—TONS OF SALT HELPS PREVENT HOT WATER ILLS

The Health League of Canada directs attention to an article in the current issue of the "Public Health" magazine which states that in order to protect the health of war workers and to aid them in combating the ill effects of summer heat, the practice is being urged of equipping munitions plants with salt tablets in handy dispensers near every drinking fountain. The importance of salt in the diet is well known. Heat and possible prostration cannot be over-estimated. The article states, and most of the effects of heat are in fact caused by the loss of salt from the body through sweating. Even the condition commonly referred to as "water bug" is caused not so much by the over-consumption of water, as is generally thought, but rather by the serious depletion of chlorides in the body.

While office workers can make up their depletion of chlorides with the salt normally consumed at meal time, workers in factories need extra amounts of this necessary mineral at frequent intervals during working hours.

These little salt tablets are easily washed down with a mouthful of water and their location near drinking fountains serves as a reminder to take salt. There are approximately 5,000 of these dispensers in use throughout Canadian factories and it is estimated that an additional 1,000 will be installed this year for the relief of workers in our new war industries. Each dispenser holds 100 tablets which will be consumed in the next few months in the fight against summer heat that are measured in tons.

WARTIME BRIDE'S GOWN VARIABLE

Girls all over the country are suddenly deciding to marry and they are not wasting much time, or thought, on what they are going to wear. A bride's dress will do, but in fact, than traditional bridal array.

It all depends on the circumstances, whether the bride wishes to wear a dress of preference, especially since it's summer, and as like as not, the ceremony will take place in the garden or in one's home, or neighborhood.

The bridegroom, being in uniform, doesn't need to worry about his ensemble so the bride takes her cue from the groom, dons her wedding dress and calls it her wedding day. She wears a long or a short skirt, a hat, or a tiny flower arrangement in her hair and she's all set, which simplifies everything. It therefore behooves every engaged girl to have in her wardrobe a frock that may be the thing to wear when a whirlwind wedding is indicated.

No point in an elaborate hope chest—the bride must travel light. Under existing circumstances, assuming that she is marrying into the service, she should buy only what she needs and buy with a view to the future toward fresh she is looking, as well as for new.

—CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

—Lively with laughs, thrills and action, Paramount's exciting romantic comedy of murder, mayhem and mystery, "Fly By Night," was enthusiastically received last night at the Capitol Theatre, Summerside.

Starring Richard Carlson and pretty Nancy Kelly, the picture's plot revolves around the adventures of a young doctor and a girl innocently entangled in a spy plot. One of the gang's victims is slain in Carlson's room. Falsely accused of murder, he evades the police by breaking into Miss Kelly's apartment and literally kidnapping her. The film hits a fast and funny pace as the stars race from one hilarious and hair-raising experience to another in their quest for the real killers.

"Fly By Night," is a merry blend of murder, mystery, romance and fun. Carlson does a magnificent job with his role. Known as a capable romantic actor, he reveals himself in this lively film to be just as capable a comedian. Miss Kelly is exciting as well as gorgeous and is a credit to her more than her share of laughs.

In the able supporting cast the work of the famous Continental character actor, Albert Basserman, is outstanding. Martin Kosleck, Nestor Paiva, Edward Gargan, Michael Morris and Miles Mander contribute mightily to the picture's general excellence. In short, "Fly By Night" is fast, furious and funny. It's well worth a visit.

Contract For Ship Repairing Wharf

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 31—(CP)—Contract for constructing a $300,000 ship repairing wharf here has been awarded by the Federal Department of Public Works to Ashlee Coiter, Ltd., Fredericton, it was learned tonight.

FIXING UP PORCH IS LOTS OF FUN

Fixing up the porch is no end of a job. Even if you have a standing threateningly in your foreground, there are ways and means of getting around them.

Paint pot and flower pot will be your best friends. You can use any most anything you have on hand for furniture, or garrets that will have much charm on the farmhouse porch. Go over the furniture carefully for stray nails, and paper rough spots that might catch one's clothing. Give everything at least two coats of paint, either all to match or using two colors. Do the painting in a workable place, and let it dry thoroughly between coats. Preferably use an enamel, as too often, even first-class paint will get sticky in damp weather.

Cover every spare cushion you can summon for porch duty. Small cushions served together, or pillows stitched across in sections, look very smart and are especially convenient on a bench. Use any covering fabric you like, but advise that the white sunfast colors, as summer light, even with out sun, has power to fade.

Plants For Decoration

Set out all your potted plants to dress the porch steps or corners. Paint pots and boxes to hold the lovely green things and match, to stand under plants placed on tables or window sills.

Arrange your porch efficiently at the opening of the season so it will give you extra pleasure but no extra expense for summer is a season when you'll want fewer household chores.

machine-guns and eight mortar batteries were destroyed. The enemy lost more than 1,000 officers and men.

A resurgence of "local fighting" on the Leningrad front was disclosed, the communique saying that artillery-supported Russians repulsed two German attempts to regain positions which the Soviets had captured.

German dive-bombers supported the Nazi charges, but five of the planes were shot down and the Germans lost 300 men, the communique reported.

Another 300 Nazis were reported killed when Russian guerrillas in the Leningrad district derailed two Nazi troop trains.

The Russians apparently made no further offensive attempts in the Voznesch sector of the upper Don region, but the Nazis were reported to have suffered heavily in two unsuccessful counter-attacks there.

A 15,000-ton enemy transport was announced sunk in the Barents Sea. The Russians were using everything from hard-riding descendants of Genghis Khan's warriors to United States-made tanks and airplanes in turning back repeated attacks in the Kletskaya area near-east industrial Stalingrad.

As the thunder of battle rose to a new crescendo along the 300-mile Don front, the Soviet press raised a cry to the Red army to stand firm—"Die but don't retreat!"

The drive in the northern Caucasus below Rostov was reported slowed somewhat, but the High Command said grimly.

"Suffering heavy losses, the Germans succeeded in moving forward."

Typical Gesture

In a typical gesture, a shopkeeper in Pidgeon-English said, "America people all right; Japan people all right. Governments... here he held up his hands with crossed fingers.

Different attitudes were displayed toward Britons and Americans, the former receiving the propaganda of both people and propaganda.

One of the propaganda themes was that President Roosevelt was responsible for the war and that he was being removed the war could be ended.

Japanese who should have known better, including executives of the Japanese News Agency, Jomel, expressed this view.

One said, for instance, "We would like to be friends—if only President Roosevelt would change his mind."

By Reiman Morin (Associated Press Staff Writer)

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, (delayed), said the propaganda was a "typical gesture."

The sergeant was assigned to "protect" me for more than six months. I bowed and quickly replied, "I agree completely. How about letting me go downtown for dinner tonight?"

The sergeant blinked, hesitated but said he would ask his Commanding Officer.

He returned a few minutes later and said: "Very sorry. Colonel takes old-fashioned attitude about war."

The sergeant frankly disliked army life.

"I have been in uniform more than five years now," he complained, "and still I'm only a sergeant. What an army!"

To Command?

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—Appointment of a United States General as Commander-in-chief of an Allied invasion force in Europe would be entirely acceptable in Britain, it was said tonight by informed sources who could not be quoted directly.

The name of Gen. George O. Marshall, United States chief of staff, has been prominent in discussions of the subject both in the newspapers and in informed circles.

This appeared evident to this writer throughout his internment in Tokyo in contacts with subordinate guards and persons outside seen during trips for hospital and dental treatment.

It also appeared evident through contacts with members of the crew of the Asama Maru aboard which I came here with other released internees en route home.

While the officially-dictated press is depicting the Americans as "softies" and a lot worse, the average Japanese I met seemed to regard Americans as "old-hat."

A subordinate policeman on the night of April 15—the day after the United States army air force raided Japan—said he admired the American aviators who were courageous enough to fly a great distance to bomb Japan.

Cites Grievous Lot of Married M.P.'s

OTTAWA, July 31—(CP)—H. W. Winkler, Liberal member of the House of Commons for the Manitoba riding of Lisgar, who is a bachelor, predicts there are going to be more bachelors in the Commons unless income tax regulations are amended to ease the burden on members.

In a letter he circulated among members, Mr. Winkler says that while the allowance members of the Commons receive is termed an indemnity it is classed in income tax regulations as a salary and expenses incurred are not deductible.

Receiving an indemnity they cannot qualify for a cost of living bonus although increased living costs and long sessions have increased expenses.

"Certainly we can hardly expect any change in the principle of the Income Tax Act," but unless the regulations are altered to regard the indemnity as an indemnity we may soon see the bachelor membership of the House increased from its present 20 per cent.

"Bachelors do not go home to complaining wives."

WARM WEATHER IS FOE TO NUTRITION

With warm weather here, there is a tendency to cut calories beyond the safety point. They are the energy foods and it is bad enough at any time to go short on them but in these busy wartime summer days less time is being spent in a deck chair or on the beach and consequently people are eating less.

Remember to round out meals, the government's nutrition services warn. The increasingly plentiful vitamin and mineral supplements and fruits must be supplied by large enough energy producing foods to prevent vitality sagging between one meal and another.

In hot weather breakfasts are apt to be too light. Remember, say the nutritionists, that school age Johnny and Sally will probably burn up more calories in holiday time, so see that a whole grain cereal is introduced in the form for them as well as for the other busy members of the family.

PROTECT CANNING SEALS

When canning, don't try to tighten the ring on your jar after it has cooled. This may break the seal completely. As soon as the jar is moved from the canner, invert to test for leaks, then leave it alone.

If the seat of a cane chair sags and you don't want to buy a new one, wash with cold water starch to which has been added a good lump of soap. Dry in the sun or before the fire.

The per capita circulation of the paper for the world is estimated as $8.50.

Could Build Huge Fleet Of Cargo Planes

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP)—Henry J. Kaiser assured two Senate committees today that a signal from President Roosevelt would translate his vision of a fleet of giant cargo planes into an immense construction program.

Given "the green light" and a steady flow of materials, the Oakland, Calif., shipbuilder told a military affairs subcommittee, he could turn out the first of such ships within 10 months after receiving plans.

Not only could his shipyards be converted into part of the production of planes to speed up war deliveries, Kaiser declared, but the conversion would not interfere with his shipbuilding contracts, and Bethlehem and United States Steel Corporation and other shipbuilders would do likewise if President Roosevelt asked.
