MAY

The buds are bursting into leaf, And birds are singing sweet and gay; My heart is light with nere a grief, This merry, merry month of May.

The balmy breeze sweeps o'er the plain, Perfumed by the first fair flowers, While whispering forests round me say, "Come seek the cool green bowers."

Clear winding streams dance on their way, Inviting me to seek once more, The places, where I oft did play, With comrades in the days of yore.

The lark's sweet music fills my heart, With thoughts of one who's far away; All nature doth to me impart, Sweet memories of the month of May.

SUMMER SANTA CLAUSE—J. D. O'Connell, Canadian philanthropist, is "amigo mio" to the dark-faced little children down in Cuba today—just as every summer he is the friend of hundreds of Toronto children who romp at his picnic parties and scramble for the coppers in High Park. The wealthy philanthropist, who gave the city $10,000 "to perpetuate his orphan picnics," has become as much an institution to the people of the Cuban cane fields as he is to Canadian cities. But at Camaguey and the small towns near his vast sugar plantation he's as much concerned with feeding men and women as children. "I am feeding 4,000 persons in this city of 70,000 and those of three other smaller towns nearby," he wrote The Globe. "I started at Christmas giving cooked food to 800 hungry children, but times are getting worse and I have five times that many. It will be 5,000 before the end of June." Recently the City Council of Camaguey appointed him as a native son—an honor accorded to only one other foreigner, Sir William Van Horne, who built the Cuban railroad. The sugar situation is the cause of the present depression in Cuba. The island depends essentially for its wealth on the sugar crops. The greater part of the population is engaged in the cane fields. Mr. O'Connell's outlook for the situation is not bright, and he fears that the worst is to come—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB—The final meeting of the season for the Y's Men's Club was held last evening, attended by thirty couples, Y's Men and Y's Menettes. President J. M. McFadyen presided. Following dinner a very enjoyable programme was presented. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Roy Cudmore Mrs. Arthur Roper, and Mrs. N. D. McLean, and a harmonica and piano duet was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Alton Burke. Plans were made for the Y's Men's picnic to be held early in July. Mr. Harry Cudmore was appointed chairman of the picnic committee. A letter was read by the secretary from Mr. Harry Grimes, International Secretary, stating that the Charlottetown Y's Men's Club had brought in more new members this year than had any other club during the season.

"Old Kate," Dead

(British United Press)

LONDON, May 28—Kathleen McNeil, known merely as "old Kate" to racing enthusiasts, is dead at the age of 88. "For nearly three-quarters of a century she sold race cards at the tracks and was a familiar figure to tens of thousands. King George and Queen Mary both knew "old Kate" and frequently had stopped to chat with her. She was a well known at the races as Lord Londsdale or Steve Donoghue, the jockey. It was her boast that she had witnessed 61 derbys. The King bought his race card from her on Derby day, as did the Royal Princes, most Ambassadors and many Earls and Lords.

"Old Kate," wearing her shawl and her best, though thread-worn dress, sat in the front row among the splendidly dressed foreign Ambassadors during the thanksgiving service at Westminster Abbey for the recovery of King George from his serious illness. She was seen by Queen Mary, who drew the King's attention to her. Both bowed to her and smiled.

CANADA'S WATER POWER RE- SOURCES

Canada's water power resources constitute one of her most valuable natural assets because their extent and distribution in relation to the chief centres of population and in- dustry brings about their orderly and progressive utilization. As this steady progress makes a regular stock-tak- ing of development a matter of some interest, the Dominion Water Power and Hydrometric Bureau of the De- partment of the Interior issues annu- ally a review covering available and developed water power resources of the Dominion.
