Fine Facilities for 1928 Olympics

Grandstand at Great Stadium Will Accommodate 40,000 Spectators

AMSTERDAM, March 3.—The following description of the scenes and equipment for the 1928 Olympic games, to be held here is furnished by the Dutch Olympic committee:

The grounds, where in 1928 the Olympic Games will be held cover an area of 40 acres (including grounds for training and motorcar-parking 128 acres) and is situated in the Southern part of central Amsterdam.

Besides the Main Stadium there will be a swimming stadium, a pavilion for fencing and one for other indoor sports, a cricket ground and somewhere in a quiet corner a lawn tennis stadium (3 centre—and 10 other hard courts). The chief building, the grand stadium will accommodate 40,000 visitors. There are about 20,000 seats and half of them will be covered.

In the centre of the Stadium lies the football ground of international dimensions. Covered stands will be a cinder racing track (436 yards in length and nearly 9 yards across) similar to that in Colombes. Round the race course the cycling track will be constructed which will be the same width but will be 545 yards long.

The competitors will be seated near the finish and the Press will be excellently accommodated opposite the finish; 600 seats are reserved for press representatives.

The two covered stands are in the centre. One contains the Royal and other official boxes and under the other stand lies the Marathon Gate. There will also be a Marathon Tower (150 feet high) bearing on the top a large plate, from which a permanent smoke column will mount to the skies during the Games.

The rink from the Maritime city climaxed a splendid day of curling by defeating Toronto last night 14 to 10. Grand National At Aintree Soon

Greatest Sporting Race is as Popular as Ever.

LIVERPOOL, March 3.—Publication of the "weights" has quickened public interest in the Grand National steeplechase and the Lincolnshire, which are to be run near the end of next month. The great steeplechase will not seem quite the same this year, because of the death of Old Tay Bridge, veteran chaser, who has had a long and notable career in the National. He never won the race, but was second in 1925 and 1926, and had been allotted 70 weight for 175 pounds for this year's National. Jack Horner, winner of the race last year, is 10th in the table of weights with 162 pounds.

In the Lincolnshire, first of the spring flat race handicaps, King of Clubs, winner last year, is handicapped only 98 pounds, being about 40th in the table.

Entries for the Grand National, to be run over the famous Aintree course at Liverpool on Friday, March 25, four miles and 856 yards, number about 70, and there are about 60 entries for the Lincolnshire, a straight mile, run at Lincoln on the preceding Wednesday.

The Grand National is probably the greatest purely sporting event left in racing. Unlike the other outstanding races of the year, betting on the National is not large, for the very good reason that a four-mile course with numerous and dangerous jumps plays havoc with any field that starts. A good horse can fall as badly as a poor horse, while a poor horse is falling can bring down the horses behind him, be they the best of jumpers.

Luck Counts

Accordingly, while many horses are in the entry list with apparently not the remotest chance of winning, it does not follow that they cannot win. Jack Horner was little fancied at this time last year, but he won Double Chance in 1925 and Master Robert in 1924 were both practically "outsiders," but they both won. It is the element of luck and its truly sporting nature which make the race what it is, it cannot be a championship because it is a handicap, unlike the three-year-old Classics or the Ascot Gold Cup.

Another thing helping to make the race so popular, is the annual conflict between the best of the amateur riders and the professional horsemen. The Grand National is the supreme test of horsemanship, and not merely of race-riding. Amateur riders can and do hold their own over the Aintree course. The most successful riders have always been men who hunt, and so are accustomed to making quick decisions and often quick recoveries.

So that the real attractions of the Grand National are the facts that the honest, comparatively slow, but sure hunting steeplechasers are meeting the blood horses who have become steeplechasers; and that the riders are the best of the professionals and the best of the amateurs.

Lincolnshire

The Lincolnshire, first important race of the flat racing season, will be run two days before the National. Tolgus and Weissdorn, who latter a fast German horse who has been raced here for some time, have been coupled at the top of the table of weights with 126 pounds. Tolgus has won every one of his six starts, and Weissdorn in the short time he has raced in England has created a good impression. The distance is a straight mile.

LUMBERMEN BUSY—It is most surprising to notice the large quantities of lumber that is being hauled to the mill for scantling of all dimensions, the quality of some of this spruce and fir is excellent, showing that teams can drive anywhere through the woods and secure this lumber which had been left from year to year on account of deep snow. All this work would indicate that many buildings will be constructed this coming summer.

BAND BOYS CELEBRATE—The boys of the Summerside Brass Band held their regular annual banquet social and entertainment in St. Paul's hall on Tuesday evening and the popularity of the "Boys" could easily be judged by the large attendance, the hall being filled to capacity. The cake and baskets were ably auctioned off by Mr. J. Henry Gaudet and brought good prices. After this dancing was resumed until 11:15 p.m. when precisely the audience sang the National Anthem and the crowd departed for home. The musicians were Messrs Gaudet and Doucet, accompanists. The proceeds will be devoted to Material and further equipment for the Band. H.

American Flagship Adrift In Gale

(Canadian Press)

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—The winter quarter lightship stationed off Chicoteague Virginia, parted its anchor chain tonight and went adrift in a northwest gale, according to wireless advices received here by the Maritime Exchange, officials of the Exchange were unable to say whether the lightship is equipped with steam or other power, but they expressed the belief that the vessel carried a crew of about ten men. At 7 o'clock tonight the wind off the Belaire cape was blowing at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

Since the fall of light snow on Sunday, the roads are in better condition than last week, hauling and driving is being steadily kept up.

A Promising Local Industry

For many years the Guardian has been advocating the development of home industry along the lines of our main industry Agriculture. Chief of these is of course canning. There is a field and opportunity in Prince Edward Island for the development of the canned food products, such as probably no other province in Canada can surpass.

Prince Edward Island is an agricultural province par excellence, and its products reach the highest grade of almost any in the world. It is natural, therefore, that the development of industries should be based upon what may be termed the natural produce of the country.

The only satisfactory way of developing a large business on a sound basis, is to begin on a small foundation and to build up. It is better far, to have a one-horse show and make it pay, than to start with a full circus running at a loss. On this principle, several small industries in Prince Edward Island are gradually making progress, and probably one of the most notable is that of Fraser's Cannery, occupying the building formerly tenanted by the Central Creameries on Sunny-side. Messrs Fraser & Co., the proprietors commenced in a small way and have been gradually adding to their products as their facilities warranted, until today the products of Fraser & Co. are sold throughout the whole Maritimes, being popular with the retailers and consumers alike.

The latest addition to the products of this company is "Fraser's Home Style Pork and Beans," which are handled by nearly every grocery store on the Island, and are fast being taken up by the retail trade in the other two provinces.

The company, in addition to covering the Island, have two travellers wholly engaged in their interest in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

"Fraser's Home Style Beans" as made in the homes of the Prince Edward Island, contain Island picked beans, Island pork, Barbadoes extra-fancy molasses, Antigua pure spices and Malagash refined salt. The tins and cases are supplied by the Island Canneries and the trade for export etc., is handled by local wholesalers. The same company has for a number of years been famous for its "canned Island boneless chicken," "leg and breast," "Island lobsters," "Island clams," "Island cooked dinners," "Island blueberries," "Island chicken soup," and "Island strawberry jam." The firm has just concluded arrangements for packing this year, in addition to the lines already mentioned, "Island canned beans," "Island wax beans" and "Island apples." It will be readily seen and appreciated that the development of an important home industry such as this, providing an output for the surplus-stocks of the farms and the gardens of the province, will mean a considerable addition to our profitable assets, besides affording a splendid advertisement for the high class produce of the province.

Matheson Case Still Unsolved

BOSTON, Mass., March 3.—Present indications are that the Matheson case is likely to be entered on the long list of unsolved crimes. Recently Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson released five headquarters detectives from the case, leaving the solution of the slaying entirely in the hands of the police of Station 17, who have the assistance of only two young headquarters plain clothes men.

The men recalled and ordered to their original Police Headquarters assignments are Inspector James Claffin, head of the Roxbury Gallery; Inspector Harry Pierce of the homicide squad and inspectors Joseph Cavagnaro, John D. Holmes and Cornelius Leary, all of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation. Detectives William J. Harrow and James Driscoll have been left on the case to work with H. the West Roxbury police.

DOOR TO ANGLICAN PRIESTHOOD OPENED

LONDON, March 3.—Rev. Arthur F. Wainington-Ingram, Bishop of London, has approved a scheme for training business and professional men for ordination. (Fifth-United congregation of which Mr. Grant is the esteemed pastor. Funeral was held on Friday, Feb. 25th at 11 a.m. at South Side, Boulardarie, C. B. Interment at Big Bras D'or cemetery. The late Mr. Grant was seventy years of age, and is survived by his widow, two daughters and three sons.)

The scheme renders it possible for men educated in well known schools, while still pursuing their business or professional career, to prepare through evening classes for ordination examination. Already many applicants have come forward.

The scheme will be watched with great interest throughout the Anglican communion. Many English bishops, while disturbed by the lack of candidates for ordination, maintain that the worst way possible to remedy the defect is to lower the standard of intellectual and general educational requirements.
