasaland, British India. The United States, however, is the most important source of supply, contributing 189,275,377 lbs. out of the total of 239,259,226 lbs. imported during 1934. There is decided preference for the Canadian product among British types and there would seem to be a bright future for Canadian tobacco in the English market.

WINNIEP CLUB MARKS 26 YEARS

Winnipeg, April 27—The University Women's Club has a history of culture and study behind it stretching back 26 years to May 5, 1909, when the Winnipeg club came into existence. The new club will mark its 26th birthday shortly.

The club's first year, 1909-10, with Dr. Mary Crawford as president, had but 12 members; today there are, under Dr. Olive Cole, 220 women representing 35 universities—12 Canadian, 12 American, 10 English, two Scotch and one each of these—Irish, Welsh, New Zealand, Hungary and France. Statistics compiled for the 25th milestone showed that 628 women had belonged in those years, 396 of whom were still in Winnipeg; 183 took their first degree in Canada, 135 at the University of Manitoba; 34 held two degrees; seven held three and one four.

The proportion of married and single women is about half and half.

VESTMENT WORN 500 YEARS AGO

STOCKHOLM, April 26—Renovated for the occasion, a bishop's cope 500 years old will be worn by the officiating prelate in the celebrations in June of the 500th anniversary of the cathedral at Upsala.

Records show that Bishop Thomas of Strangnas wore the cope in 1435 at the consecration of the Upsala Cathedral. For that reason it is known nowadays as the Thomas' Cope.

This magnificent vestment is made of crimson velvet with gold and colored threads in pomegranate design. The embroidery is carried out in gold, silver and many-colored silks, the work of a Swedish workroom of the time.
