LONDON, May 26.—A deputation of English and overseas newspaper interests waited on Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Colonial Secretary today, to urge upon him the necessity for cheaper news communication facilities throughout the Empire. The gathering took place at Mr. Churchill's request and was considered as private for the time being. It is, however, permissible to say that Mr. Churchill's remarks which did not enter into details were entirely sympathetic and evoked cordial expressions of appreciation from the members of the deputation.

Unsinkable Airplane For Continental Flight

LONDON, May 26.—One of the latest ideas for the continental air service is an unsinkable airplane. It is being constructed by the Stagg Lane Aerodrome Company of Edgeware. The buoyancy is obtained by an inflated air balloon fitted into the rear end of the fuselage near the tail. It is figured that this will keep the machine well above water level in the event of an accident. In the roof is fitted a sliding mica emergency door through which travellers would be able to escape. In the new machine the pilot sits behind the passengers in about the same location as on the bridge of an ocean liner. The Air Ministry is said to be greatly impressed with its possibilities, because one of its other qualifications is to reduce the cost of operation. The innovations do not interfere with the speed of the machine, for it will make 120 miles an hour. Since the greatest fear of the Channel passengers is a ducking, the new type of airplane is expected to make a great appeal to tourists who like to travel in the air.

Ancient Art Rediscovered

NEW YORK, May 26.—It is learned today from members of the faculty of the College of Physicians and Surgeons here that Professor Giuseppe Paravincini, histologist of the Institute of Milan, while engaged in purely scientific experiments, has discovered a method of embalming which surpasses the secret lost art of the Egyptians. The Italian scientist has visited New York and has presented some of his findings to the college here, which is a department of Columbia University.

Only a short time ago Professor Paravincini consented to embalm the body of Cardinal Ferrari, who was one of the foremost and most popular prelates of the Roman Catholic Church in Italy. It is believed that the body of the prelate will remain in a state of perfect preservation for thousands of years. The new process preserves the natural color and color.

Professor Paravincini's process, which he explained on his visit to New York, consists simply of an injection into the veins and arteries of a fluid which enters the capillaries and is absorbed through them into all of the cells, completely arresting the natural processes of disintegration. By the preservation intact of nerve cells and tissue for microscopic study and analysis, and for dissection, histologists and surgeons will have opportunity to make investigations under more favorable circumstances than they have ever had before.

To test the possibilities in this direction, Dr. Chavigny, of the Medical Centre of the French Red Cross, recently visited Turin to perform an autopsy on the body of a patient who had died in 1910 and which had been preserved by Paravincini. Dr. Chavigny reported that although ten years had passed, he was able to arrive from his autopsy at a complete diagnosis of the case and the cause of the death. The viscera, he stated, were in exactly the same condition as the day after death.

Legendary Gold To Pay Off Allies

BERLIN, May 26.—The simple people of Masurin, East Prussia, have heard so much about the billions of gold marks that the allies demand that their heads are turned and they are convinced that they are going to pay all of this huge sum out of a city which the devil turned into gold 2,000 years ago. This city, named Muschaken, was put under a curse of gold by His Santanic Majesty, according to local legend, and on top of it the devil piled three mountains all because its inhabitants were too greedy for gold. Today, carrying out the curse, the King still sits on a golden throne, the people all live in gold houses—everything is gold. The people of Masurin are absolutely sure that there is enough gold in the buried city to pay the demands, even of the allies. An old half-blind wood-cutter started this gold madness in Masurin by importing the inhabitants of the neighboring towns of Jablinkau and Meldeburg assemble at a mountain near Masurin and exercise the devil so that the city of gold would be revealed.

The woodcutter begs everybody in Germany to offer up prayers with him so that enough gold may be procured to pay the reparations. The mountain near Masurin is crowded with people offering supplications and the nearest hotels are filled with guests. No one is permitted to express a doubt that the prayers will be answered and the treasure revealed; a policeman who tried to interfere was soundly beaten.

Several people have gone mad, and the belief is that every one who years for the gold simply from personal greed will go crazy. The last time this legend was put in circulation was in the year 1811, when Germany was impoverished because of the Napoleonic wars.

Old Legend Has Variation

The legend, folklore, story, or whatever it is, has a variation in Grimm's fairy tale, "Mountain Sesima." There are a rich brother and a poor one. The poor one discovers twelve fierce looking men in the wood. They stand before a barren mountain which he has never seen before and says: "Mountain Sesima, open thyself!" The mountain parts asunder and the thieves enter, return with bags full of gold and jewels, and order the mountain to close behind them. The poor man repeats the trick and visits the mountain three times. His brother discovers the reason of his sudden prosperity, but when the rich one visits the treasure house he is so dazzled by its riches, so greedy, that he forgets the magic words. The mountain remains closed, the

"HALF-DRESSED DOLLS"

Missionary Condemns Powdered and Painted Girls

LONDON, Ont., May 26.—"The frivolous, powdered, painted, half-dressed dolls" to be found in large numbers on the city streets in Canada, came in for denunciation by Mrs. Dr. D. R. McKenzie, of Japan, at a missionary mass meeting tonight in Askin street Methodist church. It was foolish, she pointed out to Japan when women there would be arrested if they appeared on the streets garbed as women and girls do in this country. "Away with these devilish will-o'-the-wisps," she concluded.

New Ice Cream And Butter Plant For Charlottetown

The General Creameries, Limited has begun operations in the city and for the past three weeks, since the installation of the extensive equipment and machinery needed in the business, the plant has been working steadily. It is turning out its own special "Perfection Brand" of high quality ice cream and butter, the daily capacity output being 500 gallons of ice cream and 1,000 pounds of butter. The plant is situated in the building formerly used by Mr. J. D. Jenkins, on Grafton Street, next to Mr. Foster's Drug Store. The company was organized last December with a capital stock of $24,000. Mr. G. B. Pippy of Truro is president of the Company and Mr. J. P. Simmons, formerly manager of the Farmer's Cooperative Creamery Moncton is the capable manager. The Guardian reporter was shown through by Mr. Simmons yesterday and had explained to him the various and complicated appliances for the handling of their products. The attention given to cleansing and sterilizing of their cream containers was a feature particularly noticeable. A special wash room containing a sterilizing tank has been installed, and the equipment is considered one of the most important parts of production. In the "make-room" is installed most of the machinery of the plant including the cream pasteurizer, the combined churn and worker, the brine ice-cream freezer and the mixer—which is a special tank with enamelled lining to insure absolute sanitation. An expensive Toledo No-spring special scale for weighing of the raw products is part of the equipment, and is the only one of its kind on the island. It is accurate to a hair's breadth and insures honest registration of weight. In the storage room are kept the large ice tanks in which the ice cream is hardened. Among other machinery here is a nee crusher—very much like a miniature stone crusher, which crumples up a big block of ice in a few seconds. The block ice cream in which the company will specialize is deposited in this room for hardening after it leaves the brine freezer. A point upon which the new company pride themselves is the quality of their product. The cream used is procured from the very best sources of supply, and comes

$1,500,000,000 is Estimated Cost of Deepening River

TORONTO, May 26.—In an elaborate report, made to the International Joint Commission, on the deepening of the St. Lawrence for ocean-going vessels and the development of the power possibilities, the engineering firm of Hugh Cooper & Co., of New York, propose to finance, on behalf of private capitalists, 1,000,000 horse power, and to construct a 30-foot navigation channel. The cost of the canalization is not more than $30,000,000 each to the Governments of Canada and the United States. The power will cost consumers, exclusive of state and federal taxes, about $17 per horse power. The ultimate electrical energy that can be produced, is stated to be 66,250,000 horse power. This would replace 66,250,000 tons of coal annually, and by the improvement of the canal system, the present 64 miles of canal and 21 locks can be replaced by 3 1/2 miles of canal and six locks. The cost of this improvement in navigation and the power development is estimated at $1,500,000,000. The report states that this cost is four times that of building the Panama canal and involves far more difficult engineering. It is also pointed out that the Great Lakes Tidewater Association of the United States and the Canadian associations, representing more than 50,000,000 people in the two countries, illustrate the great interest of the general public in this movement.

Sinn Feiners Burn Dublin Custom House

DUBLIN, May 26.—The Dublin Customs House is in ruins and most important documents of the Government relating to Ireland, together with papers and records, the value of which cannot be estimated, have been destroyed. This Dublin castle officially announces is the work of Sinn Fein forces which at an early hour yesterday afternoon made a most formidable attack against the Government property that had been engineered since the present rebellion began. The employees of various departments housed in the building were made prisoner and vast quantities of petrol were poured over the interior of building and a light was applied. Soon military lorries crowded with soldiers appeared and a pitched battle ensued. Sinn Feiners occupied the Customs House and crowding the windows met the soldiers with heavy fire. Machine guns and rifles responded and a strong cordon was thrown around the building. When the flames became too hot the raiders attempted to make their escape through the various doors but several were shot down and killed and many were wounded. According to an official statement seven civilians were killed, eleven were wounded, and one hundred and eleven captured. Four of the auxiliary forces were wounded.
