REPORT WINDS
Governor Spessard Holland at Tallahassee and municipal and county officials throughout the scattered Bahamas Islands. In an 8.45 p. m. warning—less than two hours after hurricane warnings were ordered for the lower east coast of Florida—the United States weather bureau extended the area threatened by the disturbance to include Lake Okechobee's south shore, where 1,500 persons were drowned in a 1928 blow that flooded the lowlands.
The Bahamas and Florida were warned well in advance and precautions were taken to ward off the worst of the storm's force.
Red Cross facilities were used to evacuate residents from the low-lying Florida Keys south of the mainland.
The storm reached peak winds exceeding 100 miles an hour, and blew steadily at 75 miles an hour over the tiny island capital of the Bahamas which the Duke and Duchess of Windsor left less than two weeks ago for a Canadian vacation.
No serious damage was reported immediately although outlying islands of the colony, some remote from communications facilities, had been heard from.
The narrow streets of the capital were strewn with debris. It was reported that public buildings had been boarded up securely well in advance.

shots, characteristic of a cannonade, were heard clearly by all the populace. Col. Frederick F. Christine, executive officer, said in shots for some time I climbed a hill of about 30 metres (about 200 feet) from where I saw a ship about 20 miles southeast but I was unable to identify her as a warship or armored vessel.
"Another ship was more distant and I was able to see only the column of her smoke," he said.
Accounts agree that the sounds like cannonading started at 4.45 p. m. (3.45 p. m. A.S.T.) About one report a minute for the succeeding half hour were noted.
Fisherman Bispo continued:—"When I reached the top of the hill the shooting ended. The nearest vessel was steaming southward and the other was visible only by her small column of smoke and I was unable to determine if this one was fleeing or had halted to attack."
"The shots were heard over a 30-minute period and shortly afterward the nearest ship disappeared over the horizon."
"It is not true, as reported, that lifeboats or wreckage were found on the beaches here or in the vicinity. The only thing seen was the (nearest) ship and it was following an unknown course."
Costa said that the ship which

Canadian Legion

President R. L. Mollison, of the Legion in company with other Legion officials visited the Montague Branch Thursday evening.

Previous to the visitation there was a meeting of the provincial executive when certain business was transacted in connection with Armistice Day and the sale of poppies. It was suggested that teachers of schools wishing to have members of the Legion speak in their schools should apply to the nearest Legion branch for speakers.

At a meeting of the Montague Branch following the executive meeting immediately, the President, Mr. Lester MacDonald, was in the chair. Brief addresses were made by President Mollison, Captain N. W. Lowther, Pensions Ad. vocate, Mr. James Robison, Welfare Officer, Mr. P. J. Hayes, and Mr. E. J. Walker, the latter stressing strongly the necessity of each branch on the island having a Ladies' Auxiliary. It was announced that the Reverend J. Max Allen of the Canadian Legion War Services will address a meeting in the Legion Home Monday night at eight o'clock. To this all who have worn or are wearing His Majesty's uniform are invited.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were kindly served to all present and all enjoyed a half hour's reminiscence of former days.

COADY-MACDONALD Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Joachim's Church, Vernon River, on Monday, August 25th, 1941, when Miss Alice Marguerite, daughter of Mr. Bernard Coady and the late Mrs. Coady, became the bride of John A. MacDonald, R. C. A. P., son of the late Mr. James MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonald of Glenfinnan, P.E.I.

Rev. Monsignor Maurice MacDonald celebrated the Nuptial Mass and performed the marriage ceremony. During the Mass beautiful hymns were rendered by the organist, Miss Mary Collins assisted by Mr. Alphonsus McInyre, cousin of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length dress of Virgin Blue Net with matching accessories and carried a white Prayer Book. She was attended by her sister, Mildred, who wore a floor length dress of Malze Net, with matching accessories and carried a Pearl Rosary.

Mr. Donald A. MacDonald, cousin of the groom, acted as groomsmen. Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party motored to the home of the bride, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served to the relatives and immediate friends. Among the guests was Rev. Louis Callaghan, cousin of the bride.

In the evening a reception was held at the home of the groom, where a large crowd gathered together to wish Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald many years of happy wedded life.

The wedded couple received many lovely and useful gifts, including money.

Pretty Military Wedding at Malpeque

A very pretty military wedding was solemnized in the Keir Memorial Presbyterian Church at Malpeque on Wednesday evening, October 1st, when Miss Frances Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bearisto of Malpeque became the bride of Mr. John Edward MacDonald of the P. E. I. Highlanders.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion in autumn leaves and cut flowers of every variety banded the front of the church and the altar and formed a pretty background. The bride entered the church and proceeded up the aisle on the arm of her father who joined the groom at the altar to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Ruth Montgomery. The bride looked charming becomingly dressed in dusty rose with hat and other matching accessories and carried a large corsage bouquet. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Verwoelf of Summerside, the young couple to her marriage previous to the signing of the register. Mrs. George Proffitt and Mr. Parmeaus Phillips sang as a duet Perfect Love. The church was crowded with friends.

At the close of the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride where a sumptuous wedding supper was served to the immediate friends of the bride and groom. Later in the evening a number of senedars arrived to tender their congratulations in their joyful manner. After a short furlough the groom returns to his military duty followed by the best wishes of a host of friends that this popular young couple may enjoy many years of happy wedded life.

The ushers were Pte. Roy Abbott and Pte. Charles Hickey of the P. E. I. Highlanders. A few evenings previous to her marriage a large number of the friends of the bride gathered at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bearisto to tender her a shower. The bride was escorted to a prettily decorated seat of honor in the drawing room by a miniature bride and groom in the person of Audrey Bearisto and David Chisholm to the strains of music. A large number of parcels were in evidence gifts from many friends of the bride were opened by Joseph Caseley and Eleanor Stewart and the accompanying verses were read by Mrs. Preston Green and Hazel Hoggood and Evelyn Birt and Hazel MacDonald arranged them on the table. Miss Bearisto graciously thanked all for their gifts in remembering her so kindly and all joined in singing, For She Is A Jolly Good Fellow. The gifts consisted of china, silver and glassware, linen and many other useful house-keeping necessities. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and social intercourse. A beautiful lunch was served by the ladies and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all. Miss Bearisto was a valued employee of the Malpeque Trading Co. and by her obliging and courteous personality made for herself a host of friends who all join in wishing her many years of wedded happiness.—V.

Interpreting The War

Bavin, takes the view that the army has got to be fully manned and fully equipped with reserves to meet any contingency that may arise. In the army has been called on any skilled men needed to man or to maintain aircraft or mechanized forces.

The serious situation is headed by Sir Walter Cilline, Privy Councillor and like Mr. Bavin a man whose career has been in the labor movement, where for years he has served as general secretary of the Trades Union Congress.

This school supports Sir Walter's contention that Britain does not need a big navy, big army and big air force, and that therefore she needs a very substantial air force and of course a predominant navy.

Mr. Cilline concludes, "can be secured only by rapid production at a minimum." He contends that the allies must out-produce the Axis because material, rather than soldiers, will determine the battle. Heinous that production is impeded by over-mobilization.

Mr. Churchill so far has backed the army, flatly dismissing suggestions that skilled workers be released from the army to go back into industry by telling Parliament Sept. 30 that he would not give his assent to any such suggestion.

A point of concern to United States production experts is the fact that the supply of British labor is short. These experts are said reliably to be impressed by the following observations during their investigation of the British industrial situation:—

1. British production has made great strides despite setbacks and handicaps.

2. Women are doing remarkable work in jobs held solely for men.

3. The black out and air raid threats make it difficult to fill night shifts in some localities, and very where they complicate production.

4. The government is not yet exercising its full powers to control industry, and industry is not yet making the fullest use of available machinery.

"The magazine 'The Economist,' in discussing the manpower problem, asserts that 'the demands for forces here are onerous not so much because their planned size is generally too large, but rather because they are not yet being made of industry's labor force.'"

WAR PRODUCTION

Kaiser lost in two years of the first great war.

Soviet war dispatches said the Russian line today were straighter and in stronger positions than at any time since the Germans invaded the country June 22.

Estimates of commissars indicate a widening gap in casualties and material losses in favor of the Russians as the war progresses—almost three to one in manpower and nearly two to one in planes.

Breakdown of Russian casualties by Shcherbakov was: 230,000 killed, 720,000 wounded and 178,000 missing. He estimated Nazi material losses at 11,000 tanks, 13,000 guns and 9,000 planes.

Tongues of fire light the battle-wounded fields in one sector of the Leningrad front where the Germans are burning their dead, said a Tass news agency dispatch.

In the Ukraine, where the Red counter-offensive appeared to be broadening its scope, two Hungarian companies were reported wiped out and another Rumanian unit was reported wiped out in the Red army rush which carried forward more than 20 miles.

(Authoritative British quarters, commenting on meagre information reaching them in London, said they believed the Russians had an excellent chance to deal a decisive blow in this most important theatre by cutting off the Germans in the marshy Perekop Isthmus which connects the Crimea with the mainland.

(Although the Germans may have forced their way to the southern extremity of the isthmus, the British sources said, the Russians have intensified their counter-offensive from north of the Sea of Azov. Terrain may play a determining part, these sources said.)

The Soviet communique said 90 dead and wounded German soldiers remained on the field after a battle in just one sector of this front.

Some British authorities say that British sea and air power in the Mediterranean has been during the last three months to a third of what they were in the preceding three months, British destruction of axis shipping had risen three-fold in the same period. And it was on Italian or Italian-used shipping in the Mediterranean that the axis tonnage losses fell most heavily.

Members of the crew said they left Hamilton in the morning on a routine exercise flight but had the wrong compass course. They encountered fog and heavy weather and became lost.

Police guarding the plane said it was doubtful if it could be flown away because of the lack of space for the takeoff of the seven-ton machine.

Members of the crew identified themselves as Pilot Sgt. Wood; cadet Strong, radio operator; Cadet Johnson, navigator, and Cadet Lester, navigator.

Stresses need Of teaching Fire prevention

October 5-11 is this year designated as Fire Prevention Week.

Fire Prevention Week is held always near the anniversary of the great Chicago Conflagration which was said to have originated when a cow owned by a Mrs. O'Leary coked over a lantern, setting fire to the barn and thus starting one of the greatest conflagrations known to mankind.

We have now been at war for something over two years and many lessons have been learned so far, and among these is the great danger of fire when a community is bombed. Each community should be well prepared to offset the additional hazards and it is a well known fact that normal fire-fighting facilities are totally inadequate to handle a fire situation arising out of open hostilities.

'Prince Edward Island in the past few years has been steadily improving its per capita fire loss with regard to the dollar value of the loss', Mr. C. A. Beer, Provincial Fire Marshal said. But it is yet far from reaching the point where the losses are such that it is unnecessary to carry on Fire Prevention Campaigns. Unfortunately, the public do not, as a whole, take this matter as seriously as it should be taken and this is proven by the fact that over eighty per cent of all fires losses each year are known to have been preventable. In plain English, this means that our people are careless enough to cause a tremendous fire wastage, and although publicity campaigns have been carried on each year for many years the resulting improvements would not appear to justify the amount of time and work spent on the carrying out of these campaigns.

It is believed that if sufficient thought was given to this subject the decision would be unanimous for including in the curriculum of our public schools the subject of Fire Prevention. It is believed that if this was done, in the course of a decade, the improvements would be amazing.

Queen's Canadian Fund DONATIONS

Repeated bombing raids on British port areas and the industrial midlands has attracted fresh attention to the rightful suffering of the many thousands of civilians in Great Britain who are harried from shelter to shelter and finally driven into the open country by successive raids. Eventually places are found for them all places of relative security, but their belongings of all kinds are destroyed. The task of emergency feeding alone is difficult. The task of setting them up once more with some quantity of clothing and bedding is much more difficult.

To meet these enormous needs, funds have been started in various parts of the world. Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth has permitted the use of her name in connection with would add immeasurably, however, to the strain on Italian war morale. Italy, freshly stunned by drastic new food and other rationing restrictions, has new cause to ponder. The results of axis victories as yet must be bitter in Italian mouths.

Nor can thoughtful Italians overlook the possibility of even more vengeful British action than the bombing of Rome promised by Mr. Churchill if and when Britain decides such action is necessary. Should British forces again sweep Libya clear to the African bridge-heads of the Straits of Sicily, the invasion spectre would haunt Italian dreams as terribly as it still haunts those of some in England.

Winter invasion of the continent from England is as much out of the question as a winter invasion of Britain.

Italy is another matter. The winter months in the central Mediterranean would be most suitable for either a new Libyan drive or an attempt to penetrate Sicily. If a British counter-invasion of the Hitler dominated European continent is actually ever attempted, Italy, the weak link in Hitler's axis armor, is a more likely objective than any west coast approach.

Canadian Red Cross relief For Russia

The Canadian Red Cross is making arrangements to ship $100,000.00 worth of special medical supplies to the Russian Red Cross to meet an emergency need for this type of assistance. Dr. F. W. Routley, National Commissioner of the Society announced today these supplies will include one million doses of sulphathiazole, which is specially valuable in treatment of infections resulting from wounds, one hundred thousand doses of anti-tetanus serum which is of inestimable value in this present form of warfare, and also a quantity of special anaesthetics, it was reported.

Dr. Routley stated that these special medical supplies which are being sent are particularly valuable in Russia because of the difficulty of procuring them there at the present time, and because of their great importance in the treatment of the wounded.

"We are assured," said Dr. Routley, "that these goods can now be sent forward to Russia quickly."

Cabled information from England today advises that the Canadian Red Cross is also shipping from its Overseas Warehouse a quantity of medical supplies as well as the following articles: 40,000 pairs of socks, 10,000 caps and neckties, 6,000 sweaters, 20,000 scarves and 30,000 mitts,—all to the value of $65,000.00.
