THE KING'S CONDITION

(Special to The Guardian)

BOGNOR, Sussex, Feb. 28.—Notwithstanding the bad luck King George has experienced in the matter of weather since his arrival at Bognor, members of the royal suite emphasized the wonderful change for the better he has undergone since a month ago.

The official statement tonight said the King passed a good day. It was intensely cold again today, however, and the King's bedroom windows had to be kept closed; even brilliant sunshine was powerless to moderate the effect of a bitter east wind which at times was almost a gale. His Majesty sat up and read for some time.

It was learned today that the final New Year's honor list, the issue of which was postponed owing to the King's illness was submitted to His Majesty today and approved of by him. The list is to be published on March 1.

The Duke of Gloucester visited his father today and went for a drive with his mother before returning to London.

Medal Donated
By Ed. Hornby

Wednesday morning Principal Louis Wynne of Queen Square School received a handsome medal, by mail, from Mr. Edward Hornby, of the Bank of Commerce staff at Shelburne, N. S., for the recent Queen Square School sports.

Some time ago Mr. Hornby promised this medal and in his letter yesterday regretted the delay. However, a group meeting of the senior classes was held and the presentation made to the winner of this race, Regis Arsenault.

In his letter the donor stated he still takes a keen interest in the athletic activities of the school and heartily congratulated Mr. Arsenault on his success in not only winning this medal but also the all round trophy.

Mr. Hornby states he will each year donate a prize to the school sports; this act speaks louder than words the interest a former brilliant pupil and star athlete takes in his old school and his friendship for teachers and pupils.

While attending this school where he was the Governor General's medalist, this young man played defence on their hockey team and catcher on the baseball team and was as well holder of the interscholastic in the quarter mile and half mile bicycle race.

Rev. Mr Muir Speaks At Paardeberg Dinner

At the Paardeberg Banquet on Wednesday evening last, in the course of an excellent address Rev. W. Bruce Muir expressed the pleasure of all present at the convalescence of our King. His first official act since his illness was to convey a message of good cheer to the brave airmen who rescued the beleaguered white people from Kabul in Afghanistan. He felt quite sure Mr. Ronald Stewart, our Island airman, would have been glad to be with them on their errand of mercy.

The speaker went on to praise the climate and soil of Prince Edward Island. There was one drawback—we did not have sufficient immigrants coming to us. He hoped that in the years to come we would have coming to us splendid emigrants of the four great stocks mentioned by Mr. MacLure.

Mr. Muir next went on to touch on the beauties of the city of Charlottetown, saying that he did not believe there was any finer city to live in anywhere. He then recalled the circumstances of the declaration of war in South Africa. At that time he was an assistant minister in Glasgow. A great thrill, he said, went through the Scottish people when they heard that the Canadians were sending a contingent to the help of the Motherland.

In closing he called for a moment's silence in memory of those who had passed away.

Junior Members S.P.C.A. Will Meet Today

This afternoon at 3.30 the Junior members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will be entertained at the Strand Theatre. Two moving pictures appropriate to the children will be shown, after which the children will be addressed by several prominent speakers.

Mr. C. J. Gallagher has generously given free use of the Strand for the occasion. The admission fee will be five cents for children and ten cents for adults; children with membership buttons will be admitted free. It may also be mentioned that every child attending today may become a member of the Society and will be given a membership button.

and the Straits of Messina, Mt. Etna, the Lands of Calabria, through the Ionian sea, where they lost sight of land. Then Greece was sighted, and shortly after they arrived at Piræas, the seaport of the city of Athens. The Acropolis was visited, and the speaker described the beautiful marbles and sculptures seen there; also the Parthenon, that glorious temple to Minerva. Two hundred feet of the prize of the Parthenon, wonderful carvings by Rhidias were transported to the British Museum by Lord Elgin. Here on the Acropolis was the theatre where were performed the plays of Aristophanes and Sophocles and other great Greek writers. Then there was the Hill of Mars with the areopagus where St. Paul preached to the worshippers of Diana and Minerva. Dr. MacLellan here paid a tribute to the wondrous Greek culture which had been so powerful an influence on the civilization of the world.

Fairchild, model 71, with 450 horse power Wasp motors and carries six passengers, as well as the pilot. It's cruising speed is 120 miles an hour, but in flying over the testing course a few days ago Captain Saunders said that it had made 141 miles an hour.

In speaking of the trip up, Captain Saunders said that they had perfect flying weather. He remarked on the surprising number of places along the course from New York up where flying fields had been constructed and where a landing might easily have been made. Such a field, he said, is badly needed in this city, so a plane could make a landing without having to go six miles away.

"The new plane will be engaged on the P. E. I. and Magdalen Islands routes in addition to the Fairchild four cabin monoplane which has been carrying on the services since they were instituted this year. The service between here and Charlottetown has been cancelled since Sunday on account of the blowing out of a cylinder head while the machine was about to land at Cook's Brook Sunday afternoon. Complete parts are expected here today and repairs made so that the machine will be in commission again by Thursday to resume service."

ports stated, two Indians "found guilty" of bringing misfortune on the tribe had been lashed naked to stakes in below zero weather and water poured over their bodies until they turned into statues of ice. Police investigation was made at that time.

This year, however, Major Ritchie explained it was reported of the beaver being killed off that had determined the police to have a post at the old ford at the junction of the Liard and the Pettitot rivers. Fort Liard is 222 miles up the Liard from its mouth at Fort Simpson, and a Hudson Bay Company launch makes the trip each year from Simpson, on the Mackenzie River, to Fort Nelson, 372 miles up the Liard and the head of navigation. The detachment will go in with the launch some time in June.

Wong Chuen took the verdict without a blink and on leaving the docket was immediately surrounded by a dozen Chinese friends who engaged in animated conversation.

"What did Wong Chuen say?" somebody asked George Wong, interpreter, who had been brought all the way from Winnipeg to handle the case.

"He says he is velly sorry," said George, but whether it was for killing Lappin, or because he failed to get a verdict of acquittal that he was very sorry, the interpreter could not or would not say.

Wong held up well in court, but became violently ill with a bilious attack after being taken to the cell in the Court House basement, saying the worry and excitement had been too much for him.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT TOWN OF BORDEN

On Wednesday evening, about 6 p. m. a fire broke out in the rear part of the general store of Mr. M. M. MacDonald at Borden.

As the town was without fire fighting apparatus, the blaze spread rapidly and destroyed both the store and the Gerrard Hotel, which is joined to it.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It is understood to have broken out while the proprietor of the store was at supper. It gained such unexpected headway that the family living in the upper part of the building had just time to get out, saving only the clothing they wore.

Some of the furniture in the Hotel was saved, the railway officials kindly making two box cars available for its reception. The contents of the store were totally destroyed. Included in the loss was Mr. MacDonald's automobile.

The value of the store is placed at about $5,000.00, and the stock at the same figure. The Hotel was valued at about $10,000.00 and its furniture at from $6,000.00 to $7,000.00 the loss both on store and Hotel being only partly covered by insurance.

The Gerrard Hotel was owned by Mrs. J. M. Murray. It was built by the late Mr. Edward Crosby and conducted by him for a number of years and after his death, by his wife. It was well known to the travelling public both in Prince Edward Island and the mainland.

A portion of the "Gerrard" block was formerly used for a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Mr. William Luddington who conducts a barber shop nearby used a hose which was attached to a pump inside to keep the building wetted down; owing to calm weather his building was not in great danger.

Interesting Lecture

In the Epworth Hall, Summerside, on Tuesday evening, Rev. F. W. Desbarres, B.A. of Mount Allison University, gave an illustrated lecture on Oxford, to a large and appreciative audience. Rev. J. C. P. Fraser, M.A., very ably presided. This was the fifth lecture given under the auspices of the Summerside Chapter of the I. O. D. E. Rev. Mr. Desbarres in a quiet but convincing manner, described the different scenes as they were flashed on the screen. The lecturer, with his wife and family spent two years in Oxford and consequently spoke with first hand knowledge of the picture, which he obtained himself whilst there. Incidentally, a very charming view of the residence in Oxford at which they resided was shown with its old world evergreen creepers and climbing roses, the latter of which Rev. Mr. Desbarres stated he picked as late as Christmas day.

In splendid language and with a marvelously retentive memory the lecturer took his audience through the great University City and to most of the Colleges themselves. In doing so he made mention of many historic incidents and some of the legends connected with the various seats of learning. One of the pictures showed the famous Merton library, the oldest in the world and which was founded by the Monks in 1264. It was explained that in England when any book or publication is copyrighted besides the copy deposited in the Patent Office a copy must also be sent to the British Museum and to the celebrated Oxford Library.

Amongst the famous colleges shown were Brasenose, Magdeline, Balliol, Christ Church and St. John's.

The famous Iron Cross which marks the spot where so many were burned at the stake for their religion, among them Thomas Cranmer, once Archbishop of Canterbury, was shown the interior of some famous churches with beautiful statues and carvings which had fortunately escaped the ruthless hands of Cromwell's followers. Many other historical parts of Oxford were pictured and explained.

River scenes between Oxford and Kingston showed the charming scenery along the banks of the river Thames. Ipley Mills, a little way from Oxford, was especially interesting, the mill having been in operation for seven hundred years.

A striking view of Windsor Castle seen from the river and the state apartments at Windsor in colour were most interesting; also the interior of St. George's Chapel. A beautiful picture of St. Paul's Cathedral was also shown.

The wonderful scenes and historical buildings depicted and the explanation so charmingly told by Rev. Mr. Desbarres made a deep impression on the audience and gave them a better knowledge of the history of the famous city of Oxford.

A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Ven. Archdeacon White, who expressed in feeling terms the appreciation of the audience to Rev. Mr. Desbarres, seconded by Mr. Robert Gordon and supported on behalf of the I. O. D. E. by Miss Ethel Tanton. In acknowledging the vote of thanks Rev. Mr. Desbarres said it gave him great pleasure to be privileged to speak in Summerside; he also thanked Miss Holman and Miss Burroughs, who attended to the lantern for the evening.

The Holy Land

Leaving Damascus, the party went by train to the Lake of Libérias on the Sea of Galilee, fourteen miles long, and from six to eight wide. In coming to this, they entered the Holy Land, where lived on earth our Divine Master. Dr. MacLellan alluded to the many places where Christ had walked and taught His disciples—the mound where He preached the Sermon on the Mount, and Capernaum.

It is only with the deepest emotion that anyone can tread these Holy places, redolent of the memory of our Saviour. The days spent here, Dr. MacLellan said, he could never forget.

From Tiberias they went to Nazareth, also full of interest and memories for us, scene of the Annunciation by the Angel Gabriel to the Blessed Virgin, of the birth of our Lord. Here, too, He lived the first fifteen years of His life. The Fountain Mary flows there, where the women still fill their waterpots as they did of old.

Jerusalem

After Nazareth came Mount Tabor, traditional scene of the Transfiguration of our Lord, where there is an old Church dedicated to the Transfiguration. From this mountain there is a wonderful view of much of the Holy Land. Then came Mount Carmel, near the new port of Haifa. Then the party went on to Jerusalem, which they reached towards evening. They stopped at Mt. Scopus, an extension of the Mount of Olives, from which they viewed the Holy City before they entered it. There could be seen the dome of the Church of the

It was explained that in England when any book or publication is copyrighted besides the copy deposited in the Patent Office a copy must also be sent to the British Museum and to the celebrated Oxford Library.

Amongst the famous colleges shown were Brasenose, Magdeline, Balliol, Christ Church and St. John's.

The famous Iron Cross which marks the spot where so many were burned at the stake for their religion, among them Thomas Cranmer, once Archbishop of Canterbury, was shown the interior of some famous churches with beautiful statues and carvings which had fortunately escaped the ruthless hands of Cromwell's followers. Many other historical parts of Oxford were pictured and explained.

River scenes between Oxford and Kingston showed the charming scenery along the banks of the river Thames. Ipley Mills, a little way from Oxford, was especially interesting, the mill having been in operation for seven hundred years.

A striking view of Windsor Castle seen from the river and the state apartments at Windsor in colour were most interesting; also the interior of St. George's Chapel. A beautiful picture of St. Paul's Cathedral was also shown.

The wonderful scenes and historical buildings depicted and the explanation so charmingly told by Rev. Mr. Desbarres made a deep impression on the audience and gave them a better knowledge of the history of the famous city of Oxford.

A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Ven. Archdeacon White, who expressed in feeling terms the appreciation of the audience to Rev. Mr. Desbarres, seconded by Mr. Robert Gordon and supported on behalf of the I. O. D. E. by Miss Ethel Tanton. In acknowledging the vote of thanks Rev. Mr. Desbarres said it gave him great pleasure to be privileged to speak in Summerside; he also thanked Miss Holman and Miss Burroughs, who attended to the lantern for the evening.

The Holy Land

Leaving Damascus, the party went by train to the Lake of Libérias on the Sea of Galilee, fourteen miles long, and from six to eight wide. In coming to this, they entered the Holy Land, where lived on earth our Divine Master. Dr. MacLellan alluded to the many places where Christ had walked and taught His disciples—the mound where He preached the Sermon on the Mount, and Capernaum.

It is only with the deepest emotion that anyone can tread these Holy places, redolent of the memory of our Saviour. The days spent here, Dr. MacLellan said, he could never forget.

From Tiberias they went to Nazareth, also full of interest and memories for us, scene of the Annunciation by the Angel Gabriel to the Blessed Virgin, of the birth of our Lord. Here, too, He lived the first fifteen years of His life. The Fountain Mary flows there, where the women still fill their waterpots as they did of old.

Jerusalem

After Nazareth came Mount Tabor, traditional scene of the Transfiguration of our Lord, where there is an old Church dedicated to the Transfiguration. From this mountain there is a wonderful view of much of the Holy Land. Then came Mount Carmel, near the new port of Haifa. Then the party went on to Jerusalem, which they reached towards evening. They stopped at Mt. Scopus, an extension of the Mount of Olives, from which they viewed the Holy City before they entered it. There could be seen the dome of the Church of the parts stated, two Indians "found guilty" of bringing misfortune on the tribe had been lashed naked to stakes in below zero weather and water poured over their bodies until they turned into statues of ice. Police investigation was made at that time.

This year, however, Major Ritchie explained it was reported of the beaver being killed off that had determined the police to have a post at the old ford at the junction of the Liard and the Pettitot rivers. Fort Liard is 222 miles up the Liard from its mouth at Fort Simpson, and a Hudson Bay Company launch makes the trip each year from Simpson, on the Mackenzie River, to Fort Nelson, 372 miles up the Liard and the head of navigation. The detachment will go in with the launch some time in June.

Wong Chuen took the verdict without a blink and on leaving the docket was immediately surrounded by a dozen Chinese friends who engaged in animated conversation.

"What did Wong Chuen say?" somebody asked George Wong, interpreter, who had been brought all the way from Winnipeg to handle the case.

"He says he is velly sorry," said George, but whether it was for killing Lappin, or because he failed to get a verdict of acquittal that he was very sorry, the interpreter could not or would not say.

Wong held up well in court, but became violently ill with a bilious attack after being taken to the cell in the Court House basement, saying the worry and excitement had been too much for him.

Holy Sepulchre, and the dome once the Temple of Solomon. The sites of Calvary and the Our Lord now seem to be established beyond a reasonable doubt where tradition has placed Today, both Calvary and the are included under the roof of same church. It was Dr. MacLellan's privilege to say mass in the Our Lord. Services are said to the Americans, the Latins, the and the Copis. He was also leged to say mass on Mount Calvary. It is the spots that we come to get our religion. Here was greatest iedy enacted that world ever beheld, or ever shall its end. So also it is our privilege walk the Via Dolorosa, where Cavour bore His cross to Calvary. The party were in Jerusalem fifteen days. They entered Holy Thursday the Senacle scene of Epitaphos, now in the of the Moslem, who grudgingly to Christians the privilege of visit. There was, too, the walling to which the Jews make pilgrim the outer circle of their temple stones they come to kiss. They to the Garden of Gethsemane, two thousand years ago that Our Lord endured His agony.

Dr. MacLellan told of the v Bethlehem, the birth place of Lord. They went down from Jericho. But thanks to excellent good order prevailing British rule, they did not fall a thieves. They visited Jordan the Dead Sea. Then they took for Cairo with the words of Psalmist in their hearts, "If I thee, O Jerusalem, let my right forget her cunning."
