WAR ON SKUNKS — Farmers are cleaning up on the skunks according to the number of snouts being turned in at the receiving station in Charlottetown. Within the past two weeks close to 1,000 of these unpopular animals were killed in various sections of the country. The recent increase in the bounty, which was put into effect by the Provincial Government, has proven to be a great stimulus towards ridding the province of the skunks which wreak such havoc among the ducks, Hungarian partridge, and poultry. Last week 482 snouts were turned in and the week before 400. As many as 82 were taken in during one day this week.
