Side Citizen Stitches Juvenile Entering Cars

Prompt action taken by a Summerside citizen last night may have solved the mystery of a recent series of thefts from automobiles that have been bothering the police lately.

While on the way home from the show with his young son this man heard the noise of breaking glass from the vicinity of an automobile parked along the side of the Capitol Theatre. Acting quickly he started towards the crash and saw a youngster run from the spot. Taking after him he chased him for over a block before he succeeded in nabbing him and slightly winded from the unusual exertion he landed him at the police station a few minutes later.

Questioned by police the boy, who said he was 10 years old, told of how in company with two other boys he had stolen flashlights and other articles from parked cars on a number of occasions. This time finding the doors locked they decided to break the window.—S.

A Dream Realized

The following article appeared in the Springfield Sunday Union and Republican, Springfield, Mass. on November 11th and was written by Mrs. Ernest Mason Springfield who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jeffrey, Linkletter Road. The sister she speaks of as a nurse in Italy is Lieut. Kathleen Jeffrey of the U.S. Army Nurse Corps who recently arrived back from overseas and is expectel to visit her parents in Linkletter in the near future. The other sisers are Mrs. H. W. Peterson, Anne and Effie.

"Some Day I'll Fly"

—This might be called a "Once upon a time story," for it goes back into the days of our childhood before World War 1. And yet it is linked so closely with the happenings of this very hour. Five sisters were playing together on a lovely eastern Canadian farm, a farm that might be called "A park on the seashore." Five sisters may seem a great many in this modern streamlined age, but out of a family of 12, they were the minority. Their ages ranged from 4 to 12 years. The game in progress on this lovely summer day was "playing house," the house being two large quilts borrowed from their respective beds when Mother wasn't looking. And since there were five young ladies there was always a child apiece and one over for the two oldest, who presumed to be mothers.

Suddenly the second oldest, the most precocious and impetuous of the group, announced, "I'm going to fly." She jumped up to her feet and walked quickly toward the big barn and wagon shed, the others placidly and dubiously following.

The wagon-shed attached to the big barn was a building with a low slanting oof, and from this roof extended the regular flat top roof used in building wagon sheds, and where the piggy was kept in summer and the jaunting sleigh in winter, and any additional piece of farm machinery to protect it from the elements. At the foot of this shed one always found a large pool of amber fluid, and we're sure the modern farmer would ejaculate, "Poor Drainage."

They watched with open mouth the nine-year-old sister mount the low building by means of a ladder. Standing on the gently sloping roof she started to "take off." Arms flaying the air, she ran across the flat top, but alas, instead of soaring into the blue she landed into that amber pool. Dripping and furious she jumped to her feet, her black eyes snapping, and screamed, "You wait and see, some day I'll fly," and as her sisters all looked toward the house on the hill with the lovely summer blue sky overhead she went on, "You'll see me up there some day."

Years went by and World I found her training for a nurse in a Massachusetts hospital. World War II found her under blue Italian skies with the glorious privelege of nursing our wounded boys. One day a letter came saying, "Yesterday we flew from Tunisia to Corsica."

And only yesterday another letter, "We are waiting at Naples for a plane or boat to take us back home. Yes, she made good that threat "Some day I'll Fly" God Bless her.—S.

Mr and Mrs. Hedley Paynter are being welcomed to Keisington where they plan to spend the winter months with their daughter Mrs. James MacKenzie and Mr. MacKenzie.

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. Benjamin Champion, formerly Helen Naomi Larkin, took place in the Presbyterian Church, Kensington, on Thursday, November 15th at 2.30 P.M. The service which was beautiful was conducted by Rev. J. A. MacGowan, assisted by Rev. L. M. Murray and Rev. Chas. Carnegy, Summerside. The beautiful hymns "Asleep in Jesus" and "Abide With Me" were sweetly rendered by the choir. A solo "Face to Face" was sung by Mn Lyndall Semple and a quartette consisting of Mrs. Geo. Ramsay, Mrs. James MacAdam, Mr. Lyndall Semple and Mr. Parmeas Phillips sang "Above the Bright Blue." The floral pieces were numerous and beautiful and ascribed to the popularity of "Helen" as she was so well known and loved in our midst. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Charles Adams, F. M. Dawson, Ross MacEwen, Ferno Rogers, Arthur Allen, and J. MacInnis.

The maiy friends of Mrs. Herbert Reid will regret to learn that she is confined to the home of her neice, Mrs. John Currie through illness. —C.

B-P. SAID IT:

"The Patrol System I look upon as practically the outstanding means for giving practical training to the individual boy in leadership, responsibility, self-discipline sense of duty, and team work. It is through competition between Patrols that we are able to raise the standard of the whole troop in efficiency."

THE PURPOSE OF THIS COLUMN

It would seem that this column has lately deteriorated to a medium through which Scouters are able to express their own views on matters pertaining to general and particular items of Scouting. This is not as it should be, for in the beginning, the column was meant to bring to the Public, and especially to boy' members, Scouting News of an active nature. As it is now, it is nothing more than a gossip column for those who are not active enough in Scouting to have news concerning their own Troops to publish. Let us make this a column for Cubs and Scouts and not a plaything with which self-styled D,P.R,'s satisfy personal whims.

FIRST CHARLOTTETOWN (ST. DUNSTAN'S BASILICA) TROOP

Scouts Cyril MacDonald and Alan MacDonald former members of the First Charlottetown Troop who now reside in Souris, have recently formed a Lone Scout Patrol in that town. The First feels that this action on the MacDonald brothers' part reflects favorable upon the training they received while members of the Troop, and also wishes Alan and Cyril the best of Scouting with the Lonies in the future.

APPLE DAY

Prizes for the Best Scout Apple Day Salesman in the First Troop were awarded to Second Tommy Kays and Scout Bobby Power at the regular meeting of the First on November 16th. P.L.'s Maurice Decoste and Ed Mullins also received prizes for very good sales in the Business Section of the town and for helping greatly to make the Sale of the First the success that it was.

On the opening night of the Patrol Competition in the First Troop, the Foxes under P.L. Edward Mullins took the lead and were honored in having the Troop Flag presented to them to be displayed in their Patrol Corner until the next meeting. Competition was very keen, but the Foxes experienced no difficulty in gaining a stiff lead. It will be interesting to see the efforts of the Robins and Foxes in trying to cut down the difference in points which exists.

SEVENTH CHARLOTTETOWN (ST. PAUL'S) TROOP

Maybe this troop is not first by troop numbers, but are pretty near the top in other ways. Through good coverage and good salesmanship, the troop managed to make a fine showing on Apple Day. As far as can be learned, Orten Curtis for the Cub Pack and Wendall Barrett for the Scout Troop were top honors as salesmen.

A new and novel idea in the shape of a decorated stand uptown did much to boost sales. Fred Hine and Paul Cudmore are to be congratulated on disposing of seven hampers in the afternoon.

Last Friday night, at the regular meeting, S.M. Edgecombe told the fellows the results of Apple Day. After inspection and collection of dues, five candidates for the coming investiture this week passed their final tests and afterwards S. M. Anderson spoke to them and councelled them on the laws and promise, and cautioned the boys to take the matter in the right light and that soon they will be entering the great brotherhood of Scouting. After a period of games and instruction, the results of the patrol competition for the night were announced. Bulldogs, 1 point, Beavers, 4 points, Wolves, 7 points and Owls 2 points. The lowness of the points indicates that the working is strict and that when the whistle blows "freeze" the Scouts obey or points are taken off. Through all this, the troop still maintains a high standard but one hundred percent is the goal of both S.M.'s Edgecombe and Anderson.

SCOUT INVESTURE

On Nov. 1th, a very impressive Scout Investure Ceremony took place at the Third Charlottetown Troop's Headquarters when David Nicholson was invested as a Scout of that Troop.

Congratulations to you David on your admittance to the Great Brotherhod of Scouts.

FURTHER INFORMATION

More light was thrown on the Joint Scout-Guide program which we mentioned last week and we understand now that it is an experiment to be tried out in eight different locations in Canada (Charlottetown being one) where joint training programs and joint social affairs will be carried on by Rovers and Rangers (The Guides equivalent to Rovers).

DISTRICT SOFT-BALL AGAIN

Last week in this column under the heading "THE WINNAH" there appeared the statement that the Soft-Ball League had finally reached its conclusion and that the Third Troop "St. James" had been victorious over the Sixth "Holy Redeemer" and the Ninth "Salvation Army". This information implied that the games had really been played and that the Sixth and Ninth were defeated after putting up a grand struggle.... However, those "in the know" are aware of the fact that the games were not played; that the information in last week's column was very misleading; and that a very unfair method of deciding upon the outcome of the league was used by those who felt that they had the last say in this matter.

As stated, the final games were not played.... In fact, very little was done to acquaint Troops, teams and players that the games were even scheduled to be played.

In the first scheduled game in the finals, only three members of Redeemer Troop made an appearance and five of St. James. In some strange manner the game was given on a silver platter to St. James because they had the larger number of players present. The same thing happened in the case of Salvation Army vs. St. James.

It does not seem right that any Troop should forfeit a game unless the other Troop has at least enough members present to make up a team. Not knowing the rules of softball, but basing the above upon true Scouting principles and fair play, the writer feels that a more just method of making a decision upon the outcome of the finals should have been left up to the principals taking part.

In last week's column the author of the article "That Fed-up Feeling" makes the statement that some Leaders were using high-handed methods of running certain activities. It would seem that these methods have entered into our Softball League. Who is responsible????? It is worthy of note that the Salvation Army Team lost only one game in the preliminary schedule. Should they be ruled out by these methods?

TOY SHOP

Work is progressing slowly but surely at the Scouters' Toy Repair Shop.

If any Scouts have any toys they wish to send in as a donation or know of any citizens who would like to donate toys, would you please have them phone the Boy Scouts Hqrs., 2020, and the toys will be called for.

HEAD OF HILLSBORO W. I.

The annual meeting of the Head of Hillsboro Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs Harvey Douglas on the evening of November 7th, with an attendance of fifteen members and two visitors.

The meeting opened by singing the Institute Rally Song and Repeating the "Creed". The roll call was responded to by paying the membership fee. Minutes of last annual and previous meet were read and declared adopted.

An interesting review of the year's work was given by the president, Mrs. Ralph Coffin, who also expressed a wish that the same hearty co-operation be given her successors.

The financial statement was read by the secretary, Mrs. Louise Cameron. Receipts, $136.-18. Expenditure $36.66. Balance on hand $99.52.

Miss Etta Jardine, Red Cross Convenor, reported the following work was completed: 14 pairs socks, 18 pair gloves, 5 long sleeved turtle-neck sweaters, 3 pair pyjamas, 6 boys under vests.

The following officers were duly elected for the ensuing year:

Pres., Mrs Geddie Douglas.
Vice-Pres., Mrs. Ralph Coffin.
Sec'y-Treas., Mrs. Frank Jardine.
Organist, Mrs. Harvey Douglas, (re-elected.)

Directors and auditors were re-elected with vacancies filled. School Program and Condolence Committees appointed for the next quarter. A committee to pack Chrismas boxes for the soldiers overseas also appointed.

Mrs. Gordon Douglas invited the members to her home for the December meeting. The program consisted of two interesting contests. The lottery ticket was drawn by Miss Joan Douglas, the lucky winner of the Institute quilt was Mrs. Alonzo Birt. Twenty-six boxes of Christmas cards were sold by the secretary.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Harvey Douglas.

After extending votes of thanks to the hostess and the retiring officers, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

AUTUMN LEAVES

Some Autumn leaves you sent to me,
Leaves of bright and brilliant hue
Gathered neath a maple tree
Beside the River Montague.

Loudest memories they have brought
Of my wandering long ago.
Many changes times has wrought
In the haunts I used to know.

But the River flows the same,
Eggs and flows from day to day,
And the trees stand in the lane,
Neath their shade we oft did play.

Most all are gone those childrens gay—
To a better land I know,
Those remaining old and gray—
Dreaming by the fireside glow.

With cooling breath October comes—
In radiant colors paints the leaves
We hear no more the birds' sweet songs,
Nor the humming of the bees.

No artist tho clever he may be
With brush and colors right,
Can paint the leaves and shrubbery
Only God can please our sight.

Thanks dear child for sending me
Those Autumn leaves so bright.
Nothing could more precious be
Or touch the heart with more delight.
